ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Spy System

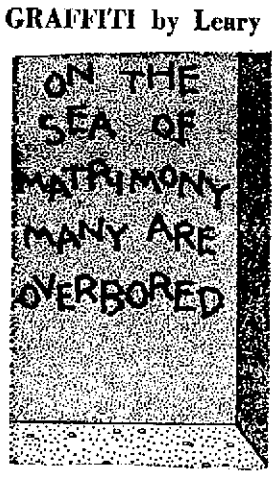

Q. Is it true that Lakewood is planning to install a closed circuit TV police surveillance system in 1970? L. B., Lakewood.

A. No. "We have no plans to use such a system," said Marshall Julian, city manager of Lakewood. "No one has even talked about it, really." He said you may be confusing this with several proposals to install a pay television system in homes throughout the city. None of the proposals has ever been put into effect, he added.

Shirt Tale

Q. Can you tell me the proper way to wash white permanent press shirts? After a few months of washing and drying them in an automatic dryer, they turn gray, and bleaching doesn't help. Is there anything I can do to regain the whiteness? C. T. B., Downey.

GRAFFITI by Leary

A. ACTION LINE has not found the answer to your problem, but a shirt manufacturer has volunteered to analyze chemically the shirts to clarify the situation. Since it is not one particular brand of shirt which is causing the trouble, the problem appears to be in your washing and it could be due to any number of circumstances. Permanent press fabrics are treated with a rosin finish which is baked in and this gives the material a "memory" of its smooth finish. This specially treated fabric does not require any special washing care, but the manufacturers do suggest that you use lukewarm water to prevent setting wrinkles in the fabric. You may use an automatic dryer or drip-dry the shirts. Certain excessively strong chemicals or very hot temperatures may affect the finish, but normal bleaching and automatic drying should not, according to a shirt manufactuurer. You may send one of your shirts to the Arrow Co., 430 Valley Drive, Brisbane, Calif., 94082, and they will analyze the problem free of charge.

Blooming Shame

Q. I ordered a collection of 23 iris plants from Walter Marx Gardens, Boring, Ore., in December of 1968. I have never received the plants and get no answer to my letters to them. Could you help me find out what has happened to them? F. T., Pico Rivera.

A. A spokesman for Walter Marx Gardens, said that your shipment was sent on August 17. She will put a tracer on the shipment. She added that, if they cannot locate your shipment, your money will be refunded.

Slow Pay

Q. I worked for a private school in Los Angeles from September 15 to November 15, and was promised a salary of $675 per month, but I only got $492.25. I applied to the Division of Labor Law Enforcement, but all they did was serve the owner of the school with papers. I still haven't got my money, and I would like to know what is happening. R. O., Long Beach.

A. The State Department of Labor Law Enforcement is working on your case and the legal process is moving forward as fast as possible, said a department spokesman. The office twice has notified your employer of the claim, and since he has failed to respond by paying the money or by explaining the problem, a hearing has been scheduled to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to verify your claim. The spokesman said they will exhaust every effort to get restitution of the money before filing charges with the district attorney.

The Park Way

Q. I live right across the street from Heartwell Park between Palo Verde and Woodruff Avenues. When we moved here 15 years ago, we were told this section of park, which now is just dirt and dust, would be developed in six months. But that section still is undeveloped and is used as a race strip, baseball park, and lovers' lane. Cars kick up all kinds of dust. Can't anything be done about this area? F. L., Long Beach.

A. Unfortunately, there are no funds available now for the development of that 36-acre strip of Heartwell Park, according to a spokesman for the Long Beach Park Department. "Eventually, we hope to put in trees, grass, off-street parking and regulation ball fields," the spokesman said, "but so far we just haven't been able to get funds for the project."

HOW TO USE ACTION LINE

When calling or writing with a problem or question, give your name, address and telephone number—not for publication, as only readers' initials are used in the column—but to help ACTION LINE help you. Nation Shivers in Cold

Power Failures Hit Areas in East and South

Associated Press

Subzero cold dipped into the Deep South, unaccustomed to such frigid temperatures. Nineteen deaths, including 10 in Tennessee, were attributed to the bitter cold.

Freezing weather in central Florida threatened fruit and vegetable crops, although the Agriculture Department said the cold Thursday and Friday was believed "to have caused little damage" to citrus crops.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission Friday night reported a serious shortage of power in the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland system. A spokesman said the PJM system, which also includes plants in Delaware, the District of Columbia and Virginia, was reducing voltage and interrupting its industrial loads to help meet its expected peak demand.

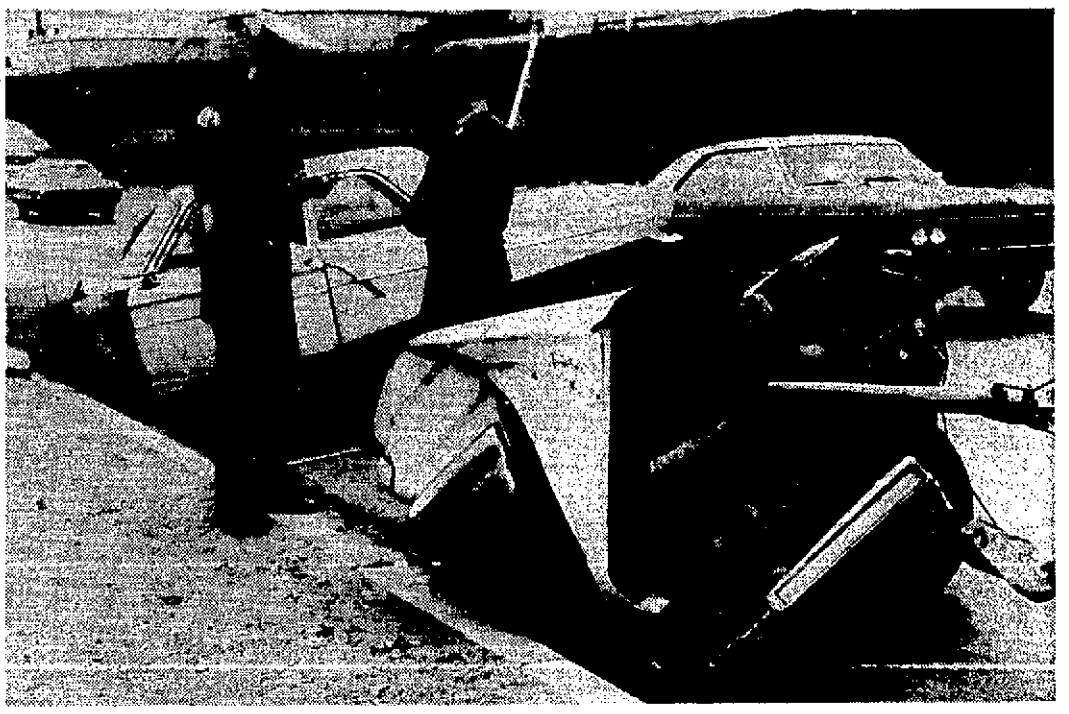

In New York, train service was affected, and many apartment dwellers were without heat. The cold in Washington, D.C., broke records.

AT MENA, in western Arkansas, a private utility hooked up an emergency gas line to the municipally-owned system. The gas flow had slowed earlier in the week and many residents were forced to seek warmth in homes of friends and relatives.

At Fayetteville, in northwestern Arkansas, the temperature was -15 Friday morning, and 6 to 8 inches of snow was on the

CAR CUT IN TWO, DRIVER SAFE

By DICK EMERY

Kenneth L. Steiger, 18, climbed out of one-half of his 1964 standard model American-made sedan Friday afternoon, and stared at the other half, lying 50 feet away in mid-highway.

A head-on crash with a truck had sheared his car in two. Neither he nor the truck driver received a scratch.

Steiger, of 2512 Bowfin Ave., San Pedro, told Officer Frank E. Weisman of feeling a skid of rear tires on wet pavement, on a curve of Wilmington-San Pedro Road in Wilmington, a split second before the crash.

"Something hit me and I saw the engine of my own car raising up in front of the windshield," Steiger said. "Then I was just sitting there in half of my car, still snugged down by the seat belt — and not hurt at all."

Police reported that the truck, driven by Matthew Felando, 35, of 1150 13th St., San Pedro, a longshoreman, was heavily damaged.

Young Steiger is a "music major, history minor" at California State College at Long Beach, he told officers, and was returning home from classes.

Fear Toll May Climb; 22 Injured

MARIETTA, Ohio (UPI) — Hospital officials said at least 21 persons were killed and 22 others injured Friday night as fire gutted a nursing home in this southeastern Ohio city. Police said the death toli may rise as high as 36.

Most of the victims were patients between 85 and 94 years old, many of whom were overcome by the intense smoke.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Charles Brown, who lives across the street from the nursing home, said he looked over "and couldn't see the home for the smoke."

"I HEARD somebody yelling, "Please help me,'" Brown said. "There was plenty of screaming. People were crying, 'Oh my God, help us.'"

John Burnworth, mayor of this Ohio River city of 15,000, said, "The home went up like cardboard."

Joseph S. Stubbs, director of Marietta Memorial Hospital, said he believed all patients and staff members of the nursing home had been accounted for. Stubbs said 19 of the bodies were at his hospital and two at Selby General Hospital.

Five of the persons hospitalized were in critical condition, the rest in fair condition. Among the injured were two firemen overcome by smoke.

The scene of the fire was the Harmer House Nursing Home, a one-story brick structure with an attic built about two years ago. It is located atop a hill near Lookout Point, one of the highest points in Ohio.

FIREMEN, hampered by zero-degree weather in fighting the blaze, used heaters to warm up some frozen fire hydrants.

Dr. Sam Howe, vice chief of staff at Selby Hospital, said "every ambulance from communities up to 14 miles away" was pressed into service transporting victims from the scene.

"I can't say much, this is a real shock to the community," Howe said. "It was a fine home, they were all local people . . . and it is a real shock."

Signal Hill Academy Bus Flips

A bus from a Signal Hill military academy slid off a winding road near Rolling Hills and flipped on its side Friday, injuring two of the 25 youngsters aboard.

Tim Carter, 11, was treated in San Pedro Community Hospital for a cut arm after the 4:18 p.m. accident on a rain-slick curve at Palos Verdes Drive South and Forrestal Drive.

Santa Ana Jurist Upholds Abortions

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

California's abortion law was declared unconstitutional Friday by a Santa Ana Municipal Court judge, who ruled women have a constitutional right not to bear children. The action marked the first time anywhere in the United States that such a law was found invalid by a judge.

The jurist, Paul G. Mast, freed Dr. Robert C. Robb, 62, of Dana Point, who was accused of aborting the pregnancies of four young women in his Laguna Beach office.

Judge Mast's ruling will be appealed by Orange County Dist. Atty. Cecil M. Hicks, who said, "This is only one magistrate's opinion; it is not binding on any other judge. Judge Mast's ruling is persuasive, however."

Hicks said he is uncertain whether to appeal Judge Mast's ruling to the Superior Court, to the state appellate court, or whether to seek a County Grand Jury indictment against Dr. Robb, and thus reopen the case.

He said he expects to reach a decision early next week, possibly by Monday.

"There has not been any trial or appellate court in the state of California

RTD PAIR WON'T CONTEST CHARGES

From Our L.A. Bureau

Two onetime officials of the Southern California Rapid Transit District pleaded "no contest" Friday to criminal conflict of interest charges involving the profit-making sale of 50 surplus RTD buses.

Two men — Dale W. Barratt and Raymond W. Gareau — will be sentenced Jan. 30. Their trial has been scheduled before Superior Court Judge Malcolm M. Lucas on April 15.

Testimony given before the County Grand Jury indicated the two men arranged for a go-between to buy the buses from the RTD for $40,000 less than their real value, then turn them over to a Salt Lake City transit firm in which both of the men were officers. The transaction took place in June 1968.

New Storm Moving In on Southland

However, a new storm front is developing which may bring scattered showers to the region again by late Sunday. They are expected to continue through Monday, a Weather Bureau spokesman said.

Showers which moved into the Southland late Friday dumped more than a half-inch of moisture in the Long Beach area, which recorded a daytime high of 65 and an overnight low of 46 degrees.

Today's high will be about 62 and the overnight low in the high 40s.

CRANSTON TO ASK $1.3 MILLION

Vets Hospital Funds Sought

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Senator Alan Cranston said Friday he hopes to secure a $1.3 million supplemental appropriation for the Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital.

Most of the money is needed to open four wards, which have a total capacity of 107 beds. The wards have been standing empty because the hospital can't afford to operate them, said Dr. James Glotfelty, director of the medical facility.

"I think we'll get (the appropriation) for him (Glotfelty)," the California Democrat said during an interview following his two-hour tour of the massive medical facility.

"I don't know how fast we'll be able to obtain the appropriation, but I believe we'll get it," he said.

Cranston, who also commented on such varied subjects as the up-coming California elections, President Nixon's "New Federalism" program and relations with Communist-bloc nations, toured the hospital after a four-hour hearing of the Senate subcommittee on veterans affairs, of which he is chairman.

The hearing, held at the West Los Angeles Federal Building, included testimony from VA personnel and representatives of organizations whose members receive medical care from the agency's 166 hospitals.

Chief roadblock toward providing the best possible care to persons utilizing VA hospitals is lack of funds, said Cranston, who predicted his subcommittee would issue a report on the matter in either February or March.

The committee has been conducting hearings on supplemental appropriations to the VA budget. Its sixth and final session will be held Jan. 27 in Washington, D.C.

According to Cranston, who predicted congressional and Administration support for increasing VA funds once the committee's report has been issued, lack of proper funds has created serious staff, equipment and bed shor-

Yank Grenades Root Reds From Viet Caves

SAIGON — U.S. troops hurling hand grenades and satchel charges rooted Communist infantrymen from caves on Black Virgin Mountain Friday in the second day of fighting that has killed 109 North Vietnamese, military spokesmen said Saturday. Eight Americans were killed and 16 wounded earlier in fighting on the mountain and elsewhere in South Vietnam. When the eight-hour battle on the boulder-strewn mountain that rears above Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of Saigon, ended at dusk Friday, American GIs counted 47 North Vietnamese bodies. Field reports said the Americans killed 62 Communists on the mountain.

France Sells Jets to Libya

PARIS — France has agreed to sell 50 Mirage warplanes to the revolutionary regime in Libya, government sources said Friday night. The contract forbids transfer of the planes to other nations, but arms experts agree that this would be difficult to enforce. Such a prospect has caused alarm in Israel, which fear the planes may be used against them. A first batch of 15 aircraft will be delivered to Libya in 1971, but delivery of the full 50 will take place over a long period of time.

Israeli Jets Hit Egypt, Lebanon

TEL AVIV — Israeli jets struck into Egypt and Lebanon Friday while Israeli and Egyptian ground forces battled across the Suez Canal. Lebanon protested to the United Nations against Israeli air raids on southern Lebanese areas. A spokesman said the Israeli air force kept up the pressure on Egyptian front line positions along the canal with a raid on targets in the northern sector of the waterway. He also said an Israeli soldier was killed and another wounded in mortar and artillery exchanges across the suez canal Friday night. Planes also raided suspected Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon for an hour and a half.

Flu Epidemic Claims 4,185 Britons

LONDON — Britain's flu epidemic has created a backlog of unburied bodies which will take up to 10 days to deal with, undertakers reported Friday. A total of 4,185 deaths were recorded in the epidemic throughout Britain over the past six weeks. The 2,400 deaths in the week ended last Saturday were the most since a previous influenza virus hit Britain in 1951.

Russ Fear New Border Strife

MOSCOW —The Soviet Union claimed Friday that Communist China was preparing for war. Ominous hints from both sides suggested new frontier tensions. The Kremlin launched its strongest propaganda barrage against Peking in four months as the Sino-Soviet border negotiations appeared to reach a deadlock. The Russians said chairman Mao Tse-tung declared in his new year's message that "as of today we have to resist aggression," which Peking claimed would come from the Soviet side.

Italy Thieves Get $800,000 From Church

PESCARA — Thieves broke into a church and made away with gold and art objects valued at $800,000 Friday. It was figured the thieves worked through the night to knock down the door and loot the shrine of St. Mary of the Assumption, one of the richest churches in Central Italy. The Rev. Kivio Castaldello said the thieves had made away with 33 pounds of gold jewels, a gold and richly ornate 17th-century monstrance, works of art and a 15th-century damask vestments of the statue. An early estimate put the value of the loot at half a billion lire — $800,000.

Agnew Talks to People of Singapore

SINGAPORE — Vice President Spiro Agnew Friday took his Asian tour into the streets of this storied port long defended by Britain. He said the U.S. might help in its defense after Britain's military withdrawal but that no U.S. troops would be involved. Agnew and his wife, Judy, arrived from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, for a 47-hour visit to Singapore. Newsmen accompanying Agnew asked him about this on the flight and the vice president said the U.S. might "assist" in regional defense arrangements in Southeast Asia.

Nixon's Assistance Plan Denounced

WASHINGTON — The American Conservative Union denounced President Nixon's family assistance plan Friday as a liberal scheme that would only make the existing "welfare mess" worse. The organization, issued a staff report on the Nixon proposal entitled "solution or socialism?" It concluded that the plan would not solve the problems of public welfare and instead would make welfare more comfortable, more respectable and more available, thus "risking corrupting 12 million more American citizens." John L. Jones, executive director of the conservative group, said the report would be used to campaign against the plan. The union already has asked the House Ways and Means Committee to reopen the hearings it held on the legislation last fall.

Abandon Search for Mountain Climbers

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK — The fate of five young climbers, lost on a bold winter climbing expedition, will remain buried under the ice and snow of two-mile-high Mt. Cleveland in Montana. Rangers were forced to give up the search Friday as a new storm front moved in. The five missing men, all Montana college students, set out Dec. 27 to climb the peak. An intensive search for them has been under way for a week.

F-111 Critic Cites Wing Defects

WASHINGTON — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., the critic of the F-111 fighter-bomber, said Friday the government should consider cancelling the entire program if the wing defect that caused a crash last month threatens all the planes. The Air Force grounded the F-111A, its version of the plane, pending an investigation of the Dec. 21 crash at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., in which two pilots were killed. Their plane's left wing fell off, and a crack subsequently was found in the heavy metal structure in which the plane's swing wings pivot.

Mississippi Carries Out Integration

JACKSON — School integration was peacefully carried out Friday in Mississippi's Leake County. Leake and the North Pike County areas were the latest to integrate Friday under a new order handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court calling for the complete and immediate desegregation of 30 Mississippi districts. About a dozen districts complied during the week, the first week of school following the Christmas holidays and the Dec. 31, 1969 deadline which the federal courts set in most cases. Thirteen other districts begin classes on an integrated basis Monday, and the others will open at staggered times within the next two weeks.

Smoking Cancer-Link 'Proved'

NEW YORK — Cancer researchers said Friday they have laboratory evidence that proves for the first time that cigarette smoking causes cell damage in the larynx or voice box. The cell damage increases with heavier smoking, they reported. Earlier, "strikingly similar" cell damage had been found in the bronchial tissue of the lung and the tissue of the esophagus in smokers. The findings in all these cases, the scientists said, are consistent with statistical studies linking death rates from cancer to smoking habits. Further, the scientists reported finding more evidence suggesting that cells damaged by smoking repair themselves in persons who have stopped smoking.

Nixon, 57, Ignores Protests

President Nixon planned a leisurely birthday dinner with his family Friday but cut short the visit to his daughter Julie and her husband David Eisenhower when 200 antiwar demonstrators showed up outside. Nothing could dampen the President's good spirits, however, and he stood with his family on the porch of the old apartment house despite the cold weather and waved to TV cameras, ignoring demonstrators' shouts of, "one, two, three, four, Richard Nixon end the war." Nixon, his wife Pat and daughter Tricia spent only about an hour and a half over Julie's turkey dinner with all the trimmings, and departed so suddenly that White House aides and newsmen were routed from a restaurant two blocks away without paying the checks. The First Family had been expected to stay at least another hour.

JULIE NIXON

Earlier, the Nixons were greeted at the House at 34 Bedford Terrace by a friendly crowd of about 500 persons who reached eagerly across waist-high snowbanks to shake the President's hand. One long haired youth, however, shouted "Pig! Pig! Pig!" into Nixon's face and a lone woman called to him to end the war. He ignored them both. One woman in the crowd told a reporter, "I'm ashamed of the way these kids are acting." For his 57th birthday, Julie gave him a picture of her entering the church on his arm for her wedding and some treated fireplace pinecones which burn with bright colors.

Yank Grenades Root Reds From Viet Caves

SAIGON — U.S. troops hurling hand grenades and satchel charges rooted Communist infantrymen from caves on Black Virgin Mountain Friday in the second day of fighting that has killed 109 North Vietnamese, military spokesmen said Saturday. Eight Americans were killed and 16 wounded earlier in fighting on the mountain and elsewhere in South Vietnam. When the eight-hour battle on the boulder-strewn mountain that rears above Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of Saigon, ended at dusk Friday, American GIs counted 47 North Vietnamese bodies. Field reports said the Americans killed 62 Communists on the mountain.

France Sells Jets to Libya

PARIS — France has agreed to sell 50 Mirage warplanes to the revolutionary regime in Libya, government sources said Friday night. The contract forbids transfer of the planes to other nations, but arms experts agree that this would be difficult to enforce. Such a prospect has caused alarm in Israel, which fear the planes may be used against them. A first batch of 15 aircraft will be delivered to Libya in 1971, but delivery of the full 50 will take place over a long period of time.

Israeli Jets Hit Egypt, Lebanon

TEL AVIV — Israeli jets struck into Egypt and Lebanon Friday while Israeli and Egyptian ground forces battled across the Suez Canal. Lebanon protested to the United Nations against Israeli air raids on southern Lebanese areas. A spokesman said the Israeli air force kept up the pressure on Egyptian front line positions along the canal with a raid on targets in the northern sector of the waterway. He also said an Israeli soldier was killed and another wounded in mortar and artillery exchanges across the suez canal Friday night. Planes also raided suspected Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon for an hour and a half.

Retiring State Board Member Blasts Rafferty

DORMAN L. COMMONS
Raps Rafferty Reign

MAX RAFFERTY
Declines Comment

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Retiring state Board of Education member Dorman L. Commons Friday charged California School Supt. Max Rafferty with "negligence and incompetance" at a time when "public education is faced by a critical leadership crisis."

Rafferty, who must seek re-election in June, declined comment on allegations made against him in a three-page document released during an otherwise quiet board meeting in Los Angeles.

"I stopped doing that in 1963," he said.

But member Eugene N. Ragle, an Auburn radio station manager named last year to the board by Gov. Ronald Reagan, took up the cudgels for Rafferty.

"This vitriolic outburst may very well be the sick swan song of a lonely lame duck," he responded.

Chief Deputy Supt. Everett Calvert also drew Commons' fire, being labeled an "incompetent."

"That's ridiculous," the deputy snorted. "In the seven years Max and I have been in Sacramento, he (Commons) never set foot in the department of education to see what's going on."

With the coming June primary obviously in mind, Commons declared "California cannot afford four more years of Dr. Rafferty. It is imperative that the voters restore constructive leadership in education, eliminate partisan politics from education at its highest level and replace divisiveness with reasoned and constructive programs."

Ragle's response avoided direct references to a coming electoral battle although he asserted that Commons "has forced his venal, partisan political views upon the public by prostituting his membership on this board to gain access to the mass news media."

The "'expiring' state board member" — Ragle's term — was said to be "again indulging his peculiar talent for character assassination.

Board President Howard Day, a Long Beach businessman, noted that Ragle was speaking solely for himself and not the governing body. "We could not and will not take sides (over the superintendency) in this election year," he said.

Currently there are no avowed candidates beyond Rafferty himself.

Rafferty and Calvert contested for the superintendency in 1962 elections, with the winner hiring the looser as his aide. In 1967, the legislature cut from the budget funds for Calvert's salary, but it was restored through the chief's intervention.

Friday's comments were never spoken aloud, with each man distributing copies of his written remarks to the press.

It was, in effect, Commons' swan song since his term expires Thursday along with those of Dr. Miguel Montes, San Fernando, and Mrs. Seymour Mathieson, Fresno.

While Gov. Reagan has yet to name successors, or reappoint them, it seemed certain that Commons, who usually assumes a liberal stance, was finishing his last day's board duty.

His was the single "no" vote Thursday on the "Moomaw moral code" since the conservative "Klotz code" was not, in his words, "repudiated."

A Los Angeles oil company executive who lives in Fullerton, Commons served as board president in 1967.

He charged that during Rafferty's seven years in office, "Drug abuse on elementary and high school campuses has soared, student disaffection and unrest have risen alarmingly, financial crisis has threatened to destroy or seriously impair the ability of California school districts to function, and the problems of our crowded, under-financed urban schools have intensified."

While Dr. Rafferty "obviously was not responsible for the rise of these problems," Commons continued, "his contribution to their solution has been negative. His administration has been marked by negligence and incompetence, his efforts disruptive rather than constructive . . . He misused his nonpartisan position for personal political gain, and instead of solutions he has offered rhetorical irrelevancies."

Rafferty ran for a U.S. Senate seat in 1968 but was defeated by Democrat Alan Cranston.

Ragle said that "public education is indeed in a crisis — and the blame falls squarely on the shoulders of Mr. Commons . . . and the partisan obstructionist members of the state legislature who have consistently thwarted the constructive efforts of Gov. Reagan and Dr. Rafferty.

"It is both sad and shocking that Commons should so completely abuse his position of public trust and responsibility."

'JUST A PUT-ON'

'Robbin' Hood' Pleads Innocent

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

"Robin Hood" turned up in a Costa Mesa Court Friday and pleaded innocent to charges he was trying to solicit a modern band of merry men to raid the rich — like his legendary namesake — when he wrote an article for an underground newspaper.

The 23-year-old "Robin Hood" — known as Don Elder, part owner of a Newport Beach bookstore when he isn't writing for the underground paper, "From Out of Sherwood Forest," made his plea before Judge Calvin P. Schmidt in Division one of Harbor Muncipal Court.

A 9 a.m. Jan. 21 preliminary hearing was set by Judge Schmidt on the charges . . . five felony counts of soliciting for the crime of burglary and five misdemeanor counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

ELDER'S UNIQUE legal problems stem from publication last month of an article entitled "Outlaw Blues," in the underground paper.

"Stealing from companies which are stealing from the people is not dishonest," his article maintained adding, it is a small and unimportant way of striking back" at companies that charge more than they should.

The article said shoplifting, however, should be limited to big merchants since small businessmen are "caught in the capitalist game like we are."

Orange County officials did not think the article was funny but did nothing about it until Dec. 31, when a police report was submitted by the district attorney's office to Judge Schmidt. The D.A. paper said articles had fallen into the hands of minors and that one of its publishers was Elder.

Judge Schmidt issued a warrant for his arrest the same day. Elder remained in jail until Jan. 2 when he was released on $1,875 bail.

Elder's attorney, Richard Petherbridge of Santa Ana, has termed the tone of the newspaper a "put on" and questioned whether an article in such a paper really constitutes solicitation.

"MY RESEARCH indicates that there must be some form of personal contact in order to constitute legal solicitation. What bothers me is where does all this lead us? If this can be a crime, what about the high school cheer leaders who yell 'Give 'em the ax,'" he said.

Immediately following Friday morning's five-minute arraignment, Elder and about 200 members of a loosely-knit SDS-affiliate group known as the Committee to Free Political Prisoners filed into the park across the street from the courthouse for a rally.

Participants sat on the grass and listened as six speakers, including Barry Weinberg, an organizer of Students for Democratic Action at Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa; Steve Shapiro, a University of California Irvine professor, and Elder spoke.

"The question is not whether we support shoplifting, but that we are speaking out," Elder told them. "They (the community) are afraid of us. They are afraid of people getting together."

He vowed the underground newspaper will continue to publish.

L.B. Fisherman Hits Anchovy Rule

A Long Beach fisherman warns that a State Fish and Game Commission ruling to increase the seasonal anchovy catch by 65,000 tons threatens to drive the species into extinction in the Southland area.

Bill Verna, operator of bait boats "Cathy J" and "City of Long Beach," said Friday's commission move to set the yearly catch limit at 140,000 tons was a "very bad move from my point of view."

"What's more," he said, "I believe a large number of sport fishermen will agree with me. Only the commercial fishing industry benefits from the new limit.

"That wouldn't be so bad if they were using the fish for food, but for some time now most of the commercial anchovy catch has been used to make fertilizer."

Verna SAID anchovy schools now run as far as 10 miles from shore.

"The anchovy is the last fish we have out here in any great numbers," he said. "It used to be you'd find them even inside the harbor. But now, if the commercial fishing industry keeps depleting them, the anchovy will disappear from Southland waters altogether."

Approval to take the additional 65,000 tons of anchovies was given by a voice vote of the Fish and Game Commission after nearly three hours of debate between spokesmen for the industry and sports fishermen.

Commissioner Peter T. Fletcher of Rancho Santa Fe moved the additional 65,000 tons may be divided, with half to be caught close to shore and the other half further off shore.

Tony Nizetich of Star-Kist Foods in San Pedro requested an additional 75,000 tons on behalf of the industry.

COMMERCIAL industry's request was supported by the Department of Fish and Game and by marine scientists, who testified that the taking of added tonnage would have no appreciable effect on the anchovy population.

APPEARING in opposition were Robert Vile and Robert E. Ketcham, president and vice president respectively of the Ocean Fish Protective Association.

Representing the sport fishing industry, they said it was unwise to deplete the anchovy population further without first determing what effect it would have on other species in the sea.

Panther Hearings Delayed

Preliminary hearings for 18 Black Panther party members arrested in police raids last month were postponed Friday after two of the defendants were reported ill.

Attorney Leo Branton Jr. told Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge James H. Brown that defendants Robert Bryan and Craig Williams were both hospitalized with illnesses.

Branton added that his clients reported the city jail "rampant with rats" and thought it would be a "miracle" if those jailed made it through the lengthy made it through lengthy preliminary hearing without becoming ill.

INVITED to make a personal inspection of the jail, Brown said he would confer with the sheriff's office.

The hearings were postponed until Tuesday after Brown denied a motion by another defense attorney, Phil Silver, to strike down a search warrant used by police in the raids, one of which resulted in a four hour gun battle at the Panthers' Central Avenue headquarters.

'Curious (Yellow)' Case Ruling Delayed by Judge

U.S. District Judge Francis G. Whalen delayed ruling Friday on a motion that would prohibit Los Angeles County officials from making further arrests or film seizures involving "I Am Curious, (Yellow)".

Whalen took under submission a motion for a preliminary injunction against both county and Los Angeles city officials filed in behalf of Grove Press, Inc., local and national distributors of the controversial Swedish sex film.

HOWEVER, the judge ordered a temporary injunction—issued earlier and containing the same restrictions—to remain in effect until he hands down his ruling.

The temporary restraining order expires Monday.

Whalen also took under submission another motion by Grove Press, Inc., to convene a three-judge panel to decide the constitutionality of California's obscenity and search and seizure laws.

Atty. Stanley Fleishman, counsel for the film owners, argued during the two-hour federal court hearing in Los Angeles, that seizure of the film by authorities constitutes violations of the free speech and press provisions of the Constitution.

Deputy County Counsel Michael Dougherty and Assistant City Atty. George Franscell argued against the motions.

The legal actions came as a result of raids last Dec. 29 by city and county officers on Los Angeles, Inglewood and Hermosa Beach theaters where the film was being shown.

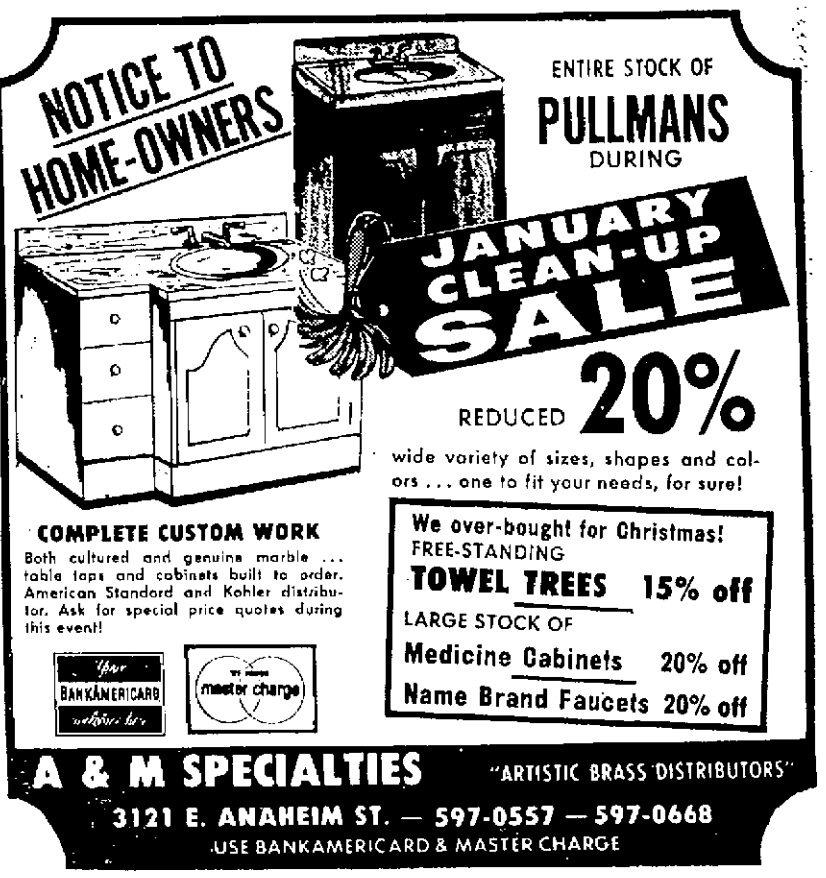

GROVE PRESS, Inc., later filed a $250,000 law suit against city and county officials, and they are seeking recovery of eight films confiscated in the raids.

Long Beach police 48 hours later seized a print of "I Am Curious (Yellow)" which was being shown New Year's Eve at United Artists Theater, 217 E. Ocean Blvd.

But theater officials got another copy of the film a day later, and it is still being exhibited here.

DEPUTY District Atty. Richard Hirsch told the Independent, Press-Telegram that he expects Judge Whalen to hand down his ruling within a week.

Hirsch also pointed out that while the temporary restraining order blocks law enforcement authorities from making arrests or seizing the film, they are not prohibited from issuing citations for alleged violations.

Retiring State Board Member Blasts Rafferty

DORMAN L. COMMONS

MAX RAFFERTY
Declines Comment

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Retiring state Board of Education member Dorman L. Commons Friday charged California School Supt. Max Rafferty with "negligence and incompetance" at a time when "public education is faced by a critical leadership crisis."

Rafferty, who must seek re-election in June, declined comment on allegations made against him in a three-page document released during an otherwise quiet board meeting in Los Angeles.

"I stopped doing that in 1963," he said.

But member Eugene N. Ragle, an Auburn radio station manager named last year to the board by Gov. Ronald Reagan, took up the cudgels for Rafferty.

"This vitriolic outburst may very well be the sick swan song of a lonely lame duck," he responded.

"That's ridiculous," the deputy snorted. "In the seven years Max and I have been in Sacramento, he (Commons) never set foot in the department of education to see what's going on."

With the coming June primary obviously in mind, Commons declared "California cannot afford four more years of Dr. Rafferty. It is imperative that the voters restore constructive leadership in education, eliminate partisan politics from education at its highest level and replace divisiveness with reasoned and constructive programs."

Ragle's response avoided direct references to a coming electoral battle although he asserted that Commons "has forced his venal, partisan political views upon the public by prostituting his membership on this board to gain access to the mass news media."

The "'expiring' state board member" — Ragle's term — was said to be "again indulging his peculiar talent for character assassination.

Board President Howard Day, a Long Beach businessman, noted that Ragle was speaking solely for himself and not the governing body. "We could not and will not take sides (over the superintendency) in this election year," he said.

Currently there are no avowed candidates beyond Rafferty himself.

Rafferty and Calvert contested for the superintendency in 1962 elections, with the winner hiring the looser as his aide. In 1967, the legislature cut from the budget funds for Calvert's salary, but it was restored through the chief's intervention.

Friday's comments were never spoken aloud, with each man distributing copies of his written remarks to the press.

It was, in effect, Commons' swan song since his term expires Thursday along with those of Dr. Miguel Montes, San Fernando, and Mrs. Seymour Mathieson, Fresno.

While Gov. Reagan has yet to name successors, or reappoint them, it seemed certain that Commons, who usually assumes a liberal stance, was finishing his last day's board duty.

His was the single "no" vote Thursday on the "Moomaw moral code" since the conservative "Klotz code" was not, in his words, "repudiated."

A Los Angeles oil company executive who lives in Fullerton, Commons served as board president in 1967.

He charged that during Rafferty's seven years in office, "Drug abuse on elementary and high school campuses has soared, student disaffection and unrest have risen alarmingly, financial crisis has threatened to destroy or seriously impair the ability of California school districts to function, and the problems of our crowded, under-financed urban schools have intensified."

While Dr. Rafferty "obviously was not responsible for the rise of these problems," Commons continued, "his contribution to their solution has been negative. His administration has been marked by negligence and incompetence, his efforts disruptive rather than constructive . . . He misused his non-partisan position for personal political gain, and instead of solutions he has offered rhetorical irrelevancies."

Rafferty ran for a U.S. Senate seat in 1968 but was defeated by Democrat Alan Cranston.

Ragle said that "public education is indeed in a crisis — and the blame falls squarely on the shoulders of Mr. Commons . . . and the partisan obstructionist members of the state legislature who have consistently thwarted the constructive efforts of Gov. Reagan and Dr. Rafferty.

"It is both sad and shocking that Commons should so completely abuse his position of public trust and responsibility."

'JUST A PUT-ON'

'Robbin' Hood' Pleads Innocent

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

"Robin Hood" turned up in a Costa Mesa Court Friday and pleaded innocent to charges he was trying to solicit a modern band of merry men to raid the rich — like his legendary namesake — when he wrote an article for an underground newspaper.

The 23-year-old "Robin Hood" — known as Don Elder, part owner of a Newport Beach bookstore when he isn't writing for the underground paper, "From Out of Sherwood Forest," made his plea before Judge Calvin P. Schmidt in Division one of Harbor Muncipal Court.

A 9 a.m. Jan. 21 preliminary hearing was set by Judge Schmidt on the charges . . . five felony counts of soliciting for the crime of burglary and five misdemeanor counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

ELDER'S UNIQUE legal problems stem from publication last month of an article entitled "Outlaw Blues," in the underground paper.

"Stealing from companies which are stealing from the people is not dishonest," his article maintained adding, it is a small and unimportant way of striking back" at companies that charge more than they should.

The article said shoplifting, however, should be limited to big merchants since small businessmen are "caught in the capitalist game like we are."

Orange County officials did not think the article was funny but did nothing about it until Dec. 31, when a police report was submitted by the district attorney's office to Judge Schmidt. The D.A. paper said articles had fallen into the hands of minors and that one of its publishers was Elder.

Judge Schmidt issued a warrant for his arrest the same day. Elder remained in jail until Jan. 2 when he was released on $1,875 bail.

Elder's attorney, Richard Petherbridge of Santa Ana, has termed the tone of the newspaper a "put on" and questioned whether an article in such a paper really constitutes solicitation.

"MY RESEARCH indicates that there must be some form of personal contact in order to constitute legal solicitation. What bothers me is where does all this lead us? If this can be a crime, what about the high school cheer leaders who yell 'Give 'em the ax,'" he said.

Immediately following Friday morning's five-minute arraignment, Elder and about 200 members of a loosely-knit SDS-affiliate group known as the Committee to Free Political Prisoners filed into the park across the street from the courthouse for a rally.

Participants sat on the grass and listened as six speakers, including Barry Weinberg, an organizer of Students for Democratic Action at Orange Coast College in Costa Mesa; Steve Shapiro, a University of California Irvine professor, and Elder spoke.

"The question is not whether we support shoplifting, but that we are speaking out," Elder told them. "They (the community) are afraid of us. They are afraid of people getting together."

He vowed the underground newspaper will continue to publish.

L.B. Fisherman Hits Anchovy Rule

A Long Beach fisherman warns that a State Fish and Game Commission ruling to increase the seasonal anchovy catch by 65,000 tons threatens to drive the species into extinction in the Southland area.

Bill Verna, operator of bait boats "Cathy J" and "City of Long Beach," said Friday's commission move to set the yearly catch limit at 140,000 tons was a "very bad move from my point of view."

"What's more," he said, "I believe a large number of sport fishermen will agree with me. Only the commercial fishing industry benefits from the new limit.

"That wouldn't be so bad if they were using the fish for food, but for some time now most of the commercial anchovy catch has been used to make fertilizer."

Verna SAID anchovy schools now run as far as 10 miles from shore.

"The anchovy is the last fish we have out here in any great numbers," he said. "It used to be you'd find them even inside the harbor. But now, if the commercial fishing industry keeps depleting them, the anchovy will disappear from Southland waters altogether."

Approval to take the additional 65,000 tons of anchovies was given by a voice vote of the Fish and Game Commission after nearly three hours of debate between spokesmen for the industry and sports fishermen.

Commissioner Peter T. Fletcher of Rancho Santa Fe moved the additional 65,000 tons may be divided, with half to be caught close to shore and the other half further off shore.

Tony Nizetich of Star-Kist Foods in San Pedro requested an additional 75,000 tons on behalf of the industry.

COMMERCIAL industry's request was supported by the Department of Fish and Game and by marine scientists, who testified that the taking of added tonnage would have no appreciable effect on the anchovy population.

APPEARING in opposition were Robert Vile and Robert E. Ketcham, president and vice president respectively of the Ocean Fish Protective Association.

Representing the sport fishing industry, they said it was unwise to deplete the anchovy population further without first determing what effect it would have on other species in the sea.

Defense Cuts Off 7,310 Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Friday the elimination of 7,310 civilian jobs at 50 U.S. military bases.

The move is designed to save $57 million a year in defense spending.

It brings to 76,700 the number of civilian jobs being abolished in the services under the Nixon administration.

The Army said it will let go 5,037 employes at 44 military installations across the country.

The Navy announced elimination of 1,685 civilian jobs at three naval facilities and at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The Air Force said it is doing away with 567 civilian slots at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

The Defense Atomic support Agency reported it is eliminating 21 civilian jobs at Barksdale Air Force Base, Bossier City, La.

M'ARTHUR TO LOSE 126 EMPLOYES

Fort MacArthur will lose 126 civilian employes within the next two months as part of the Army's announced cut of 5,037 employes at 43 Army installations in the continental United States.

Lt. Col. Gene N. Castleberry, information officer at the San Pedro post, who reported the curtailment Friday, said the reduction will affect about 20 per cent of Fort MacArthur's employes. The post's civilian work force will level off at 548, he said.

Col. Castleberry said the cuts actually are cuts in jobs, rather than layoffs of persons, and that a reshuffling of personnel will result.

The cutback also will eliminate 153 jobs at Camp Pendleton.

Crash Kills Elderly L.B. Man

Thomas Maguire, of 670 Ximeno Ave., was dead on arrival at Community Hospital at 4:22 p.m. after the grinding, two-car accident at Los Coyotes Diagonal and Ximeno Avenue.

Officer Harry M. Kartinen said Maguire pulled his car into the path of a camper driven by Roger A. Plumlee, 22, of 1725 Freeman Ave.

Plumlee, who was uninjured, told police he braked when he saw Maguire's car pull into the intersection but slid into his auto on the slick pavement.

After the impact, Maguire's car spun across the raised center divider, two lanes of traffic and a service road before coming to rest on a lawn.

Plumlee was not cited or held.

L.B. Tug Steams Help to Trouble-Hit Tanker

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A Long Beach-based tugboat bearing pumps, fuel and a New York ship engineer is steaming through the storm-tossed Pacific this morning towards a stricken, drifting tanker laden with jet fuel.

The tanker, the 676-foot-long Connecticut out of the Port of Los Angeles, was aided Friday by two helicopters and a plane from the USS Hornet, the recovery ship for the first astronauts returning from the moon.

SEVERAL other Navy ships and freighters were standing by near the tanker, although it appeared there would be no need to evacuate its 40 crewmen and the captain's wife.

The vessel ran into trouble early Friday when its engines were killed by water pouring through the driveshaft packing.

Capt. Ernest Ayres of Pasadena, Tex., said then that his ship was being buffeted by 60 m.p.h. winds and 20-foot swells and there was seven feet of water in the engine room.

FOUR PORTABLE pumps dropped by the Coast Guard ran out of gas, but after a helicopter dropped additional pumps and gasoline, crewmen were able to draw out more sea water than was coming in.

The 118-foot tugboat Pacific Mariner, dispatched by the Pacific Towboat and Salvage Co. of San Pedro, was expected to reach the Connecticut at 8 this morning.

Capt. George Schmitt, district manager for the Atlas Steamship Co., agents for the Connecticut, said he hoped the engineer and equipment aboard the Pacific Mariner could fire the tanker's engines, but the tug will tow the Connecticut back to port if that fails.

THE TUG CREW will string out 1,500 feet of pneumatic hose to pump compressed air aboard the tanker to atomize the ship's fuel in hopes of firing its boilers, Charles Slocum of the tug company explained.

The captain's wife was aboard, signing on as librarian, so she could make the trip to Japan.

A Coast Guard helicopter lowered one emergency pump which was put into quick operation. Two others were lost, but three more were lowered as murky daylight improved visibility.

Judge Challenges Abortion Laws

which has considered the Constitutionality of the Theraputic Abortion Act of 1967, nor has there been any prior consideration in any of the American jurisdictions of any law similar to the present California statute," Judge Mast said.

He traced two out-of-state cases dealing with abortions, but found "they were decided upon the narrow grounds of ambiguity and uncertainty of the language of the statutes. As such, they sidestepped and avoided the primary constitutional issue . . .

"A WOMAN HAS a right to life and to choose whether to bear children," Judge Mast said in his nine-page opinion. "The woman's right to life is involved because childbirth involves risk of death.

"The right of the woman to choose whether to bear children follows from the United States and California Supreme Courts' acknowledgement of a right of privacy or liberty in matters related to marriage, family and sex.

"The critical issue is not whether such rights exist, but whether the state has a compelling interest in its regulations. . . ."

Section by section, Judge Mast considered California's abortion law and decided that all of it was invalid.

In considering the legal ways under which a woman can have a pregnancy aborted, the court dealt with a pregnancy resulting from incest.

"However, in order to qualify, a woman must admit that she has committed incest. . . ." said Judge Mast, who decided such information could be used only for prosecution. This would violate the privilege against self-incrimination, he contended.

"THE NEXT question is whether the legislature can delegate authority to doctors and hospitals to decide when abortions should be permitted," he stated in finding the abortion act to be "an improper delegation of legislative authority" in such cases.

Such delegation also violates the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment, he stated.

Judge Mast also found "a distinct disparity in treatment and operation of the (abortion) law in different geographic areas of the state," and said it was the result of improper delegation or legislative authority."

"There is a pronounced disparity of treatment between the rich and the poor," he stated in the opinion.

Fewer abortions are granted to charity cases than wealthy patients, and, "the result is that the rich can arrange for abortions under the present law almost at will," he said. "The poor cannot."

In addition, Judge Mast found the abortion law "vague and uncertain" in its reference to possible mental illness of a woman who asks for an abortion. He ruled the health issue is not clearly defined in the law.

Reviewing various cases dealing with the right of the state to police its population, the court found most of them "make it clear that private sexual relations are beyond the purview of the state."

One of the most cherished fundamental rights of any person is "a right of privacy and a right to conduct interpersonal relationships between individuals in such a manner as the individuals choose," the judge ruled.

The delicate question of when life begins was considered at length by Judge Mast and he contended there is no proof that life exists at conception.

"We cannot permit a legislative theory which decrees that life begins at conception," he said. "To do so would be to blandly adopt the philosophy of one of the country's major religions, an act which clearly would be in violation of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution."

Thus, Judge Mast ruled, there is "no compelling interest of the state to decide the right of a woman to bear or not to bear children."

In 1850, when the first California abortion law was enacted, the state had "a compelling interest in increasing the population of the state," Judge Mast said. "We need not consider this argument further."

HOSPITAL

tages in the VA hospital system.

"I DON'T WANT to place a dollar amount on how much in supplemental appropriations will be needed," Cranston said, "but I can say the committee's report will indicate a substantial shortage of funds exists."

On other matters, Cranston, who said he will remain "neutral" during the California Democratic primary election, termed the state's senior senator, Republican George Murphy, a tough man to beat.

He lauded recent efforts by President Nixon's Administration to seek reapproachment between the United States and Red China, and termed increasing trade with Communist nations a good thing as long as strategic items are not sold to them.

CRANSTON sounded a cautious note on the New Federalism program, which seeks to channel money and responsibility for operation of federal projects through state governments.

"I don't know whether the 'state house approach' is best for meeting the internal problems of the United States during the 1970s," Cranston said.

Accompanying the senator and two of his aides on the VA hospital tour were Dr. Glotfelty and other hospital officials.

GLOTFELTY termed the level of care provided to the hospital's patients "excellent," but said the facility needs $1.3 million during fiscal year 1970-71 to bolster its annual operating budget of $25 million.

The lion's share of the additional funds, he said, would go toward opening the four wards, which have been standing idle for more than a year because of the shortage of money.

GLOTFELTY said the hospital is the largest general medical and surgical facility within the VA system

Some 95,000 persons receive VA medical care nationwide, he said.

Included in Cranston's tour were visits to an intensive care ward, chats with paralyzed Vietnam veterans, a look at the hospital's rehabilitation facilities and discussions with administrators and medical personnel.

Girl's Body Recovered From Sea

The body of 10-year-old Alta Sexton, who drowned in a New Year's Day boating accident which took the lives of four members of her family and two other persons, was recovered from the ocean off El Segundo Friday.

Surfers discovered the child's body floating 50 yards off the beach and notified county lifeguards, who made the recovery and confirmed the victim's identification.

Other victims of the boating tragedy off Manhattan Beach were the Sexton Girl's father, Albert; two sisters, Marla, 16, and Charla, 3, and brother, Leon, 16; Sexton's 7-year-old grandson, Jamie Hinton, and and a family friend, Pernell Washington, 22, all of Los Angeles.

The accident occurred when a 26-foot cabin cruiser owned by a Compton couple split in two in heavy surf. Seven other persons aboard were rescued.

'IMPACTED' SCHOOLS

Finch to Fight 'Porkbarrel' Aid

By LOU CANNON
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration Friday vowed a fight to the finish with Congress over educational aid programs that Health and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch described as "a joke and a porkbarrel."

While critical of several congressional changes in the education budget proposals submitted by the Administration, Finch singled out for special attack a pet congressional program that earmarks funds for local educational agencies affected by federal installations.

This program, known as "impacted aid," was boosted $400 million by Congress over Administration objections.

In an interview here, Finch called it "a boondoggle" and cited a recently-completed report which contends the assistance is unfairly distributed.

THE REPORT, prepared by the Batelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, shows that the hundred poorest school districts in the country received a total of only $3.2 million in 'impacted aid" while a single suburban county in metropolitan Washington, Maryland's Montgomery County, received $5.8 million.

Finch said the program failed to attack the problem of providing sufficient federal assistance for impoverished school districts and did not in any way take into account the local and state contributions to a given district.

President Nixon has already indicated that he will veto the appropriation if this increase and others are retained by Congress. But Finch for the first time made clear Friday that the Administration was prepared to risk a congressional defeat and take its case to the people if necessary.

After conceding that the Administration effort to reduce the impacted aid allocations would be "a tough fight to win," Finch said:

"If you want to have a Truman vs. the Congress fight, we'll see who stands with the President . . .

THE REFERENCE was to President Harry Truman's prolonged battle with Congress in 1947 and 1948. Truman lost many of his congressional battles but he won re-election with a campaign theme of a "do-nothing Congress."

The difference between the Nixon and the Truman situations is that the present Administration wants Congress to spend less money on various social programs.

But Finch insisted that the primary issue is not the amount of federal dollars but the ways in which they are spent.

"We put together a very solid budget," Finch said. "We asked for $24 million for experimental schools and they (the Congress) knocked that out."

He said that Congress, instead of experimenting, preferred "the same old establishment programs" such as compensatory education despite any positive evidence that the programs are working.

The Administration's political difficulty with overturning impacted aid is that the program tends to unite liberal congressmen who favor greater federal expenditures on education in almost any form and conservative Southern Democrats whose districts receive major allocations.

The Tennessee Valley Authority reported peak power production, but still short of its maximum capacity.

FRIDAY temperatures included -15 on Holston Mountain and at Newfound Gap in eastern Tennessee; -11 a Crossville, -6 at Gatlinburg, -3 at Knoxville and zero at Nashville and Jackson.

Some record lows around the country included: Casper, Wyo., -7; Milwaukee -5; Indianapolis -7; North Platte, Neb., -10; Des Moines, Iowa -6; Detroit and Chicago -2; Albany, N.Y., Cincinnati, Minneapolis and Burlington, Vt. -1.

Washington, D.C.'s 4 was a record for the date. At Dulles International Airport northwest of the city the temperature was -7.

The Washington Gas Light Co. reported 800 million cubic feet of natural gas distributed to area customers in 24 hours Thursday and Friday, the highest amount in company's 121-year history.

The U.S. Coast Guard District Headquarters at Portsmouth, Va., instituted ice breaker convoy service for low powered vessels in the upper Chesapeake Bay, where ice was 2 to 5 inches thick.

PORTIONS of the Potomac River also were closed to small craft for the first time this season.

Russellville, Ala., had a low of -4, and at Wetumpka, Ala., students were evacuated from a high school when a leak caused by extreme temperatures was discovered in the gas main. It was repaired in two hours.

In Atlanta, neighborhood antipoverty centers remained open to provide a warm place for those needing it. Sanitation workers in that city stopped collecting garbage because it was frozen. The Ford Motor Co. closed its assembly plant in Atlanta because there was insufficient fuel to operate drying ovens.

A 14-block area of Albany, Ga., was without heat most of Thursday because of low gas pressure.

Natural gas deliveries to industrial customers in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina were curtailed after gas lines froze in southern Louisiana.

Miami had power failures as transformers became overloaded with the drain produced by electric blankets and space heaters and blew fuses. Miami Beach recorded a low of 37 degrees, a 19-year-old record.

Chicanos' Mass in Reparation

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — A group of Mexican-Americans will hold a "mass of reparation" for the Chritmas Eve demonstration at St. Basil's Roman Catholic church, it was announced Friday.

The organization, Cursillos for Christ, will attend the mass in our Lady Queen of Angels Church, the city's oldest church, at 1:15 p.m. Sunday. Celebrant will be Father Joseph Eslava, C.M.F.

The service, the group said, "will be offered in reparation for the breaking of church doors on Chrismas eve, and the desecration of the altar Christmas morning at St. Basil's Church."

Defense Cuts Off 7,310 Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Friday the elimination of 7,310 civilian jobs at 50 U.S. military bases.

The move is designed to save $57 million a year in defense spending.

It brings to 76,700 the number of civilian jobs being abolished in the services under the Nixon administration.

The Army said it will let go 5,037 employes at 44 military installations across the country.

The Navy announced elimination of 1,685 civilian jobs at three naval facilities and at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The Air Force said it is doing away with 567 civilian slots at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

The Defense Atomic support Agency reported it is eliminating 21 civilian jobs at Barksdale Air Force Base, Bossier City, La.

M'ARTHUR TO LOSE 126 EMPLOYES

Fort MacArthur will lose 126 civilian employes within the next two months as part of the Army's announced cut of 5,037 employes at 43 Army installations in the continental United States.

Lt. Col. Gene N. Castleberry, information officer at the San Pedro post, who reported the curtailment Friday, said the reduction will effect about 20 per cent of Fort MacArthur's employes. The post's civilian work force will level off at 548, he said.

Col. Castleberry said the cuts actually are cuts in jobs, rather than layoffs of persons, and that a reshuffling of personnel will result.

The cutback also will eliminate 153 jobs at Camp Pendleton.

Crash Kills Elderly L.B. Man

Thomas Maguire, of 670 Ximeno Ave., was dead on arrival at Community Hospital at 4:22 p.m. after the grinding, two-car accident at Los Coyotes Diagonal and Ximeno Avenue.

Officer Harry M. Kartinen said Maguire pulled his car into the path of a camper driven by Roger A. Plumlee, 22, of 1725 Freeman Ave.

Plumlee, who was uninjured, told police he braked when he saw Maguire's car pull into the intersection but slid into his auto on the slick pavement.

After the impact, Maguire's car spun across the raised center divider, two lanes of traffic and a service road before coming to rest on a lawn.

Plumlee was not cited or held.

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A Long Beach-based tugboat bearing pumps, fuel and a New York ship engineer is steaming through the storm-tossed Pacific this morning towards a stricken, drifting tanker laden with jet fuel.

The tanker, the 676-foot-long Connecticut out of the Port of Los Angeles, was aided Friday by two helicopters and a plane from the USS Hornet, the recovery ship for the first astronauts returning from the moon.

SEVERAL other Navy ships and freighters were standing by near the tanker, although it appeared there would be no need to evacuate its 40 crewmen and the captain's wife.

The vessel ran into trouble early Friday when its engines were killed by water pouring through the driveshaft packing.

Capt. Erenst Ayres of Pasadena, Tex., said then that his ship was being buffeted by 60 m.p.h. winds and 20-foot swells, and there was seven feet of water in the engine room.

FOUR PORTABLE pumps dropped by the Coast Guard ran out of gas, but after a helicopter dropped additional pumps and gasoline, crewmen were able to draw out more sea water than was coming in.

The 118-foot tugboat Pacific Mariner, dispatched by the Pacific Towboat and Salvage Co. of San Pedro, was expected to reach the Connecticut at 8 this morning.

Capt. George Schmitt, district manager for the Atlas Steamship Co., agents for the Connecticut, said he hoped the engineer and equipment aboard the Pacific Mariner could fire the tanker's engines, but the tug will tow the Connecticut back to port if that fails.

THE TUG CREW will string out 1,500 feet of pneumatic hose to pump compressed air aboard the tanker to atomize the ship's fuel in hopes of firing its boilers, Charles Slocum of the tug company explained.

The captain's wife was aboard, signing on as librarian, so she could make the trip to Japan.

A Coast Guard helicopter lowered one emergency pump which was put into quick operation. Two others were lost, but three more were lowered as murky daylight improved visibility.

Judge Challenges Abortion Laws

which has considered the Constitutionality of the Theraputic Abortion Act of 1967, nor has there been any prior consideration in any of the American jurisdictions of any law similar to the present California statute," Judge Mast said.

He traced two out-of-state cases dealing with abortions, but found "they were decided upon the narrow grounds of ambiguity and uncertainty of the language of the statutes. As such, they sidestepped and avoided the primary constitutional issue . . .

"A WOMAN HAS a right to life and to choose whether to bear children," Judge Mast said in his nine-page opinion. "The woman's right to life is involved because childbirth involves risk of death.

"The right of the woman to choose whether to bear children follows from the United States and California Supreme Courts' acknowledgement of a right of privacy or liberty in matters related to marriage, family and sex.

"The critical issue is not whether such rights exist, but whether the state has a compelling interest in its regulations. . . ."

Section by section, Judge Mast considered California's abortion law and decided that all of it was invalid.

In considering the legal ways under which a woman can have a pregnancy aborted, the court dealt with a pregnancy resulting from incest.

"However, in order to qualify, a woman must admit that she has committed incest. . . ." said Judge Mast, who decided such information could be used only for prosecution. This would violate the privilege against self-incrimination, he contended.

"THE NEXT question is whether the legislature can delegate authority to doctors and hospitals to decide when abortions should be permitted," he stated in finding the abortion act to be "an improper delegation of legislative authority" in such cases.

Such delegation also violates the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment, he stated.

Judge Mast also found "a distinct disparity in treatment and operation of the (abortion) law in different geographic areas of the state," and said it was the result of improper delegation or legislative authority."

"There is a pronounced disparity of treatment between the rich and the poor," he stated in the opinion.

Fewer abortions are granted to charity cases than wealthy patients, and, "the result is that the rich can arrange for abortions under the present law almost at will," he said. "The poor cannot."

In addition, Judge Mast found the abortion law "vague and uncertain" in its reference to possible mental illness of a woman who asks for an abortion. He ruled the health issue is not clearly defined in the law.

Reviewing various cases dealing with the right of the state to police its population, the court found most of them "make it clear that private sexual relations are beyond the purview of the state."

One of the most cherished fundamental rights of any person is "a right of privacy and a right to conduct interpersonal relationships between individuals in such a manner as the individuals choose," the judge ruled.

The delicate question of when life begins was considered at length by Judge Mast and he contended there is no proof that life exists at conception.

"We cannot permit a legislative theory which decrees that life begins at conception," he said. "To do so would be to blandly adopt the philosophy of one of the country's major religions, an act which clearly would be in violation of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution."

Thus, Judge Mast ruled, there is "no compelling interest of the state to decide the right of a woman to bear or not to bear children."

In 1850, when the first California abortion law was enacted, the state had "a compelling interest in increasing the population of the state," Judge Mast said. "We need not consider this argument further."

tages in the VA hospital system.

"I DON'T WANT to place a dollar amount on how much in supplemental appropriations will be needed," Cranston said, "but I can say the committee's report will indicate a substantial shortage of funds exists."

On other matters, Cranston, who said he will remain "neutral" during the California Democratic primary election, termed the state's senior senator, Republican George Murphy, a tough man to beat.

He lauded recent efforts by President Nixon's Administration to seek reapproachment between the United States and Red China, and termed increasing trade with Communist nations a good thing as long as strategic items are not sold to them.

CRANSTON sounded a cautious note on the New Federalism program, which seeks to channel money and responsibility for operation of federal projects through state governments.

"I don't know whether the 'state house approach' is best for meeting the internal problems of the United States during the 1970s," Cranston said.

Accompanying the senator and two of his aides on the VA hospital tour were Dr. Glotfelty and other hospital officials.

GLOTFELTY termed the level of care provided to the hospital's patients "excellent," but said the facility needs $1.3 million during fiscal year 1970-71 to bolster its annual operating budget of $25 million.

The lion's share of the additional funds, he said, would go toward opening the four wards, which have been standing idle for more than a year because of the shortage of money.

GLOTFELTY said the hospital is the largest general medical and surgical facility within the VA system

Some 95,000 persons receive VA medical care nationwide, he said.

Included in Cranston's tour were visits to an intensive care ward, chats with paralyzed Vietnam veterans, a look at the hospital's rehabilitation facilities and discussions with administrators and medical personnel.

Girl's Body Recovered From Sea

The body of 10-year-old Alta Sexton, who drowned in a New Year's Day boating accident which took the lives of four members of her family and two other persons, was recovered from the ocean off El Segundo Friday.

Surfers discovered the child's body floating 50 yards off the beach and notified county lifeguards, who made the recovery and confirmed the victim's identification.

Other victims of the boating tragedy off Manhattan Beach were the Sexton Girl's father, Albert; two sisters, Marla, 18, and Charla, 3, and brother, Leon, 16; Sexton's 7-year-old grandson, Jamie Hinton, and and a family friend, Pernell Washington, 22, all of Los Angeles.

The accident occurred when a 26-foot cabin cruiser owned by a Compton couple split in two in heavy surf. Seven other persons aboard were rescued.

'IMPACTED' SCHOOLS

Finch to Fight 'Porkbarrel' Aid

By LOU CANNON
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration Friday vowed a fight to the finish with Congress over educational aid programs that Health and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch described as "a joke and a porkbarrel."

While critical of several congressional changes in the education budget proposals submitted by the Administration, Finch singled out for special attack a pet congressional program that earmarks funds for local educational agencies affected by federal installations.

This program, known as "impacted aid," was boosted $400 million by Congress over Administration objections.

In an interview here, Finch called it "a boondoggle" and cited a recently-completed report which contends the assistance is unfairly distributed.

THE REPORT, prepared by the Batelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, shows that the hundred poorest school districts in the country received a total of only $3.2 million in 'impacted aid" while a single suburban county in metropolitan Washington, Maryland's Montgomery County, received $5.8 million.

Finch said the program failed to attack the problem of providing sufficient federal assistance for impoverished school districts and did not in any way take into account the local and state contributions to a given district.

President Nixon has already indicated that he will veto the appropriation if this increase and others are retained by Congress. But Finch for the first time made clear Friday that the Administration was prepared to risk a congressional defeat and take its case to the people if necessary.

After conceding that the Administration effort to reduce the impacted aid allocations would be "a tough fight to win," Finch said:

"If you want to have a Truman vs. the Congress fight, we'll see who stands with the President . . .

THE REFERENCE was to President Harry Truman's prolonged battle with Congress in 1947 and 1948. Truman lost many of his congressional battles but he won re-election with a campaign theme of a "do-nothing Congress."

The difference between the Nixon and the Truman situations is that the present Administration wants Congress to spend less money on various social programs.

But Finch insisted that the primary issue is not the amount of federal dollars but the ways in which they are spent.

"We put together a very solid budget," Finch said. "We asked for $24 million for experimental schools and they (the Congress) knocked that out."

He said that Congress, instead of experimenting, preferred "the same old establishment programs" such as compensatory education despite any positive evidence that the programs are working.

ground there and at Harrison from a Tuesday storm.

At Prescott, Ark., some residents were without water after pumping equipment failed at one of the town wells. New wells were not expected to be operating before Sunday.

At Oak Ridge, Tenn., the Atomic Energy Commission switched to an alternate heating system, using oil, for its administration building to conserve natural gas.

The Tennessee Valley Authority reported peak power production, but still short of its maximum capacity.

FRIDAY temperatures included -15 on Holston Mountain and at Newfound Gap in eastern Tennessee; -11 a Crossville, -6 at Gatlinburg, -3 at Knoxville and zero at Nashville and Jackson.

A -22 was recorded on Whitetop Mountain in southwestern Virginia on the Tennessee line. It was -24 on Apple Orchard Mountain on Blue Ridge Parkway.

Some record lows around the country included: Casper, Wyo., -7; Milwaukee -5; Indianapolis -7; North Platte, Neb., -10; Des Moines, Iowa -6; Detroit and Chicago -2; Albany, N.Y., Cincinnati, Minneapolis and Burlington, Vt. -1.

Washington, D.C.'s 4 was a record for the date. At Dulles International Airport northwest of the city the temperature was -7.

The Washington Gas Light Co. reported 800 million cubic feet of natural gas distributed to area customers in 24 hours Thursday and Friday, the highest amount in company's 121-year history.

The U.S. Coast Guard District Headquarters at Portsmouth, Va., instituted ice breaker convoy service for low powered vessels in the upper Chesapeake Bay, where ice was 2 to 5 inches thick.

PORTIONS of the Potomac River also were closed to small craft for the first time this season.

Russellville, Ala., had a low of -4, and at Wetumpka, Ala., students were evacuated from a high school when a leak caused by extreme temperatures was discovered in the gas main. It was repaired in two hours.

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The state attorney general Friday was asked to find out why two letters from the Long Beach headquarters of the 11th Coast Guard District to the Department of Motor Vehicles were answered by a private mailing list firm.

Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, said Chief Warrant Officer F.C. Greenfield had asked the DMV for help in locating two reservists who had dropped out of sight.

The requested information was supplied by Circular Identification Bureau —which billed the Coast Guard for $2 for each address.

Campbell, who said he plans to introduce legislation preventing the state from selling names and addresses of drivers license applicants to such firms, wrote Atty. Gen Thomas C. Lynch that he was forwarding the information to him because "your office is the proper law enforcement agency to conduct investigations into the legality of such a procedurem".

The Coast Guard sent its requests to the DMV in care of a Sacramento post office box. Greenfield said the address had been used "for years," and that five or six such requests went out each month.

This was the first time, he said, that the private firm had responded.

Which, it turns out, is surprising, because the firm's owner, Mrs. Mildred Hewitt, said the company had had the same P.O. box number — the one Greenfield had used — for 30 years.

"I would think the investigation should be in the Coast Guard office, not up here," Mrs. Hewitt said. "They had the wrong address."

Campbell also asked Lynch to look into the propriety of the DMV providing office space for Mrs. Hewitt's firm and 10 other "searcher" companies in its Sacramento office.

Seven of the 10 paid monthly rentals ranging from $5 to $114, depending on the square footage they occupied, but three paid nothing at all.

PETROLEUM UNIT HITS OIL SPILLS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An attack on oil spillage by the oil industry was announced Friday by the American Petroleum Institute.

L.P. Haxby, chairman of the institute's subcommittee on oil spills cleanup, told California's Interagency Oil Spills Committee that the industry recognizes the need for improved methods of preventing and cleaning up spills.

He said that since mid-1969, $1.2 million has been appropriated by the institute for work on oil spill problems.

"We hope and believe," he said, "that our program will go far toward improving our capability for coping with all types of oil spills."

He said more than 1,000 experts attended a convention last month in New York on oil spill prevention and control. He said the technical information exchanged will be published.

WIFE, SON TOO
Cleaver's Return to U.S. Predicted

BERKELEY (AP) — Black militant Eldridge Cleaver and his family will be returning "soon" to the United States, the Black Panther party announced Friday.

A spokesman said Cleaver, who fled the United States some 14 months ago, would fly to the United States from Algeria. She would not say where he would arrive.

The spkesman also said that Kathleen Cleaver, the leader's wife, and their son Naceo would arrive in Washington, D.C. "Within the next few days."

THE PARTY'S national headquarters also said Emory Douglas, minister of culture for the party, and his wife, Judy, would return from Algeria to the offices here.

Cleaver, 34, fled the country last winter after he was ordered to return to state prison as a parole violator. A state court order was issued for his surrender on Nov. 27, 1968, two days after he disappeared.

LAST AUGUST the Black Panther party announced plans to "create machinery" for Cleaver's return "before this year is out."

At that time, Chief of Staff David Hilliard said Cleaver would return immediately "if he could have his day in court."

But two weeks ago, Cleaver's attorney, Charles Garry, said that Cleaver did not intend to return to the United States because "he'd have to spend the rest of his life in prison."

VISTA Aid Denied at Berkeley

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Reagan administration turned down a request Friday that the Berkeley Neighborhood Legal Services be assigned 10 VISTA volunteers, saying "it is our belief that volunteers assigned to this organization would be used for activities of a destructive nature."

In a letter to the acting director of the San Francisco Office of Economic Opportunity, Reagan's executive secretary, Edwin Meese, said: "Our major objection is the philosophy as represented by the action in a resolution of December 1969, which was adopted by the board of directors of the Berkeley organization."

Meese said the resolution called for release of jailed Black Panther leaders Huey P. Newton and David Hilliard, and amnesty for Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, who is living in Algiers.

"From these examples," said Meese, "it is obvious that the activities of such volunteers would heighten community tensions rather than achieve any constructive benefits."

NEW PREXY AT REDLANDS

REDLANDS (AP) — Eugene E. Dawson, president of Temple Buell College in Denver, becomes president of the University of Redlands on Aug. 1, school officials announced Friday.

He succeeds George H. Armacost, who is retiring after 25 years. Dr. Dawson, 53, becomes the sixth president in Redland's 61-year history.

Hayakawa Hears Black Grievances

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — S. I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College, met for several hours Friday with leaders of black students in a discussion of grievances that sometimes became shouting.

Hayakawa said afterwords that "none of the problems were solved" but he would meet again with the black students.

The Black Students Union and representatives of the Black Studies Department presented Hayakawa with a list of grievances, including complaints of harassment of black students, underfinancing of black studies programs and "racism on the campus."

Producers Would Pay Drug Education Cost

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly subcommittee on drug abuse says he will introduce legislation Monday to make drug manufacturers pay for educational programs on drug abuse.

"It is like the concept that those who pollute the atmosphere must clean it up. Those who are polluting our society with a drug culture must clean it up," said Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights.

Campbell said his bill would require every advertiser of drugs on radio and television in California to spend 25 per cent of its advertising budget on drug abuse education programs.

"THE WHOLE orientation of drug advertising is to establish a drug culture," he said. "We can no longer allow the drug industry to ignore this public responsibility."

Other bills in the eight-part drug control package proposed by Campbell would require that one copy of every drug prescription go to the State Bureau of Narcotics, make it a crime to possess, in combination, the chemical ingredients of methamphetamine speed or LSD, and restrict catalogue and direct mail order sales of dangerous drugs.

Campbell also proposed redefining marijuana as an hallucinogenic drug rather than as a narcotic in statutes, but he made no proposal to change penalties for marijuana offenses.

"It's not a narcotic, and this has, in essence, set up a 'straw man' by which those who advocate the use of drugs in our society have been able to gain supporters. The technical incorrectness of this designation should no longer serve as a rallying point for the proponents of drug use," Campbell said.

HE SAID HIS proposal for triplicate drug prescriptions, with one copy going to narcotics officers, would help curb the "legal overprescribing" of drugs censed in California if they

Another measure requiring exporters to be listore drugs for export in the state, would give officers a tool for control of the flow of legally produced drugs into the illegal market.

"We can no longer tolerate the indifference of drug manufacturers to police their own practices," said Campbell. "We can no longer tolerate industry practices that allow 50 per cent of their product to end up on the illicit market."

City Bills Chaplain for Antiwar Rally

OCEANSIDE (AP) — A University of California chaplain is being billed for $29,619 — the costs, says the city of Oceanside, of policing and cleaning up after an antiwar rally.

The charge authorized by the City Council caught the Rev. William R. Coats by surprise. In San Diego, he said Friday that he talked with his attorney and "this is too ridiculous to believe."

"I SUPPOSE I'll get a bill in the mail," said Coats, 33, whose salary as an Episcopallan chaplain is $6,300 a year plus housing. "When I refuse to pay, I suppose I'll be sued."

City Manager Franklin Lilley told the councilmen that the Dec. 14 rally and parade in which 3,000 persons took park cost $8,282 for Oceanside city personnel and $15,666 for personnel sent from other agencies such as the sheriff's office and police in other cities. He said none of those agencies has sent the city a bill.

In addition, Lilley said $1,128 was spent for the time and work of civil defense volunteers, $530 for meals and $4,013 for miscellaneous expenses.

Asst. City Manager Ernest Taylor said the peace marchers didn't ask for special personnel but he said the Rev. Coats had said it was the city's responsibility to protect the marchers. It was the chaplain, said Taylor, who signed the application for the rally permit which Oceanside police turned down and was granted later on order of a court.

"THEY'RE JUST angry about the whole affair," said Coats.

"Their backs are up, but my attorney says nobody would ever go into a courtroom to prosecute such a thing.

DESALTING TOO EXPENSIVE TO SOLVE STATE PROBLEM

SAN DEIGO (AP) — State water chief William R. Gianelli said Friday desalting sea water is a promising prospect for parts of California, but a state engineer said it would be "beyond the 1990 period" before desalting would be economical.

Gianelli told the State Water Commission in a summary of goals for the new decade unvalidated estimates for a proposed desalting plant in Southern California are that water produced there would cost almost 2½ times unit costs of the State Water Project.

"What we need to do in the decade of the 70s is to develop a large capacity prototype desalter. This will give us new information and an updated basis for decisions about the future role of desalting in the state," Gianelli said.

Donat B. Price, a chemical engineer on the department staff said, "There seems little likelihood that from a truly economical supply standpoint desalting will have any major role in supplying water in our state until beyond the 1990 period."

Murphy Declared Fit for Campaign

LA JOLLA (AP) — Sen. George Murphy emerged from a week of intensive physical examinations Friday and said, "I was given a clean bill of health."

The 67-year-old Republican pledged a vigorous campaign for re-election to a second, six-year term.

The announcement, he said, will come by late February. He headed for a campaign fund raising dinner in San Francisco.

MURPHY underwent surgery for throat cancer in 1966 but said the Scripps Clinic doctors told him that there's no greater chance for recurrence of cancer than if he had never been stricken. None of the doctors met with newsmen because "it would be a kind of advertising," a spokesman for the clinic said.

Murphy said he was advised earlier Friday that he had passed the tests given him since he entered the clinic Sunday. He said the full report will be made public in three or four days.

"I feel great," he said, reporting the doctors told him that his physical condition is that of a 45-year-old man.

He carried a jaunty blue golf cap and wore a brass-buttoned blue blazer with a blue apache tie. As he stepped from the clinic to meet newsmen on the front lawn, he was asked if he feels up to a strenuous campaign.

WITH A SMILE, Murphy replied: "I would like to waltz but if I have to wrestle, I'll wrestle."

His voice is weak and husky since the throat operation, but the one-time motion picture actor said that may be a blessing in disguise. "Maybe I'll listen more and not talk so much now," he said.

He plans to huddle with Republican leaders of the San Francisco area Saturday.

The Democrats put one opponent for Murphy in the field Thursday — Rep. John V. Tunney of Riverside. The 35-year-old son of former Boxer Gene Tunney accused Murphy of "negative leadership in the Senate."

Among others mentioned as possible Democratic contenders are Rep. George Brown, D-Calif., and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College.

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The state attorney general Friday was asked to find out why two letters from the Long Beach headquarters of the 11th Coast Guard District to the Department of Motor Vehicles were answered by a private mailing list firm.

Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, said Chief Warrant Officer F.C. Greenfield had asked the DMV for help in locating two reservists who had dropped out of sight.

The requested information was supplied by Circular Identification Bureau — which billed the Coast Guard for $2 for each address.

Campbell, who said he plans to introduce legislation preventing the state from selling names and addresses of drivers license applicants to such firms, wrote Atty. Gen Thomas C. Lynch that he was forwarding the information to him because "your office is the proper law enforcement agency to conduct investigations into the legality of such a procedurem".

The Coast Guard sent its requests to the DMV in care of a Sacramento post office box. Greenfield said the address had been used "for years," and that five or six such requests went out each month.

This was the first time, he said, that the private firm had responded.

Which, it turns out, is surprising, because the firm's owner, Mrs. Mildred Hewitt, said the company had had the same P.O. box number — the one Greenfield had used — for 30 years.

"I would think the investigation should be in the Coast Guard office, not up here," Mrs. Hewitt said. "They had the wrong address."

Campbell also asked Lynch to look into the propriety of the DMV providing office space for Mrs. Hewitt's firm and 10 other "searcher" companies in its Sacramento office.

Seven of the 10 paid monthly rentals ranging from $5 to $114, depending on the square footage they occupied, but three paid nothing at all.

PETROLEUM UNIT HITS OIL SPILLS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An attack on oil spillage by the oil industry was announced Friday by the American Petroleum Institute.

L.P. Haxby, chairman of the institute's subcommittee on oil spills cleanup, told California's Interagency Oil Spills Committee that the industry recognizes the need for improved methods of preventing and cleaning up spills.

He said that since mid-1969, $1.2 million has been appropriated by the institute for work on oil spill problems.

"We hope and believe," he said, "that our program will go far toward improving our capability for coping with all types of oil spills."

He said more than 1,000 experts attended a convention last month in New York on oil spill prevention and control. He said the technical information exchanged will be published.

WIFE, SON TOO
Cleaver's Return to U.S. Predicted

BERKELEY (AP) — Black militant Eldridge Cleaver and his family will be returning "soon" to the United States, the Black Panther party announced Friday.

A spokesman said Cleaver, who fled the United States some 14 months ago, would fly to the United States from Algeria. She would not say where he would arrive.

The spkesman also said that Kathleen Cleaver, the leader's wife, and their son Naceo would arrive in Washington, D.C. "Within the next few days."

THE PARTY'S national headquarters also said Emory Douglas, minister of culture for the party, and his wife, Judy, would return from Algeria to the offices here.

Cleaver, 34, fled the country last winter after he was ordered to return to state prison as a parole violator. A state court order was issued for his surrender on Nov. 27, 1968, two days after he disappeared.

LAST AUGUST the Black Panther party announced plans to "create machinery" for Cleaver's return "before this year is out."

At that time, Chief of Staff David Hilliard said Cleaver would return immediately "if he could have his day in court."

But two weeks ago, Cleaver's attorney, Charles Garry, said that Cleaver did not intend to return to the United States because "he'd have to spend the rest of his life in prison."

VISTA Aid Denied at Berkeley

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Reagan administration turned down a request Friday that the Berkeley Neighborhood Legal Services be assigned 10 VISTA volunteers, saying "it is our belief that volunteers assigned to this organization would be used for activities of a destructive nature."

In a letter to the acting director of the San Francisco Office of Economic Opportunity, Reagan's executive secretary, Edwin Meese, said: "Our major objection is the philosophy as represented by the action in a resolution of December 1969, which was adopted by the board of directors of the Berkeley organization."

Meese said the resolution called for release of jailed Black Panther leaders Huey P. Newton and David Hilliard, and amnesty for Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, who is living in Algiers.

"From these examples," said Meese, "It is obvious that the activities of such volunteers would heighten community tensions rather than achieve any constructive benefits."

Hayakawa Hears Black Grievances

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — S. I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College, met for several hours Friday with leaders of black students in a discussion of grievances that sometimes became shouting.

Hayakawa said afterwords that "none of the problems were solved" but he would meet again with the black students.

The Black Students Union and representatives of the Black Studies Department presented Hayakawa with a list of grievances, including complaints of harassment of black students, underfinancing of black studies programs and "racism on the campus."

NEW PREXY AT REDLANDS

REDLANDS (AP) — Eugene E. Dawson, president of Temple Buell College in Denver, becomes president of the University of Redlands on Aug. 1, school officials announced Friday.

He succeeds George H. Armacost, who is retiring after 25 years. Dr. Dawson, 53, becomes the sixth president in Redland's 61-year history.

Producers Would Pay Drug Education Cost

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly subcommittee on drug abuse says he will introduce legislation Monday to make drug manufacturers pay for educational programs on drug abuse.

"It is like the concept that those who pollute the atmosphere must clean it up. Those who are polluting our society with a drug culture must clean it up," said Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights.

Campbell said his bill would require every advertiser of drugs on radio and television in California to spend 25 per cent of its advertising budget on drug abuse education programs.

"THE WHOLE orientation of drug advertising is to establish a drug culture," he said. "We can no longer allow the drug industry to ignore this public responsibility."

Other bills in the eight-part drug control package proposed by Campbell would require that one copy of every drug prescription go to the State Bureau of Narcotics, make it a crime to possess, in combination, the chemical ingredients of methamphetamine speed or LSD, and restrict catalogue and direct mail order sales of dangerous drugs.

Campbell also proposed redefining marijuana as an hallucinogenic drug rather than as a narcotic in statutes, but he made no proposal to change penalties for marijuana offenses.

"It's not a narcotic, and this has, in essence, set up a 'straw man' by which those who advocate the use of drugs in our society have been able to gain supporters. The technical incorrectness of this designation should no longer serve as a rallying point for the proponents of drug use," Campbell said.

HE SAID HIS proposal for triplicate drug prescriptions, with one copy going to narcotics officers, would help curb the "legal overprescribing" of drugs censed in California if they

Another measure requiring exporters to be li store drugs for export in the state, would give officers a tool for control of the flow of legally produced drugs into the illegal market.

"We can no longer tolerate the indifference of drug manufacturers to police their own practices," said Campbell. "We can no longer tolerate industry practices that allow 50 per cent of their product to end up on the illicit market."

City Bills Chaplain for Antiwar Rally

OCEANSIDE (AP) — A University of California chaplain is being billed for $29,619 — the costs, says the city of Oceanside, of policing and cleaning up after an antiwar rally.

The charge authorized by the City Council caught the Rev. William R. Coats by surprise. In San Diego, he said Friday that he talked with his attorney and "this is too ridiculous to believe."

"I SUPPOSE I'll get a bill in the mail," said Coats, 33, whose salary as an Episcopalian chaplain is $6,300 a year plus housing. "When I refuse to pay, I suppose I'll be sued."

City Manager Franklin Lilley told the councilmen that the Dec. 14 rally and parade in which 3,000 persons took park cost $8,282 for Oceanside city personnel and $15,666 for personnel sent from other agencies such as the sheriff's office and police in other cities. He said none of those agencies has sent the city a bill.

In addition, Lilley said $1,128 was spent for the time and work of civil defense volunteers, $530 for meals and $4,013 for miscellaneous expenses.

Asst. City Manager Ernest Taylor said the peace marchers didn't ask for special personnel but he said the Rev. Coats had said it was the city's responsibility to protect the marchers. It was the chaplain, said Taylor, who signed the application for the rally permit which Oceanside police turned down and was granted later on order of a court.

"THEY'RE JUST angry about the whole affair," said Coats.

"Their backs are up, but my attorney says nobody would ever go into a courtroom to prosecute such a thing.

DESALTING TOO EXPENSIVE TO SOLVE STATE PROBLEM

SAN DEIGO (AP) — State water chief William R. Gianelli said Friday desalting sea water is a promising prospect for parts of California, but a state engineer said it would be "beyond the 1990 period" before desalting would be economical.

Gianelli told the State Water Commission in a summary of goals for the new decade unvalidated estimates for a proposed desalting plant in Southern California are that water produced there would cost almost 2½ times unit costs of the State Water Project.

"What we need to do in the decade of the 70s is to develop a large capacity prototype desalter. This will give us new information and an updated basis for decisions about the future role of desalting in the state," Gianelli said.

Huntington Beach Hit in Property Use Fight

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

A member of a family related to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona accused the city of Huntington Beach Friday of willfully harassing the family in an effort to get control of its property for a planned redevelopment project in the beach city.

David Holt, a Santa Ana real estate salesman and a brother of Richard Holt, a son-in-law of Sen. Goldwater, leveled the charge at a hearing of the State Local Government Committee, meeting in Long Beach's Port Building. The committee is headed by State Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin.

Richard Holt, who lives in Houston but has an interest in the family's Huntington Beach properties, attended the hearing.

THE HOLTS, including their mother, Mrs. Martha Holt, owned an old two-story building in downtown Huntington Beach which later had to be demolished as a result of a fire that broke out in the structure at the height of the family's feud with the city.

The salesman said the family lost $85,000 as a result of the fire, which he said started under "suspicious and curious" circumstances. Holt, however, steered clear of accusing the city of actually having had anything to do with the blaze.

His testimony came shortly after the committee had opened a one-day hearing on the Vehicle Parking Act of 1949 — a state statute that authorizes municipalities to set up parking authorities for the acquisition of land for parking purposes.

SCHMITZ, in an opening statement, disclaimed any interest in the battle currently being waged between the city and a group of property owners, including the Holts. He said the committee was there only to determine whether the parking act was being properly used, and whether it might not have to be amended in the light of possible new applications.

Schmitz had said earlier he had been contacted by Mrs. Martha Holt and asked to investigate what she charged was harassment of her tenants. The state senator also disclosed that he had received a telegram from Sen. Goldwater, also appealing for help in the family's dispute with the city.

THE FORMER unsuccessful candidate for president said he interceded on behalf of his son-in-law because he thought the city's actions were unusually harsh.

"I have never before seen such harassment of owners as I have seen in a situation involving Holt properties, where they were refused the right to accept tenants or to improve their property," he wired.

Goldwater said he had followed the property issue for several years "because of my son-in-law Richard Holt's involvement."

In his telegram, Goldwater asked Schmitz to look into the city's plans to condemn property in a six-block section of the downtown area. The property is to be used for a large parking lot as part of a long-range redevelopment plan called the Top-of-the-Pier plan.

THE PLAN envisages a civic center complex, specialty shops, a hotel complex, and a civic auditorium. It is designed to improve what property owners and city officials alike describe as a blighted downtown section.

The plan, and particularly that part of it dealing with the parking lot, has met vigorous opposition from a group of landowners in the six-block section. In addition to holding the city responsible for business losses, the property owners contend the city plans to use the soon-to-be condemned property for purposes other than parking—a charge denied by Huntington Beach Mayor Jack Green.

SCHMITZ TRIED to pin down city officials on whether they had any possible future plans for utilizing the space, but none would commit himself.

"According to your testimony," he told city official Vince Moorhouse at one point, "there's no planned usage of the area for anything but parking."

To which Moorhouse replied: "Our consultants say there is future potential in the air space (above the parking lot). You might be creating limitations to be creative (by amending the law to include air space in the act's incidental use limitation).

Schmitz then asked Moorhouse, director of beaches and harbors for the city, what he would say to the property owners having first rights to the air space.

MOOREHOUSE replied: "I can't say personally what I'd say to such an amendment."

Schmitz then indicated he would introduce legislation that would amend the act against the possible violation of property owners' air space rights.

In his morning testimony, David Holt accused the city of deliberately discouraging development of the downtown section by the property owners themselves. He said he and his family had in fact intended to redevelop part of the area themselves.

In his lengthy indictment of the city, he charged the city's building and safety chief with personally knocking bricks out of the Holt building's window casings, then condemning the structure as unsafe.

DE GAULLE, MRS. ROOSEVELT, SCHWEITZER

Great Faces in Grotesque

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stone faces of Albert Schweitzer, Charles de Gaulle and Eleanor Roosevelt will be surveying the passing scene for maybe centuries to come.

They are grotesques — carvings similar to gargoyles — being carved for the outside walls of the Washington Cathedral under construction since 1907.

Gargoyles are carved waterspout projections from a building. Grotesques have no waterspout but are put on the side of the cathedral as part of the Gothic tradition.

Why stone caricatures of these three particular people?

"It kind of happened," said Constantine Seferlis, who created, sculpted and carved the trio. Seferlis, a graduate of the Athens Academy of Fine Arts, is one of seven carvers at the cathedral and has been working there 10 years.

He has created and carved some 50 gargoyles of animal faces and even a lobster.

The cathedral in northwest Washington is the seat of the Episcopal bishop of Washington, but many non-Episcopal services are held there.

It is being built, stone upon stone, in the manner of the ancient cathedrals, and, hopefully, will be completed in 15 to 20 years, by 1990.

Yablonski, Slain Kin Are Buried

Priest Prays for 'Peace in Coal Fields'

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — United Mine Workers union insurgent Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski, his wife and daughter were buried Friday with a priest's parting words: "May peace come to the coal fields."

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Owen Rice, called "labor priest," likened the murders to the assassinations of the Kennedy brothers and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"There was the killing of a famed and controversial man," said Msgr. Rice, eulogizing the family. "There was the chilling and efficient murder of two women and if there were an insanity here, it is the sort to curdle the blood."

The pajama-clad bodies of Yablonski, 59; his wife Margaret, 57; and their daughter Charlotte Joanne, 25, were found Monday in the bedrooms of their home in Clarksville, 35 miles south of Pittsburgh. Yablonski had been shot five times, his wife and daughter twice each.

"MAY PEACE come to the coal fields," Msgr. Rice said. "The danger in the bowels of the earth, of itself, is enough for human beings to have to bear."

As the Yablonski's were being buried in a windswept cemetery in subzero weather, the Labor Department mapped a full-scale investigation of the recent UMW election some believe led to the slayings.

Joined with the Labor Department's announcement Thursday that it would investigate the election were requests for a Senate investigation by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., and a UMW offer of a $50,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the killer or killers. Yablonski's two brothers Edward and Leon also have called for Senate inquiries.

The Polish National Alliance, a fraternal organization to which Yablonski belonged for more than 30 years, offered a $10,000 reward.

Yablonski, running against UMW incumbent W. A. (Tony) Boyle in the heated Dec. 9 election was beaten by a 2-1 margin. Shortly before the murders, the Labor Department had turned down his request to confiscate the ballots for an investigation.

Taxable Sales Top $10 Billion

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California consumers felt the forces of inflation during July-September to send taxable sales up to a record $10.7 billion, the state Board of Equalization reports.

Third quarter taxable sales were up $703 million or 7.1 per cent from the same period in 1968.

Records in taxable sales were made in 42 out of 58 counties, with urban Southern California counties showing the sharpest increases.

New cars, representing 10 per cent of all taxable sales for the quarter, were up more than 2 per cent, while used car sales were down 4 per cent.

The quarterly totals exclude more than $2.5 million in tax-exempt sales of food, gasoline and prescription drugs.

Employment Up 2 Million; Price Hike Cuts Out Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total U.S. employment rose two million in 1969 but climbing prices wiped out wage gains of more than half the nation's 78.7 million workers despite President Nixon's year-long battle against inflation, the government said Friday.

Most of the job gain was in the first half of the year, before government policies began slowing the economy, said Harold Goldstein, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"THE SLOWING down in the growth of employment indicates there has been a slowing in demand," he said in a year-end report on jobs and wages.

And total unemployment climbed 200,000 to 2.6 million over the year even though the percentage rate remained at a comparatively low 3.4 per cent of the civilian labor force in December.

Average wages of 45 million rank-and-file workers rose $6.87 to $117.25 a week in 1969, the report said, but a nearly 6 per cent rise in living costs slashed about $7 a week from purchasing power.

The nation's overall jobless rate was up only one-tenth of one per cent last month from the post Korean War low of 3.3 per cent at the start of the year, but unemployment still was as high or higher for some key groups of workers, Goldstein said.

Jobless rates were up over the year from 1.8 to 2.2 per cent for men, 2.7 to 3.1 for fulltime workers, 2.6 to 3.7 for manufacturing workers and 3.6 to 4.3 for all blue collar workers.

Most of the employment gains were in service industries, he said.

THE CIVILIAN labor force rose 2.3 million over the year to 81.4 million, the largest rise in 22 years and outstripping the two-million job gain.

More than half the employment gain, 1.1 million, was made up of women.

The 2.6 million unemployed included about one million men, 840,000 women and 736,000 teen-agers, the report said.

Number of Officially Poor Drops One-Third

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation went one-third of the way toward ending poverty in the first eight years of the 1960s when the number of persons officially classed as poor dropped from 39.5 million to 25.4 million, the census bureau said Friday.

The bureau's special poverty census showed about on of every eight Americans was still classified as poor in 1968

The number of whites below the official poverty line declined from 28.5 million in 1959 to 17.4 million in 1968. During the same period, the number of poor blacks fell from 11 million to 8 million.

The government's poverty classification is determined by annual income and the number of persons in a family. For a four-member family, the poverty line is $3,531 a year.

Guns, Jewels Gone

John M. Arnone, of 5914 Gaviota Ave., told police Friday that burglars who broke into his home and ransacked it, fled with a rifle, a handgun, jewelry and checks valued at $620.

Huntington Beach Hit in Property Use Fight

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

A member of a family related to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona accused the city of Huntington Beach Friday of willfully harassing the family in an effort to get control of its property for a planned redevelopment project in the beach city.

David Holt, a Santa Ana real estate salesman and a brother of Richard Holt, a son-in-law of Sen. Goldwater, leveled the charge at a hearing of the State Local Government Committee, meeting in Long Beach's Port Building. The committee is headed by State Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin.

Richard Holt, who lives in Houston but has an interest in the family's Huntington Beach properties, attended the hearing.

THE HOLTS, including their mother, Mrs. Martha Holt, owned an old two-story building in downtown Huntington Beach which later had to be demolished as a result of a fire that broke out in the structure at the height of the family's feud with the city.

The salesman said the family lost $85,000 as a result of the fire, which he said started under "suspicious and curious" circumstances. Holt, however, steered clear of accusing the city of actually having had anything to do with the blaze.

His testimony came shortly after the committee had opened a one-day hearing on the Vehicle Parking Act of 1949 — a state statute that authorizes municipalities to set up parking authorities for the acquisition of land for parking purposes.

SCHMITZ, in an opening statement, disclaimed any interest in the battle currently being waged between the city and a group of property owners, including the Holts. He said the committee was there only to determine whether the parking act was being properly used, and whether it might not have to be amended in the light of possible new applications.

Schmitz had said earlier he had been contacted by Mrs. Martha Holt and asked to investigate what she charged was harassment of her tenants. The state senator also disclosed that he had received a telegram from Sen. Goldwater, also appealing for help in the family's dispute with the city.

THE FORMER unsuccessful candidate for president said he interceded on behalf of his son-in-law because he thought the city's actions were unusually harsh.

"I have never before seen such harassment of owners as I have seen in a situation involving Holt properties, where they were refused the right to accept tenants or to improve their property," he wired.

Goldwater said he had followed the property issue for several years "because of my son-in-law Richard Holt's involvement."

In his telegram, Goldwater asked Schmitz to look into the city's plans to condemn property in a six-block section of the downtown area. The property is to be used for a large parking lot as part of a long-range redevelopment plan called the Top-of-the-Pier plan.

THE PLAN envisages a civic center complex, specialty shops, a hotel complex, and a civic auditorium. It is designed to improve what property owners and city officials alike describe as a blighted downtown section.

The plan, and particularly that part of it dealing with the parking lot, has met vigorous opposition from a group of landowners in the six-block section. In addition to holding the city responsible for business losses, the property owners contend the city plans to use the soon-to-be condemned property for purposes other than parking—a charge denied by Huntington Beach Mayor Jack Green.

SCHMITZ TRIED to pin down city officials on whether they had any possible future plans for utilizing the space, but none would commit himself.

"According to your testimony," he told city official Vince Moorhouse at one point, "there's no planned usage of the area for anything but parking."

To which Moorhouse replied: "Our consultants say there is future potential in the air space (above the parking lot). You might be creating limitations to be creative (by amending the law to include air space in the act's incidental use limitation).

Schmitz then asked Moorhouse, director of beaches and harbors for the city, what he would say to the property owners having first rights to the air space.

Schmitz then indicated he would introduce legislation that would amend the act against the possible violation of property owners' air space rights.

In his morning testimony, David Holt accused the city of deliberately discouraging development of the downtown section by the property owners themselves. He said he and his family had in fact intended to redevelop part of the area themselves.

In his lengthy indictment of the city, he charged the city's building and safety chief with personally knocking bricks out of the Holt building's window casings, then condemning the structure as unsafe.

SCULPTOR CONSTANTIN SEFERLIS WORKS ON 'GROTESQUES' OF FAMOUS FACES
—AP Wirephoto

DE GAULLE, MRS. ROOSEVELT, SCHWEITZER

Great Faces in Grotesque

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stone faces of Albert Schweitzer, Charles de Gaulle and Eleanor Roosevelt will be surveying the passing scene for maybe centuries to come.

They are grotesques — carvings similar to gargoyles — being carved for the outside walls of the Washington Cathedral under construction since 1907.

Gargoyles are carved waterspout projections from a building. Grotesques have no waterspout but are put on the side of the cathedral as part of the Gothic tradition.

Why stone caricatures of these three particular people?

"It kind of happened," said Constantine Seferlis, who created, sculpted and carved the trio. Seferlis, a graduate of the Athens Academy of Fine Arts, is one of seven carvers at the cathedral and has been working there 10 years.

He has created and carved some 50 gargoyles of animal faces and even a lobster.

The cathedral in northwest Washington is the seat of the Episcopal bishop of Washington, but many non-Episcopal services are held there.

It is being built, stone upon stone, in the manner of the ancient cathedrals, and, hopefully, will be completed in 15 to 20 years, by 1990.

Yablonski, Slain Kin Are Buried

Priest Prays for 'Peace in Coal Fields'

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — United Mine Workers union insurgent Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski, his wife and daughter were buried Friday with a priest's parting words: "May peace come to the coal fields."

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Owen Rice, called "labor priest," likened the murders to the assassinations of the Kennedy brothers and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"There was the killing of a famed and controversial man," said Msgr. Rice, eulogizing the family. "There was the chilling and efficient murder of two women and if there were an insanity here, it is the sort to curdle the blood."

The pajama-clad bodies of Yablonski, 59; his wife Margaret, 57; and their daughter Charlotte Joanne, 25, were found Monday in the bedrooms of their home in Clarksville, 35 miles south of Pittsburgh. Yablonski had been shot five times, his wife and daughter twice each.

"MAY PEACE come to the coal fields," Msgr. Rice said. "The danger in the bowels of the earth, of itself, is enough for human beings to have to bear."

As the Yablonski's were being buried in a windswept cemetery in subzero weather, the Labor Department mapped a full-scale investigation of the recent UMW election some believe led to the slayings.

Joined with the Labor Department's announcement Thursday that it would investigate the election were requests for a Senate investigation by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., and a UMW offer of a $50,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the killer or killers. Yablonski's two brothers Edward and Leon also have called for Senate inquiries.

The Polish National Alliance, a fraternal organization to which Yablonski belonged for more than 30 years, offered a $10,000 reward.

Yablonski, running against UMW incumbent W. A. (Tony) Boyle in the heated Dec. 9 election was beaten by a 2-1 margin. Shortly before the murders, the Labor Department had turned down his request to confiscate the ballots for an investigation.

Guns, Jewels Gone

John M. Arnone, of 5914 Gaviota Ave., told police Friday that burglars who broke into his home and ransacked it, fled with a rifle, a handgun, jewelry and checks valued at $620.

Taxable Sales Top $10 Billion

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California consumers felt the forces of inflation during July-September to send taxable sales up to a record $10.7 billion, the state Board of Equalization reports.

Third quarter taxable sales were up $703 million or 7.1 per cent from the same period in 1968.

Records in taxable sales were made in 42 out of 58 counties, with urban Southern California counties showing the sharpest increases.

New cars, representing 10 per cent of all taxable sales for the quarter, were up more than 2 per cent, while used car sales were down 4 per cent.

The quarterly totals exclude more than $2.5 million in tax-exempt sales of food, gasoline and prescription drugs.

Employment Up 2 Million; Price Hike Cuts Out Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total U.S. employment rose two million in 1969 but climbing prices wiped out wage gains of more than half the nation's 78.7 million workers despite President Nixon's year-long battle against inflation, the government said Friday.

Most of the job gain was in the first half of the year, before government policies began slowing the economy, said Harold Goldstein, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"THE SLOWING down in the growth of employment indicates there has been a slowing in demand," he said in a year-end report on jobs and wages.

And total unemployment climbed 200,000 to 2.6 million over the year even though the percentage rate remained at a comparatively low 3.4 per cent of the civilian labor force in December.

Average wages of 45 million rank-and-file workers rose $6.87 to $117.25 a week in 1969, the report said, but a nearly 6 per cent rise in living costs slashed about $7 a week from purchasing power.

The nation's overall jobless rate was up only one-tenth of one per cent last month from the post Korean War low of 3.3 per cent at the start of the year, but unemployment still was as high or higher for some key groups of workers, Goldstein said.

Jobless rates were up over the year from 1.8 to 2.2 per cent for men, 2.7 to 3.1 for fulltime workers, 2.6 to 3.7 for manufacturing workers and 3.6 to 4.3 for all blue collar workers.

Most of the employment gains were in service industries, he said.

THE CIVILIAN labor force rose 2.3 million over the year to 81.4 million, the largest rise in 22 years and outstripping the two-million job gain.

More than half the employment gain, 1.1 million, was made up of women.

The 2.6 million unemployed included about one million men, 840,000 women and 736,000 teen-agers, the report said.

Number of Officially Poor Drops One-Third

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation went one-third of the way toward ending poverty in the first eight years of the 1960s when the number of persons officially classed as poor dropped from 39.5 million to 25.4 million, the census bureau said Friday.

The bureau's special poverty census showed about on of every eight Americans was still classified as poor in 1968

The number of whites below the official poverty line declined from 28.5 million in 1959 to 17.4 million in 1968. During the same period, the number of poor blacks fell from 11 million to 8 million.

The government's poverty classification is determined by annual income and the number of persons in a family. For a four-member family, the poverty line is $3,531 a year.

Sailor Arraigned in Shooting

A 25-year-old sailor accused of trying to kill a young man who became a paraplegic as a result of the shooting has denied the charge and will face trial Feb. 17 in Long Beach Superior Court.

Rudy Cariaga, 38 Daisy Ave., was arraigned before Judge Carroll Dunnum Friday in connection with the shooting of 24-year-old Antonio V. Locanas, now in Veteran's Hospital.

The Oct. 24 shooting left Locanas paralyzed and unable to speak. He wrote Cariaga's name on a paper when police asked who had shot him.

Two other suspected assailants are scheduled for preliminary hearing on the same charge Jan. 20 in Municipal Court.

The incident reportedly followed an argument between Locanas and friends of Cariagas at a Magnolia Avenue bar. Locanas left the bar alone and was accosted by three men on First Street near Magnolia.

Residents Ask City to Tend Park

A "do-it-yourself" park has been created by residents along Arbor Street in North Long Beach, but they want the city to lend a hand in its maintenance.

In a letter the the City Council, to be on Tuesday's agenda, residents say they are referring to a 36 x 800 foot strip of land between Arbor Street and the Union Pacific railroad embankment.

For the past two years, according to the letter, residents have been beautifying the parkway by planting trees, shrubs, flowers and cactus."

"All of this at their own expense of time, tools, materials and water," the letter continued. "The water is obtained by dragging hoses across the street from our own homes."

Councilmen will be asked to authorize installation of a water line in the parkway, with faucet outlets about every 100 feet. This, the residents say, would eliminate the "hazard and inconvenience" of dragging hoses across the street.

"We believe that our city is benefited by the beautification of this parkway," says the letter, signed by Everett Blood, 170 E. Arbor St.; Rodolfo Parra, 166 E. Arbor St.; Charles D. LaReaux, 300 E. Arbor St., and William W. Slatter, 201 E. 47th St.

Jail Hinges on Door; Writ Saves Officials

Orange County Administrator Robert E. Thomas and Harry Pisegna, of the county's building services, are going to stay out of jail — at least until next Tuesday.

Santa Ana Superior Court Judge Robert L. Corfman assured them of that when he issued a temporary restraining order against Municipal Court Judge Paul G. Mast, who had cited Thomas and Pisegna for contempt of court because they installed a door that Judge Mast did not want.

The door will be an emergency exit for the Veteran's Exemption Office, which the assessor is moving from his quarters to the new Orange County Courthouse.

Judge Mast was displeased Thursday morning when he discovered the door, installed overnight after he ordered workmen not to make the opening. Judge Mast had objected because it opens onto a corridor linking the municipal courtrooms with the judges' chambers and jury room.

Both Thomas and Pisegna were taken into court Thursday by marshalls and were told they face contempt proceedings unless they remove the door within 24 hours. Their time was up Friday, but Judge Corfman's writ saved the day until next Tuesday's hearing on a permanent writ.

An eight-week course in beginning knitting will be presented by the adult craft section, starting Monday from 10 a.m. to noon in El Dorado Park clubhouse, 2800 Studebaker Road.

There will be a $5 fee for the course, during which students will make a pair of TV slippers, a child's booties and a child's sweater.

The modern jazz dance class will open Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Bruin Den, 4900 E. Seventh St., for high school students. There is no fee, but enrollment is limited and will take place at the opening session.

Dennis King, supervisor of drama, puppetry and music, said dance excercises, jazz combinations and dances will be taught.

The mother-child dance class will be offered Thursdays at 7 p.m. at Bixby Park, 130 Cherry Ave., and Saturdays at 1:30 p.m. at Whaley Park, 5620 E. Atherton St.

Classes will include exercises for limbering up the body, use of rhythm instruments and individual composition, King said. Enrollment will be limited, and registration will take place at the first meeting.

Signal Hill OKs Employes Handbook

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

An employe evaluation system, and the text of a handbook for employes, were approved this week by the Signal Hill City Council.

"There is nothing new in the handbook," administrative officer Ronald Prince explained. "We are merely putting information about city policies that have been adopted over the years at the fingertips of the employes."

Councilwoman Sandra Miller added that the booklet would provide additional protection for the employes by assuring that all city department would observe the same rules.

"In some cases employes have complained they were being punished for doing something that was permitted in another department," Miss Miller said.

Each employe will be rated semiannually on the quality and quantity of his work, his work habits, personal relations and adaptability. Where applicable, his supervisory ability will also be rated.

Prince said the system would guide employes in self-improvement, provide a guide to department heads when selecting employes eligible for promotion, and give a sound basis for dismissing unsatisfactory workers..

Street to Be Closed 1 Day for Bridge Job

Weather permitting, Downey Avenue in North Long Beach, between Artesia Boulevard and Park Street, will be closed for one day Wednesday, a Division of Highways spokesman said Friday.

Temporary closure of the street is slated while bridge work is in progress on the new Artesia Freeway where it crosses over Downey Avenue, the spokesman added. If rain continues, the street will remain open.

TO END HARBOR DISTRICT

Orange Co. Unit Votes New Move

Irked by supervisorial refusal to dissolve the Orange County Harbor District, the Orange County League of Cities will now seek legislation to force the change.

The league's executive board voted 13 to 10 — with two absences from the county's 25-member board — to continue its battle to scrap the controversial district.

Twice before, the league asked Orange County supervisors to dissolve the harbor district. It was rejected in 1968 and again last year, when supervisors finally decided that the district should be expanded to include beaches and parks.

As a compromise, the League of Cities had suggested there be a county department of harbors, beaches and parks.

A county department would be under direct control of county supervisors and taxes to support its operations would be included in the general budget tax levy.

The harbor district has its own taxing authority and its affairs are handled by a manager and by a board of commissioners.

Both Thomas and Pisegna were taken into court Thursday by marshalls and were told they face contempt proceedings unless they remove the door within 24 hours. Their time was up Friday, but Judge Corfman's writ saved the day until next Tuesday's hearing on a permanent writ.

Witness Rites for Ex-Resident

Richard Jay Tarbell, former salesman of petroleum products for the Texas Refinery Co., died last week in Santa Barbara after a heart attack, it was learned here Friday. Mr. Tarbell, 46, a Long Beach native moved to Santa Barbara eight years ago.

Surviving are his widow, Ruth; mother, Mrs. Maud Tarbell of Long Beach; stepsons, Ralph and Leonard Perry; daughters, Mrs. Juan Hernandez, Mrs. Florence Sitongia; brother, Douglas, of Long Beach, and 10 grandchildren.

San Jose's Tallest Building Under Way

SAN JOSE (AP) — Ground was broken Friday for a $7-million, 14-story Park Center building. It will be San Jose's biggest building with more than 195,000 square feet of floor space.

TO END HARBOR DISTRICT

Orange Co. Unit Votes New Move

Irked by supervisorial refusal to dissolve the Orange County Harbor District, the Orange County League of Cities will now seek legislation to force the change.

The league's executive board voted 13 to 10 — with two absences from the county's 25-member board — to continue its battle to scrap the controversial district.

Twice before, the league asked Orange County supervisors to dissolve the harbor district. It was rejected in 1968 and again last year, when supervisors finally decided that the district should be expanded to include beaches and parks.

As a compromise, the League of Cities had suggested there be a county department of harbors, beaches and parks.

A county department would be under direct control of county supervisors and taxes to support its operations would be included in the general budget tax levy.

The harbor district has its own taxing authority and its affairs are handled by a manager and by a board of commissioners.

Sailor Arraigned in Shooting

A 25-year-old sailor accused of trying to kill a young man who became a paraplegic as a result of the shooting has denied the charge and will face trial Feb. 17 in Long Beach Superior Court.

Rudy Cariaga, 38 Daisy Ave., was arraigned before Judge Carroll Dunnum Friday in connection with the shooting of 24-year-old Antonio V. Locanas, now in Veteran's Hospital.

The Oct. 24 shooting left Locanas paralyzed and unable to speak. He wrote Cariaga's name on a paper when police asked who had shot him.

Two other suspected assailants are scheduled for preliminary hearing on the same charge Jan. 20 in Municipal Court.

The incident reportedly followed an argument between Locanas and friends of Cariagas at a Magnolia Avenue bar. Locanas left the bar alone and was accosted by three men on First Street near Magnolia.

Knitting, Jazz, Dance Classes Set

Classes in jazz, knitting and mother-child dance will be offered next week by the Recreation Department.

An eight-week course in beginning knitting will be presented by the adult craft section, starting Monday from 10 a.m. to noon in El Dorado Park clubhouse, 2800 Studebaker Road.

There will be a $5 fee for the course, during which students will make a pair of TV slippers, a child's booties and a child's sweater.

The modern jazz dance class will open Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Bruin Den, 4900 E. Seventh St., for high school students. There is no fee, but enrollment is limited and will take place at the opening session.

Dennis King, supervisor of drama, puppetry and music, said dance excercises, jazz combinations and dances will be taught.

The mother-child dance class will be offered Thursdays at 7 p.m. at Bixby Park, 130 Cherry Ave., and Saturdays at 1:30 p.m. at Whaley Park, 5620 E. Atherton St.

Classes will include exercises for limbering up the body, use of rhythm instruments and individual composition, King said. Enrollment will be limited, and registration will take place at the first meeting.

$565 TV Taken

A color television set, valued at $565, was stolen from the home of Barbara Sullivan, 550 E. 20th St., by burglars who broke open a side window to gain entry to the home, police said Friday.

Five Wigs Stolen

Hessie D. Farmer, of 1038 Orange Ave., said Friday that burglars who broke into her apartment escaped with a portable television, a stereo set, a camera and five wigs val-

Signal Hill OKs Employes Handbook

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

An employe evaluation system, and the text of a handbook for employes, were approved this week by the Signal Hill City Council.

"There is nothing new in the handbook," administrative officer Ronald Prince explained. "We are merely putting information about city policies that have been adopted over the years at the fingertips of the employes."

Councilwoman Sandra Miller added that the booklet would provide additional protection for the employes by assuring that all city department would observe the same rules.

"In some cases employes have complained they were being punished for doing something that was permitted in another department," Miss Miller said.

Each employe will be rated semiannually on the quality and quantity of his work, his work habits, personal relations and adaptability. Where applicable, his supervisory ability will also be rated.

Prince said the system would guide employes in self-improvement, provide a guide to department heads when selecting employes eligible for promotion, and give a sound basis for dismissing unsatisfactory workers..

Street to Be Closed 1 Day for Bridge Job

Weather permitting, Downey Avenue in North Long Beach, between Artesia Boulevard and Park Street, will be closed for one day Wednesday, a Division of Highways spokesman said Friday.

Temporary closure of the street is slated while bridge work is in progress on the new Artesia Freeway where it crosses over Downey Avenue, the spokesman added. If rain continues, the street will remain open.

WHEELWRIGHT RITES IN SANTA BARBARA

Dr. Wheelwright, who lectured at CSLB last fall and taught there last spring, died Monday after a long illness. He was 70.

His lectures and classes at CSLB climaxed more than 40 years of teaching philosophy, which included serving as department head at Dartmouth and teaching several years at UC Riverside.

He is the author of "The Burning Fountain," "Metaphor and Reality" and more than a score of other major philosophical works.

Larwin's Tiburon Is Country Club Living at It's Best

A new $14 million townhome community with five neighborhood recreation centers has been opened by The Larwin Company in Fountain Valley.

Called "Tiburon," Portuguese for "little village," the community combines country-club living with townhomes priced from $23,750 to $28,990. Models are open and occupancy of the first 55 townhomes will begin next month.

"Tiburon is the epitome of what Southern California living should be," said Michael L. Tanzer, group vice president and marketing director of Larwin, one of the nation's leading homebuilders.

"It's modeled after our dramatically successful 1,400 Tanglewood Community in Cypress," Tenzer said.

WITH Tanglewood, Larwin achieved recognition as the leading townhome developer in the U.S. Architects, land planners, government officials and U.N. delegates from around the world have visited Tanglewood to study the Larwin concepts.

"We're meeting the needs of modern California families who want to enjoy convenient recreational facilities and the satisfaction of owning a home without the chores of traditional maintenance."

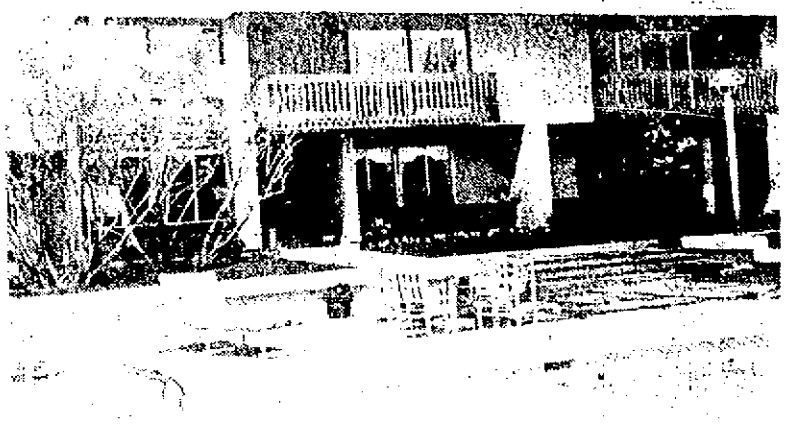

Tiburon is located southeast of the intersection of Brookhurst and Talbert streets, the first intersection south of the San Diego Freeway off-ramp at Brookhurst in Fountain Valley.

EACH one-or-two-story townhome, Tenzer said, has its own fenced rear patio for family relaxation, two-car garage, individual refrigerated air conditioning, custom-finished kitchen cabinets and fully automatic General Electric range and oven.

Parkside Estates, La Palma, Offer Moderate Prices

Presley Development Company's Parkside Estates in La Palma feature an unusual combination of moderate prices, and spacious luxury that has been zoned to assure privacy in formal and informal living areas.

"For instance," said Ken Stark, vice president of Presley Development, "our largest model, the 101 Plan, provides 2,150 square feet of living area in two carefully designed levels.

"The first floor encompasses the living room, dining room, kitchen, family room and service porch. The second story houses the master suite, three bedrooms and a second full bath."

Many custom quality features are included in the homes, he added, despite the medium price range, which starts at $32,900.

In the 101 Plan, the master suite has a wood-burning fireplace, private bath, dressing-sitting room, large wardrobe closet and a spacious walk-in closet.

THE HUGE family room has an optional wet-bar, and opens to the garage through a separate service porch. The porch is designed to accomodate washer and dryer, in addition to a sewing area.

The location of the community, on Moody Street (Carmenita Avenue) between South Street and La Palma Avenue in La Palma, places it within one mile of a proposed 60-acre county-regional recreational park.

THE PARK will include a lake, swimming pool, and a full complement of sports and recreational facilities.

Also located within a mile of the development are two new shopping centers; elementary, junior high and high schools; and the new La Palma Civic Center.

Immediately adjacent to the development is the El Rancho Verde Recreational Park, and the new La Palma Youth Village, which will provide indoor recreational facilities for young people, is only one-half mile from the community.

Mission Viejo, S&S Leaders in '69 Orange County Building

Mission Viejo Company, developers of the 11,000-acre new community of Mission Viejo in southeastern Orange County, led all Orange County builders in home sales during the first nine months of 1969 with recorded sales of 541 homes.

Recorded Facts, a publication of First American Title Co., released figures for the period Jan. 1 to Sept. 30 showing that Mission Viejo Company led a list of the 10 largest builders in the county, and was 48 home sales ahead of second place S & S Construction Co. which had 403 recorded sales.

Larwin Co. was third with 347; Robert S. Grant, fourth, 273; Donald Bren Co., fifth, 208; Macco Corp., sixth, 204; Geo. M. Holstein and Co., seventh, 188; Wm. Lyon Co., eighth, 185; R. Smith Co., ninth, 182; and Standard Pacific Co., 10th, 161.

Again, Mission Viejo Co. led a list of 10 builders, having recorded 1912 sales in that period.

The other nine: Larwin, second, 1808; S & S, third, 1228; Grant, fourth, 931; Lyon, fifth, 891; Kaufman and Braud, sixth, 823; Deane Brothers, seventh, 791; Security Pore, eighth, 510; R. Smith, ninth, 463; and G. Holstein, 10th, 448.

Recorded Facts also noted that Mission Viejo Company's sales were all made in one place — the new community of Mission Viejo — while most of the other major builders were selling in two or more developments.

Spectacular Quail Mountain Area in Development

Steeped in Indian legend and western lore, Quail Mountain, a 14,000-acre recreation-investment land development, opens as a subdivision today amid a splendor of valleys, mountains and streams.

The development is located in the eastern section of Kern County's Tehachapi Valley — an area noted for its fruit and commercial seed production — less than 100 miles from Los Angeles.

Quail Mountain is a development of Southern California's Dynasonics Corporation, headed by Albert Rosen, president and chairman of the board.

"I have been closely associated with this land for more than five yaars," Rosen said, "and I've found it to be one of the most spectacular areas of natural beauty in the west."

"To me, this land with its rugged beauty and varied terrain is the very personification of the west. Naturally, the theme of our development is western."

QUAIL Mountain is graced with a wide range of terrain: from cloud-cloaked mountain peaks to broad valleys; from rolling hills to rugged rimrock; from lush pastures shaded by ancient oaks to meandering streams — all situated in a climate of four seasons.

Dynasonics, said Rosen, will exercise great care in the subdivision of this property.

"We intend to extend every effort to protect the integrity and natural beauty of this land," he explained, "and for this reason we are developing a comprehensive master plan and will exercise strict architectural controls."

UNTIL recently, Quail Mountain was a working cattle ranch, and Rosen said his company will preserve this atmosphere in the new development.

"This is literally branding iron and saddle country, a theme we will follow as we improve and augment the recreational potential of Quail Mountain.

"Development plans call for many additional improvements designed to create one of the most significant new recreational areas in the west," Rosen said.

"For instance, in our first five units the minimum lot size will be 2½ acres, providing purchasers with ample room to roam and play."

Dynasonics' management has a solid background in recreational land development. The company is also the developer of Mt. Shasta Forest in Northern California, a 2,200-acre subdivision which is now 90 per cent sold.

"IN ADDITION to skills of the personnel within our company and those of the various support organizations we retain, we are now employing the most sophisticated computer technology in planning this development," Rosen pointed out.

With many miles of riding trails, horseback riding will rank as one of the most appealing forms of recreation at Quail Mountina. The vastness of the area and its spectacular terrain also makes it ideal for hiking and exploration.

Among the many unique natural wonders of the land is Horse Canyon where palentologists have uncovered the fossilized remains of three-toed horses dating back more than 2 million years. Scientists have also discovered numerous examples of sedementary rock containing the footprints of huge ancient reptilss.

SEVERAL caves in the area contain beautifully preserved petrogiyphs (cave paintings) executed by prehistoric Indians, Rosen said. "We plan to maintain these caves as a showcase of prehistoric art for the enjoyment of all who visit Quail Mountain."

With an average altitude of 4,200 feet, Quail Mountain supports an abundant variety of wildlife, including deer, squirrels, rabbits, raccoons, foxes, pheasant, and, of course, quail.

"In fact," said Rosen, "the vast numbers of quail we find living on the side of one of our mountains, is what led us to name the development Quail Mountain."

From Los Angeles, Quail Mountain is reached via the Antelope Valley Freeway through the city of Lancaster, and then continuing north on State Highway 58 to where a large sign indicates a right turn to the development.

IN ADDITION to its recreational value, Rosen believes that land in this development offers a sound investment potential since it lies within a short driving distance of the planned $100 million Palmdale International Airport, the major new air terminal which is designed to handle the coming generation of supersonic jet transports.

"While Quail Mountain is a land of pinion pines, junipers and mesquite straight from the old west, it is also close to one of the most advanced centers of aeronautic and space technology in the world — Antelope Valley," Rosen added.

Donald S. Plehn, manager of real estate sales for Dynasonics, said the 2½ acre parcels in the initial Quail Mountain unit have been priced from $5,190 to $10,000.

Showcase Homes Selling at 1969 Interest Rates

A limited number of homes available under the unique Custom Completion Plan at last year's interest rates are still available at the prestige development of Showcase Homes in Westminster, it was revealed this week by Frank McFarland Jr., sales agent.

McFarland said the old interest rates would remain in effect for as long as possible, and he urged buyers to compare rates at Showcase with other developments in Orange County and other Southern California locations.

The Custom Completion Plan, one of the most revolutionary features in the home building industry in years, allows buyers to literally re-design their home to suit their own tastes and needs.

Except for bearing walls, homeowners can, under this program, change the location of doors, windows, fireplaces and even the size and number of rooms.

TO GO along with this widely-copied idea, is the Growing Room, an unfinished area in the one and two story models which can be used either at the time of purchase — or a ater date—to suit the exact needs of a growing family.

Some owners have turned the area into a large bedroom "retreat," others into an extra three bedroom and bath wing, while still others have found the area to be perfect for den, study or rumpus room.

A large sun deck is an integral part of the area, and plumbing is already stubbed in for quick installation, once the plans have been made.

McFARLAND emphasized this is the final unit of these Westminster homes and that there are a few homes available for immediate occupancy, for those wishing to take advantage now.

Built by developer Bill Krueger, these homes are priced from $30,495 and come in 33 exterior styles with 10 basic floor plans.

Troy Cerritos Sets Today as 'Before Completion' Preview

A "before completion" preview of models at Troy Cerritos, the new 102-home community of The McCarthy Company in Cerritos, will be opened today, it was announced by William Schulz, marketing and sales director for the Company.

It is a $3,000,000 development for home buyers looking for close in proximity to industries, schools, colleges, and the recreational facilities of Los Angeles and Orange counties. There will be 59 homes in the first unit now under construction.

"Today's preview is designed to give buyers the opportunity to select choice lots and home plans," said Schulz. "The models have been finished and landscaped, but they will not be furnished and decorated until early in February."

PRICES will range from $28,950 to $34,950. Models include one three bedroom single story home, one four bedroom two story home, and two different four bedroom single story homes.

Sixteen different exteriors will be available.

Sales will be on a first come, first served, basis, said Fred Dodd, sales manager for Troy Cerritos.

The sales office on the site will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, just south of the intersection of Bloomfield Boulvard and 195th Street.

Troy Cerritos can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Carmenita, then south to South Street, then west to Bloomfield, and then proceeding south to the site; or by turning off the San Diego Freeway at Carmenita and proceeding north to Del Amo Boulevard (La Palma Boulevard), then west to Bloomfield Boulevard, then right one half block to the models.

Meadowview Boast Long Bridle Trails

More than 50 miles of well-marked bridle trails are available to property owners at Meadowview, the country estate project located at Rancho California in southwest Riverside County.

Numerous scenic lookouts are marked along the trails and they provide the Meadowview horseman both unusual viewpoints and choice locations for picture taking.

Complementing the bridle trail network are strategically located watering holes and picnic grounds where both man and his horse may enjoy refreshments and rest.

Through a homeowner's association, property owners at Meadowview have an interest in a 380-acre parcel, designed for parks and green belts, and use of a private yacht club at 850-acre Vail Lake.

Also nearby are a $2 million golf resort, riding stable and a convenience shopping center.

Penney's Continues Sundays

J. C. Penney Company, Inc., announced it will continue to keep some of its stores open on Sunday afternoons. Involved in the Sunday afternoon openings will be approximately 90 of the company's 1,657 stores.

Markets in which Penney stores will remain open Sunday afternoons include Chicago, Los Angeles, Phoenix, and Tampa.

Explaining Penney's decision, Chrmn. William M. Batten said, "Our stores will remain open only in areas where our major competitors have decided to keep their stores open on Sundays."

Common Market

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland are currently working on a plan to create a Nordic "Common Market." The plan calls for a Nordic customs union and a wide extension of economic cooperation among the neighbor countries.

No More Tobacco Road?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tobacco Road, made famous in Erskine Caldwell's novel about poor whites in the depression, may have its name changed.

The notoriety of the road, on the outskirts of Augusta, is a deterrent to real estate values, according to Howard W. Pollard, executive director of the Augusta-Richmond County Planning Commission.

"Interest in this has been expressed by several different sources," said Pollard. "I'm not trying to destroy the historical significance of Tobacco Road, but it's image is not understood outside of the Augusta area."

Spectacular Quail Mountain Area in Development

Steeped in Indian legend and western lore, Quail Mountain, a 14,000-acre recreation-investment land development, opens as a subdivision today amid a splendor of valleys, mountains and streams.

The development is located in the eastern section of Kern County's Tehachapi Valley — an area noted for its fruit and commercial seed production — less than 100 miles from Los Angeles.

"Quail Mountain is a development of Southern California's Dynasonics Corporation, headed by Albert Rosen, president and chairman of the board.

"I have been closely associated with this land for more than five yaars," Rosen said, "and I've found it to be one of the most spectacular areas of natural beauty in the west."

"To me, this land with its rugged beauty and varied terrain is the very personification of the west. Naturally, the theme of our development is western."

QUAIL Mountain is graced with a wide range of terrain: from cloud-cloaked mountain peaks to broad valleys; from rolling hills to rugged rimrock; from lush pastures shaded by ancient oaks to meandering streams — all situated in a climate of four seasons.

Dynasonics, said Rosen, will exercise great care in the subdivision of this property.

"We intend to extend every effort to protect the integrity and natural beauty of this land," he explained, "and for this reason we are developing a comprehensive master plan and will exercise strict architectural controls."

UNTIL recently, Quail Mountain was a working cattle ranch, and Rosen said his company will preserve this atmosphere in the new development.

"This is literally branding iron and saddle country, a theme we will follow as we improve and augment the recreational potential of Quail Mountain.

"Development plans call for many additional improvements designed to create one of the most significant new recreational areas in the west," Rosen said.

"For instance, in our first five units the minimum lot size will be 2½ acres, providing purchasers with ample room to roam and play."

Dynasonics' management has a solid background in recreational land development. The company is also the developer of Mt. Shasta Forest in Northern California, a 2,200-acre subdivision which is now 90 per cent sold.

"IN ADDITION to skills of the personnel within our company and those of the various support organizations we retain, we are now employing the most sophisticated computer technology in planning this development," Rosen pointed out.

With many miles of riding trails, horseback riding will rank as one of the most appealing forms of recreation at Quail Mountina. The vastness of the area and its spectacular terrain also makes it ideal for hiking and exploration.

Among the many unique natural wonders of the land is Horse Canyon where palentologists have uncovered the fossilized remains of three-toed horses dating back more than 2 million years. Scientists have also discovered numerous examples of sedementary rock containing the footprints of huge ancient reptilss.

SEVERAL caves in the area contain beautifully preserved petroglyphs (cave paintings) executed by prehistoric Indians, Rosen said. "We plan to maintain these caves as a showcase of prehistoric art for the enjoyment of all who visit Quail Mountain."

With an average altitude of 4,200 feet, Quail Mountain supports an abundant variety of wildlife, including deer, squirrels, rabbits, raccoons, foxes, pheasant, and, of course, quail.

"In fact," said Rosen, "the vast numbers of quail we find living on the side of one of our mountains, is what led us to name the development Quail Mountain."

From Los Angeles, Quail Mountain is reached via the Antelope Valley Freeway through the city of Lancaster, and then continuing north on State Highway 58 to where a large sign indicates a right turn to the development.

IN ADDITION to its recreational value, Rosen believes that land in this development offers a sound investment potential since it lies within a short driving distance of the planned $100 million Palmdale Intercontinental Airport, the major new air terminal which is designed to handle the coming generation of supersonic jet transports.

"While Quail Mountain is a land of pinion pines, junipers and mesquite straight from the old west, it is also close to one of the most advanced centers of aeronautic and space technology in the world — Antelope Valley," Rosen added.

Donald S. Plehn, manager of real estate sales for Dynasonics, said the 2½ acre parcels in the initial Quail Mountain unit have been priced from $5,190 to $10,000.

Showcase Homes Selling at 1969 Interest Rates

A limited number of homes available under the unique Custom Completion Plan at last year's interest rates are still available at the prestige development of Showcase Homes in Westminster, it was revealed this week by Frank McFarland Jr., sales agent.

McFarland said the old interest rates would remain in effect for as long as possible, and he urged buyers to compare rates at Showcase with other developments in Orange County and other Southern California locations.

The Custom Completion Plan, one of the most revolutionary features in the home building industry in years, allows buyers to literally re-design their home to suit their own tastes and needs.

Except for bearing walls, homeowners can, under this program, change the location of doors, windows, fireplaces and even the size and number of rooms.

TO GO along with this widely-copied idea, is the Growing Room, an unfinished area in the one and two story models which can be used either at the time of purchase — or a ater date—to suit the exact needs of a growing family.

Some owners have turned the area into a large bedroom "retreat," others into an extra three bedroom and bath wing, while still others have found the area to be perfect for den, study or rumpus room.

A large sun deck is an integral part of the area, and plumbing is already stubbed in for quick installation, once the plans have been made.

McFARLAND emphasized this is the final unit of these Westminster homes and that there are a few homes available for immediate occupancy, for those wishing to take advantage now.

Built by developer Bill Krueger, these homes are priced from $30,495 and come in 33 exterior styles with 10 basic floor plans.

Troy Cerritos Sets Today as 'Before Completion' Preview

A "before completion" preview of models at Troy Cerritos, the new 102-home community of The McCarthy Company in Cerritos, will be opened today, it was announced by William Schulz, marketing and sales director for the Company.

It is a $3,000,000 development for home buyers looking for close in proximity to industries, schools, colleges, and the recreational facilities of Los Angeles and Orange counties. There will be 59 homes in the first unit now under construction.

"Today's preview is designed to give buyers the opportunity to select choice lots and home plans," said Schulz. "The models have been finished and landscaped, but they will not be furnished and decorated until early in February."

PRICES will range from $28,950 to $34,950. Models include one three bedroom single story home, one four bedroom two story home, and two different four bedroom single story homes.

Sixteen different exteriors will be available.

Sales will be on a first come, first served, basis, said Fred Dodd, sales manager for Troy Cerritos.

The sales office on the site will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, just south of the intersection of Bloomfield Boulvard and 195th Street.

Troy Cerritos can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Carmenita, then south to South Street, then west to Bloomfield, and then proceeding south to the site; or by turning off the San Diego Freeway at Carmenita and proceeding north to Del Amo Boulevard (La Palma Boulevard), then west to Bloomfield Boulevard, then right one half block to the models.

Meadowview Boast Long Bridle Trails

More than 50 miles of well-marked bridle trails are available to property owners at Meadowview, the country estate project located at Rancho California in southwest Riverside County.

Numerous scenic lookouts are marked along the trails and they provide the Meadowview horseman both unusual viewpoints and choice locations for picture taking.

Complementing the bridle trail network are strategically located watering holes and picnic grounds where both man and his horse may enjoy refreshments and rest.

Through a homeowner's association, property owners at Meadowview have an interest in a 380-acre parcel, designed for parks and green belts, and use of a private yacht club at 850-acre Vail Lake.

Also nearby are a $2 million golf resort, riding stable and a convenience shopping center.

Penney's Continues Sundays

J. C. Penney Company, Inc., announced it will continue to keep some of its stores open on Sunday afternoons. Involved in the Sunday afternoon openings will be approximately 90 of the company's 1,657 stores.

Markets in which Penney stores will remain open Sunday afternoons include Chicago, Los Angeles, Phoenix, and Tampa.

Explaining Penney's decision, Chrmn. William M. Batten said, "Our stores will remain open only in areas where our major competitors have decided to keep their stores open on Sundays."

Common Market

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland are currently working on a plan to create a Nordic "Common Market." The plan calls for a Nordic customs union and a wide extension of economic cooperation among the neighbor countries.

No More Tobacco Road?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tobacco Road, made famous in Erskine Caldwell's novel about poor whites in the depression, may have its name changed.

The notoriety of the road, on the outskirts of Augusta, is a deterrent to real estate values, according to Howard W. Pollard, executive director of the Augusta-Richmond County Planning Commission.

WORLD OF WINGS

Trans World Airlines will begin service with its Boeing 747s between Los Angeles and New York on Feb. 25, marking the first domestic use of the spacious jumbo jet. International operations will start March 18 with schedules between New York and London.

The flights will also add three new wrinkles to the growing list of competitive features devised by the airlines for the giant jetliner.

TWA's floor plan provides more space per passenger with a maximum of 342 seats, about 20 less than the arrangement selected by most Boeing customer airlines; plus a main-deck lounge not included in the standard plan and a choice of two different movies on each flight.

THERE WILL BE TWO first-class sections with a total of 58 seats and three tourist cabins for the balance of 284. First class passengers also will have access to a larger lounge on the upper deck, reached by a spiral staircase.

The layout will permit two movie screens in both first class and coach for a preference of film fare. One of the in-flight movies will be rated for family viewing and the other for mature adult audiences.

(A TWA spokesman in Los Angeles said the airline does not plan to make the flying film festival a triple-feature with restricted X-rated movies in the upper-level lounge.)

The New York inaugural will leave Los Angeles at 8:45 a.m. and arrive at Kennedy International Airport at 4:25 p.m. New York time. The plane will turn around two hours later as Flight 1 for Los Angeles.

Passengers arriving from New York on the super-jet will be able to avoid baggage-handling delays by booking connecting flights to California destinations served by Long Beach-based Golden West Airlines.

UNDER AN INTERLINE agreement with TWA, passengers and their luggage can be transferred to Golden West for direct flights to any of 21 communities on the local commuter airline's scheduled routes.

"The beauty of this arrangement is that the passenger can forget about his luggage until he arrives at his final destination, avoiding long lines in the claim areas at Los Angeles International Airport," explained Golden West president Victor H. Harrell

Golden West also has had an interline agreement with United Air Lines for the service. Latest to join is National Airlines.

Operating a fleet of propjet Twin Otter aircraft, Golden West schedules more than 400 daily flights between major airports and outlying communities in northern and southern California, including Long Beach, Fullerton, Santa Ana and Catalina Island.

Pep Boys Stores Present Employe Service Awards

More than $20,000 in service awards were presented to employes of the Pep Boys Auto Supply Stores on the 30th anniversary of the company's Five-Year Club.

Seventeen new members of this club received Gold Service Pins, cash awards and service recognition certificates. Membership in Pep Boys' Five-Year Club is attained automatically as employes complete five years of service with the company.

ADDITIONAL employe benefits, including the company sponsored pension fund, are realized upon completion of five consecutive years of service. Almost one-half of the company's employes now hold membership in this club.

Six employes were honored for completing 20 years of company service with Pep Boys and were each awarded a $1,000 savings bond.

Eleven employes recently completed 10 years of company service and were presented with $500 bonds.

WHATS YOUR PROBLEM?

'Dipping into Principal' Is Sometimes Disastrous

By DON CAMPBELL

You may recall having seen the cartoon where a pair of aging playboys are ogling a bikini-clad beauty on the beach and one of them pants to the other: "Gad, Mosely! I'd dip into principal for a girl like that!"

All of which is a lesson in relative values — there are times when it makes perfectly good sense to "dip into principal," and there are other times when it could be disastrous.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I will soon be 50 years old, and am recently widowed. I owe approximately $6,000 on the mortgage (at 4½ per cent interest) on a house worth about $15,000 in today's market. I have about $11,000 in cash.

My problem is this: would I be wise to pay off the balance of the mortgage, even though it would reduce my cash reserve by more than half? Or would it be better for me to hang onto the cash and continue making monthly payments? I do not intend ever to move from here, as I could not find any comparable place to live for $65 a month — the amount of my house payment.

It seems to me it would be sensible to pay off the mortgage while I can; but, on the other hand, my financial condition in the future is uncertain as I am not steadily employed.

Thank you for your advice. — MRS. H.Z

ANSWER: Ownership — the possession of a tangible piece of property with no encumbrances on it — has tremendous appeal, and an appeal that seems to increase with age. But that doesn't necessarily make ownership, for the sake of ownership, all that desirable.

In this particular instance, for example, it is my personal belief that it would be a grave mistake, for Mrs. Z to cut so deeply into her reserves for this purpose. The gain, which is largely an intangible one, anyway, wouldn't at all be worth the risk of having that money available for some future emergency.

Where Mrs. Z is making a terrible mistake, I feel, is in hanging onto that $11,000 in cash while inflation is steadily reducing its value (at present rates, by about 6 per cent this year, alone) and while perfectly safe investments are yielding historically high returns. Through her bank, for instance, she can buy certain U.S. Treasury notes that will yield her better than 7 per cent a year — or the equivalent of more than 11 of her 12 annual house payments of $65!

Or, for that matter, she could simply buy Certificates of Deposit in her own bank (which are insured) and receive interest of about $605 a year.

In other words: that idle cash could, right now, be put to work in such a way that it could be making practically all of Mrs. Z's house payments for her — and without spending a cent of it. This should definitely be her first line of action while she shelves, at least for the time being, all thought of paying off the mortgage.

MR. CAMPBELL:

Several months ago I subleased a very nice apartment from an older couple who told me that they were going to pay an extended visit on one of their children and do a little traveling at the same time.

I have not only been making my rent payments to them on time, but have also gone to considerable expense in connection with the apartment — such as having all of the draperies cleaned — even though this wasn't required of me.

Now, all of a sudden, I receive notice from the management company that the lease has been terminated because of defaulted payments, and I am being evicted. I don't understand how they can do this to me when I have been paying my rent on the first day of each month. Can you explain? —MR. T.F.

ANSWER: You may have been paying YOUR rent on time, but somebody — in the form of that kindly couple — certainly hasn't. Sorry, but the tenant's rights, even the "right" to be evicted, are superior to yours.

Since you seem to like the apartment so much, though, I suggest that you contact the management company and ask that you be allowed to pick up the lease. In view of your promptness in paying your rent, the management might find this a scintillating change from the policies of the previous tenant.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I don't know whether I am in some kind of trouble or not, but my wife and I were persuaded by a friend recently to offer a lot that we own to a local businessman for $5,000.

I put the offer in writing, which was probably a mistake, and put an expiration date on it 30 days later. We both regretted the deal almost at once (because we got a better offer) and I immediately shot a letter off to the would-be buyer canceling the deal.

This, I thought, should have ended the matter except that, about a week later, we got a letter accepting our original offer. He, the businessman, doesn't deny receiving my letter before he accepted the proposition, but insists that I am bound to honor it because it was well within the 30-day limit. What's your opinion? — MR. H.H.

ANSWER: My opinion is that your would-be buyer is trying to stretch the facts to fit his convenience. The letter you sent him wasn't an option — merely an offer, which you had the right to withdraw at any time — and the expiration date that you plucked out of thin air was merely notification that, other action missing, the offer would automatically expire at that time.

If your opponent in this matter persists, however, I would turn it over to my attorney.

(Campbell welcomes letters. He cannot enter into personal correspondence, but will answer as many letters as possible through his column.)

Diversity of Development in '69 Noted at Big Rancho California

Sales of Rancho California real estate properties have passed the $34 million level, George J. McGaffigan, vice president and general manager of the 87,500-acre multi-purpose land development in southwest Riverside County.

In a year-end review of 1969 developments at the vast project owned by Kaiser Aetna, McGaffigan noted "the diversity of development during the year has been almost unbelievable, and there has been a definite transition from agriculture to people-oriented projects."

"As recently as a year ago, the 41,500 acres east of Highway 395 were devoted largely to agriculture," he said.

"Today this area is rapidly becoming a thriving country community, with large areas set aside for light industry, commerce, homes and recreation, as well as for agriculture.

"The 46,000 acres which lie to the west remain relatively undeveloped, although a substantial amount of property has been sold for investment purposes," he added.

McGaffigan said much of the impetus to the success of the Ranch through recent months has been provided by increased sales in the Rancho California Industrial Park, forecasting that by late this spring industrial plants will have created more than 500 new jobs.

"The bulk of these will be filled by newcomers to the area," he said, "and in preparation, rapid development of housing is well under way at Rancho California. The variety of residential areas is such that homes today range from around $22,500 to more than $100,000, and we will be ready to start soon on apartment projects and well-designed low-cost housing."

McGaffigan said that operating experience, plus the projections of qualified economists, lead company officials to believe that Rancho California'a population will increase 10-fold during the next decade, reaching 28,500 by 1980 and 60,000 by 1985.

He added that developments during the year are outlined in detail in the new 24-page 1969-70 "Rancho California Progress Report" recently printed and available on request from Rancho California, P.O. Box 755, Temecula, Calif. 92390.

WHATS YOUR PROBLEM?

'Dipping into Principal' Is Sometimes Disastrous

By DON CAMPBELL

You may recall having seen the cartoon where a pair of aging playboys are ogling a bikini-clad beauty on the beach and one of them pants to the other: "Gad, Mosely! I'd dip into principal for a girl like that!"

All of which is a lesson in relative values — there are times when it makes perfectly good sense to "dip into principal," and there are other times when it could be disastrous.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I will soon be 50 years old, and am recently widowed. I owe approximately $6,000 on the mortgage (at 4½ per cent interest) on a house worth about $15,000 in today's market. I have about $11,000 in cash.

My problem is this: would I be wise to pay off the balance of the mortgage, even though it would reduce my cash reserve by more than half? Or would it be better for me to hang onto the cash and continue making monthly payments? I do not intend ever to move from here, as I could not find any comparable place to live for $65 a month — the amount of my house payment.

It seems to me it would be sensible to pay off the mortgage while I can; but, on the other hand, my financial condition in the future is uncertain as I am not steadily employed.

Thank you for your advice. — MRS. H.Z

ANSWER: Ownership — the possession of a tangible piece of property with no encumbrances on it — has tremendous appeal, and an appeal that seems to increase with age. But that doesn't necessarily make ownership, for the sake of ownership, all that desirable.

In this particular instance, for example, it is my personal belief that it would be a grave mistake, for Mrs. Z to cut so deeply into her reserves for this purpose. The gain, which is largely an intangible one, anyway, wouldn't at all be worth the risk of having that money available for some future emergency.

Where Mrs. Z is making a terrible mistake, I feel, is in hanging onto that $11,000 in cash while inflation is steadily reducing its value (at present rates, by about 6 per cent this year, alone) and while perfectly safe investments are yielding historically high returns. Through her bank, for instance, she can buy certain U.S. Treasury notes that will yield her better than 7 per cent a year — or the equivalent of more than 11 of her 12 annual house payments of $65!

Or, for that matter, she could simply buy Certificates of Deposit in her own bank (which are insured) and receive interest of about $605 a year.

In other words: that idle cash could, right now, be put to work in such a way that it could be making practically all of Mrs. Z's house payments for her — and without spending a cent of it. This should definitely be her first line of action while she shelves, at least for the time being, all thought of paying off the mortgage.

MR. CAMPBELL:

Several months ago I subleased a very nice apartment from an older couple who told me that they were going to pay an extended visit on one of their children and do a little traveling at the same time.

I have not only been making my rent payments to them on time, but have also gone to considerable expense in connection with the apartment — such as having all of the draperies cleaned — even though this wasn't required of me.

Now, all of a sudden, I receive notice from the management company that the lease has been terminated because of defaulted payments, and I am being evicted. I don't understand how they can do this to me when I have been paying my rent on the first day of each month. Can you explain? —MR. T.F.

ANSWER: You may have been paying YOUR rent on time, but somebody — in the form of that kindly couple — certainly hasn't. Sorry, but the tenant's rights, even the "right" to be evicted, are superior to yours.

Since you seem to like the apartment so much, though, I suggest that you contact the management company and ask that you be allowed to pick up the lease. In view of your promptness in paying your rent, the management might find this a scintillating change from the policies of the previous tenant.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I don't know whether I am in some kind of trouble or not, but my wife and I were persuaded by a friend recently to offer a lot that we own to a local businessman for $5,000.

I put the offer in writing, which was probably a mistake, and put an expiration date on it 30 days later. We both regretted the deal almost at once (because we got a better offer) and I immediately shot a letter off to the would-be buyer canceling the deal.

This, I thought, should have ended the matter except that, about a week later, we got a letter accepting our original offer. He, the businessman, doesn't deny receiving my letter before he accepted the proposition, but insists that I am bound to honor it because it was well within the 30-day limit. What's your opinion? — MR. H.H.

ANSWER: My opinion is that your would-be buyer is trying to stretch the facts to fit his convenience. The letter you sent him wasn't an option — merely an offer, which you had the right to withdraw at any time — and the expiration date that you plucked out of thin air was merely notification that, other action missing, the offer would automatically expire at that time.

If your opponent in this matter persists, however, I would turn it over to my attorney.

(Campbell welcomes letters. He cannot enter into personal correspondence, but will answer as many letters as possible through his column.)

NAMED

Diversity of Development in '69 Noted at Big Rancho California

Sales of Rancho California real estate properties have passed the $34 million level, George J. McGaffigan, vice president and general manager of the 87,500-acre multi-purpose land development in southwest Riverside County.

In a year-end review of 1969 developments at the vast project owned by Kaiser Aetna, McGaffigan noted "the diversity of development during the year has been almost unbelievable, and there has been a definite transition from agriculture to people-oriented projects."

"As recently as a year ago, the 41,500 acres east of Highway 395 were devoted largely to agriculture," he said.

"Today this area is rapidly becoming a thriving country community, with large areas set aside for light industry, commerce, homes and recreation, as well as for agriculture.

"The 46,000 acres which lie to the west remain relatively undeveloped, although a substantial amount of property has been sold for investment purposes," he added.

McGaffigan said much of the impetus to the success of the Ranch through recent months has been provided by increased sales in the Rancho California Industrial Park, forecasting that by late this spring industrial plants will have created more than 500 new jobs.

"The bulk of these will be filled by newcomers to the area," he said, "and in preparation, rapid development of housing is well under way at Rancho California. The variety of residential areas is such that homes today range from around $22,500 to more than $100,000, and we will be ready to start soon on apartment projects and well-designed low-cost housing."

McGaffigan said that operating experience, plus the projections of qualified economists, lead company officials to believe that Rancho California's population will increase 10-fold during the next decade, reaching 28,500 by 1980 and 60,000 by 1985.

He added that developments during the year are outlined in detail in the new 24-page 1969-70 "Rancho California Progress Report" recently printed and available on request from Rancho California, P.O. Box 755, Temecula, Calif. 92390.

Builders' Spokesman Believes Interest Hike 'Beneficial'

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

A few days have passed since George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, announced an increase in the FHA-VA loan interest rates to 8½ per cent from 7½.

In that time, thoughtful builders have had time to analyze the situation.

The increase in the interest rate, he believes, is expected to "pump more money into mortgages and be beneficial to the home-buying public and to the home building industry."

Tenzer clarifies:

"The increase represents only pennies a day and will be offset by the reduction in points (added cost builders or sellers pay to obtain financing, currently averaging 9 points).

"On a $22,000 home," Tenzer added, "a homeowner will pay approximately 46 cents more a day, which is just a few pennies more than a package of cigarettes, as a result of the increase.

More Money for Homes

Housing experts seem to agree that the increase will provide more money for new home financing. The increase will be a boon to resales and new housing due to a predicted decrease in points to the seller.

This increase will be of particular benefit to a family who is selling their present home as their equity is enhanced substantially by the reduction of points they have to pay.

"For example," Tenzer said, "a seller until now had to pay 9 points or $1,980 on the sale of a $22,000 home. Now, with the increased interest rate, the seller will only have to pay approximately 4 points or $800 which increases his cash equity by $1,100. This additional money can be used for a down payment on a new home and reduce the monthly payments.

"Thus, new housing demand and sales are expected to accelerate rapidly.

"Furthermore," said Tenzer, "the additional interest expense is tax deductible, while points are not.

"At the 8½ per cent rate," Tenzer said, "it still represents one of the best buys available in consumer finance. Automobile financing today is about 18 per cent. Interest costs on department store charge accounts run 18 per cent and more, and most other costs for consumer financing are at an even greater interest.

"When compared to the 8½ per cent prime interest rate that General Motors and other giant companies pay for money for short-term borrowing, the 8½ per cent rate for 30-year mortgages is still quite reasonable and an excellent buy."

Larwin Company, a charter member of the Council of House Producers, is part of the Larwin Group, Inc., Beverly Hills headquartered firm with interests in home building, mortgage banking and finance, commercial and industrial development and land development.

Recently, Larwin announced plans to enter the Chicago, San Diego, and San Jose, Calif., markets. The Larwin Group recently merged with CNA Financial Corp. (NYSE), the Chicago-based holding company with more than $3 billion in assets.

December Decline Noted

An estimated 2.5 per cent economic decline during the past month has been reported by L. H. Showalter, vice president and manager of Security Pacific National Bank's Long Beach office.

All available statistics reflect the December decline. Bank debit and department store sales figures fell most sharply, as measured with seasonal adjustments on the bank's Southern California Business Index.

time high, the downtujn has been one of 3.7 per cent.

Since October, when the economy reached an all-time high, the downtown has been one of 3.7 per cent. Business activity remains 7.4 per cent better than a year ago, however.

Employment and unemployment increased during November, the latest month for which labor figures are available.

Seasonally adjusted civilian employment of 4,728,200 amounted to an all-time record in Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties.

November employment was up 5,500 from October and up 144,500 from November 1968. Jobs increased in all eight counties, except Imperial (down 800). Los Angeles County, with a gain of 80,300, accounted for 55.6 per cent of the year's total regional increase.

A seasonally adjusted November unemployment rate of 4.3 per cent was up from 4.1 per cent in October and unchanged from November 1968. Ratios of unemployed to the total civilian labor force were 4.5 per cent throughout California and 3.4 per cent throughout the nation during November.

FRB 'Overstays' Policy

The nation is slipping into recession chiefly because the Federal Reserve Board has overstayed its tight money policy, says Robert B. Johnson, partner in charge of research at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, nationwide investment firm.

In an economic letter, "Outlook for 1970," Johnson also says the nation's Gross National Product (GNP) will be running at a record annual rate of $1 trillion by year-end but real growth will be negligible.

The economy will be faced simultaneously with inflation and recession in the new year, observes Johnson, a leading Wall Street economist. Labor strikes, he says, will be longer and more widespread.

Profits from securities will be harder to come by, Johnson observes, but he foresees no further market drop of substantial proportions. Any meaningful rally, according to Johnson, would need favorable news about Vietnam or easier money.

Computer to Aid Builders

Howard R. Eichen, a builder since 1963, organized Co-Data Corp. in Fullerton in 1968 and spent a year in developing programs and data banks to give builders estimates and optimum design in only five days.

Earlier, builders had to have working drawings that required 10 to 12 weeks before they could estimate a firm construction cost figure.

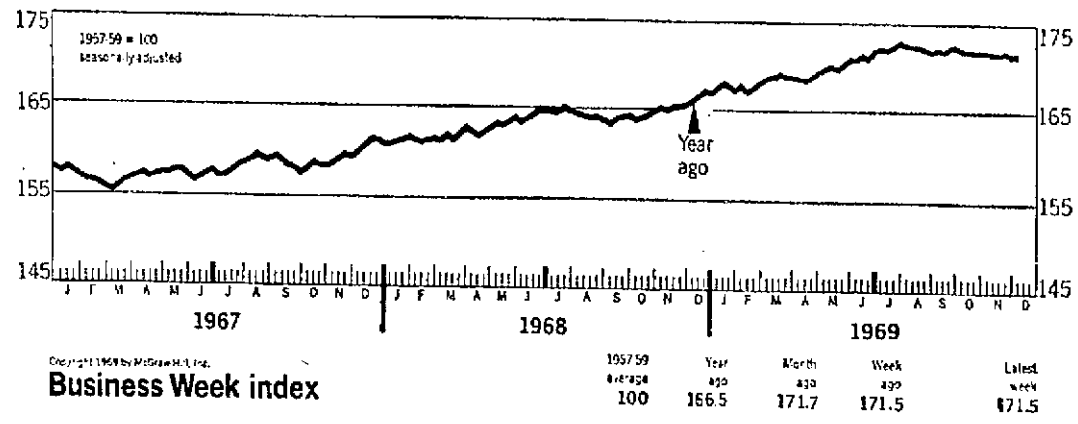

"I felt there must be a means of teaching a computer to do more for the building industry than simply add figures," Eichen said.

"Fortunately, my thinking happened to crystallize along with the advent of computer time sharing. This made the expense and investment factors practical."

Now, he says, he can save a builder from $300 to $600 per unit. The computer doesn't require a drawing either.

Co-Data recently opened an office in San Jose and plans one in Dallas by February.

Eichen said he is developing a new service which will produce an item-by-item list the builder needs. This, he said, should eliminate overbidding, underbidding and overbuying.

Steel Production Gains Over '68

Steel output remained the same. After seasonal adjustment, production rose 16.3 per cent above the year-ago level.

Auto production went up, despite shutdowns of several plants due to strikes. Sales are down from a year ago.

The power components registered losses in the current week. Electric power output slipped 5.0 per cent; crude oil refinery runs gained 0.4 per cent, due in part, to a heavy use of fuel oil and motor gas during the holiday.

Surface transportation components registered losses: miscellaneous carloadings dropped 1.6 per cent; all other carloadings slipped 1.6 per cent and intercity truck tonnage went down 14.1 per cent.

Paperboard production went down 1.9 per cent.

Howard R. Eichen, a builder since 1963, organized Co-Data Corp. in Fullerton in 1968 and spent a year in developing programs and data banks to give builders estimates and optimum design in only five days.

Earlier, builders had to have working drawings that required 10 to 12 weeks before they could estimate a firm construction cost figure.

"I felt there must be a means of teaching a computer to do more for the building industry than simply add figures," Eichen said.

"Fortunately, my thinking happened to crystallize along with the advent of computer time sharing. This made the expense and investment factors practical."

Now, he says, he can save a builder from $300 to $600 per unit. The computer doesn't require a drawing either.

Co-Data recently opened an office in San Jose and plans one in Dallas by February.

Eichen said he is developing a new service which will produce an item-by-item list the builder needs. This, he said, should eliminate overbidding, underbidding and overbuying.

Molasses: Sweetest Cargo in L.A. Harbor

The sweetest cargo to be checked across docks of Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor these days is molasses.

One of the reasons port officials say "it's sweet cargo" is that molasses has a minimum of 48 per cent sugar. Another is that there is a growing demand for molasses.

The Port of Los Angeles is the distributing center for molasses and the huge cargoes of the thick syrup which flow through port facilities help feed more than two million dairy and beef cattle, untold numbers of other domestic animals and millions of chickens.

Rapid growth of the Greater Los Angeles area has created added markets for molasses, but now comes a new use for the syrup. The Southland's rapidly developing industrial complex is experimenting with insecticides having a molasses base.

Molasses weighs 12 pounds per gallon compared to eight pounds per gallon of water. Also molasses is sticky.

Tests have shown the molasses-base insecticides adhere to leafy plants better, are not diluted or carried away by winds as easily and are adaptable for spray use from both the air and ground.

HOW MUCH effect the new use for molasses will have is a matter of conjecture. However, three large companies are engaged in the molasses importing business.

They are Pacific Molasses Company on Terminal Island and Cargill's Molasses Terminal in Wilmington and National Molasses Company in the Port of Long Beach.

Special "feeding cane" molasses is the only type handled within the local port complex. Other typed including beet molasses, carrot molasses, wood molasses (made from sugar pine), corn molasses and hydro or synthetic molasses might be used later in insecticides.

MOLASSES comes to Southern California from Mexico, Nicaragua, Peru, Philippines, Hawaii and Australia. A few special tankers arrive in port with the sticky substance; however, most shipments arrive in deep tanks aboard freighters carrying other cargo.

These shipments are either pumped directly from ship through underground pipelines into storage tanks, or they are unloaded into special molasses barges operated by the importing firms and then shifted to molasses terminals and storage tanks.

The barges have capacities of up to 3,500 tons.

Present storage tank capacity in Los Angeles Harbor for molasses is about 60,000 tons according to industry leaders. Port records show that nearly 115,000 tons of molasses came into the harbor last year.

The National facility in the Port of Long Beach operated only during the last three months of the 1968-69 fiscal year. During that period the company handled 47,000 tons. The new terminal on Pier J has a storage capacity of 64,000 tons.

Animal and poultry food processors in Arizona, Utah, Nevada and Southern California, from El Centro to central valley areas, receive the molasses brought into the Port of Los Angeles.

TRUCKS and tank cars deliver molasses to most feed lots five times a week and its use in feeding cattle has been developed to a fine point by computerization.

The molasses is highly specialized to meet specific requirements in regulating fat of feeder cattle or in milk content of dairy cattle.

Molasses makes up from eight to ten per cent of the food for each animal daily and averages from three to five pounds per animal per day and is mixed to an exactness only a computerized system can produce.

Science has had an important part in the production of the molasses imported through the Port of Los Angeles, in that special cane-corn types have been developed which do not produce kernels on the ears.

Rather all the sugar and prolein content usually stored in an ear of corn remains in the stalk, thus developing a more nutrient type syrup.

Citrus pulp (once discarded as waste), along with hay, phosphorus for bone development, special protein, penicillin and other needed ingredients are included in the molasses mixtures as special diets for animals and poultry.

German Brewery

BONN (UPI) — Alaska's first brewery may be built by the Oetker Group of West Germany.

Oetker, one of Germany's leading food processors, found a study of the Alaskan beer market potential in 1965-66 to be encouraging. A final decision depends on the state government granting certain tax concessions, an Oetker spokesman said.

If the project is approved, Oetker proposes a brewery with an annual capacity of about 1,375,000 gallons.

PORTS O'PROGRESS

Executives of Toyota Motor Sales, USA, Inc., estimate they will move 47,000 vehicles through the Port of Long Beach during the first year of operation of a 21-acre terminal and warehouse complex nearing completion on Pier J in the Port of Long Beach.

The new foreign car import facility is scheduled to go into operation Feb. 1.

Harbor department officials calculate the auto-truck handling facility will produce $225,000 annually from dockage, wharfage, and storage fees.

THE EXECUTIVE SECREARY of the Southern California Japanese Chamber of Commerce for the past eight years, Frank H. Hirata, has joined the Los Angeles Harbor Department as a trade promotion consultant.

Hirata, who speaks Japanese fluently, will call on Japanese steamship companies, shippers, trading companies, freight forwarders, customhouse brokers, warehousemen and Japanese governmental and commercial representatives.

Hirata, 44, received his LLB degree from Kyoto University in 1952 and a BA from UCLA in 1962.

CONSTRUCTION IS UNDERWAY in the Port of Los Angeles on a new import auto handling facility.

The "auto ready" operation will enable Distribution Auto Service, Inc. to deliver Datsun vehicles directly to dealers.

Cost of the facility being built at Berths 131-139 will be shared jointly by the DAS and the Los Angeles Harbor Department.

IN-PORT-ANT PEOPLE: Frank Black, director of public relations for the Port of Long Beach, has been named a director of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club.

POSSIBLE TAX ESCAPE

Group Life Insurance Has New Tax Aspect

New York Times Service

Group life insurance, which often constitutes the largest part of an individual's potential estate, has a brand new tax aspect.

And since many popple don't realize this, a good New Year's resolution for an employe would be to investigate it.

Most companies, such as industrial corporations, banks, brokerage firms, publications, insurance companies and others, offer their employes in clerical, administrative, and managerial jobs group life insurance coverage, perhaps three times or even five times the amount of the basic salary.

Often the company picks up the tab for the insurance coverage, although sometimes the employes pay a small amount.

Until recently, there was doubt as to whether an employe could transfer the rights to a group policy to prevent the money from being taxed following his death.

It is, of course, possible to transfer the usual life insurance policy so that it is not taxable to the insured's estate.

RELUCTANTLY last year, the Internal Revenue Service said it was possible to transfer group policies if the policy and the applicable state law permitted assignment of the insured's rights to another person or persons, including the right to convert to an individual policy when the group coverage ended.

They bulldogged a case against the estate of Max J. Gorby through the U.S. Tax Court on several grounds.

One argument was that, although the insured, Gorby, has assigned his two group policies to his wife, who later assigned them to her sons, he still had incidents of ownership because he could terminate his employment, and thus force his sons to convert or permit the coverage to lapse.

THE TAX court refused to accept this nitpicking in a decision reported several weeks ago. The case was called "a big victory" for taxpayers by Prentice-Hall, Inc., the legal-publishing company.

Since the IRS wanted to win a $92,000 tax deficiency claim against the Gorby estate, based on two noncontributory group policies with total coverage of $125.000, the case was a big one. But the significance is much broader because so many employes can think in terms of transferring group coverage.

Suppose a middle-management, middle-aged man has $100,000 in group life coverage, a house worth $40,000, $20,000 in a company profit-sharing plan, and $20,000 in securities and other property.

Suppose, too, that he can pass half of the total upon death to his wife by means of the marital deduction.

$100,000	group life
40,000	house
20,000	profit-sharing
20,000	securities
$180,000	gross estate

(Minus)$90,000 half tax-free under marital deduction; $90,000 estate before personal exemption.

(Minus) $60,000 personal exemption; $30,000 taxable estate.

THE TAX on $30,000 would be about $3,000. In the above example, however, no provision is made for simplicity's sake for legal expenses, funeral costs, etc., which can be deducted from the gross.

Obviously, if the insured could effectively transfer the group life insurance policy to his wife, his estate would save the $3,000 in federal estate taxes.

Since the Gorby decision is quite new, it would be wise for an employe to ask his company to check the possibility of making such assignments to the wife or children.

First, the company has to check the master policy to make sure it contains no provision against such assignment of the individual certificates, and get it changed if it does.

State law must be checked to make sure such assignments can be made. The Gorby case and a previous case, U.S. v. Landorf, apparently indicate such assignments are valid in California and New York.

Then the individual must determine how such an assignment whold help his estate plan. He must then make sure that he transfers properly all the required incidents of ownership.

The incidents of ownership include the right to change the beneficiary; the right to surrender the policy; the right to borrow against it, if there is a reserve; the right to pledge it as collateral and the right to assign the policy.

If any of these remain with the insured, then it could be taxable to his estate.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Driver education courses in U.S. high schools used nearly 28 thousand new cars loaned by dealers for behind-the-wheel instruction during the 1968-69 school year, according to the annual survey by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee.

Provided by dealers with assistance from manufacturers, at no cost to schools, parents or taxpayers, these cars represented 93 per cent of all cars so in use.

AIHSC chairman Byron J. Nichols, Chrysler vice president-marketing, says this is an increase of almost 4,500 over the number of dealer-loaned cars during the preceding school year.

The national total of training vehicles used was 29,910, including both new and used cars plus several hundred trucks and other commercial vehicles. Of this grand total, 27,927 were new late-model cars provided free by dealers. Nichols states this figure represents original loans only and does not include replacements made during the year. (Original loans plus replacements totaled 53,013).

RETAIL VALUE OF THESE loan cars has been estimated by the National Automobile Dealers Association at approximately $83.4 million.

Nichols says during the 22 years the Committee has conducted the survey, more than 250,000 new cars have been provided at no charge to high schools by dealers. "Without the assistance of dealers, many communities would have been unable to include supervised practice driving in their driver education courses," the points out.

"We believe building a nation of better drivers requires competent systems of driver education, taught by qualified instructors, covering all phases of driver attitudes and skills including those that can only be learned behind the wheel."

Besides loaning cars, auto companies and dealers also assist driver education courses by furnishing training films, demonstration vehicles or parts, and other classroom aids. Safety education materials developed for the 21,000-member Auto Dealers Traffic Safety Council, which is sponsored by the Committee, are also made available by dealer members to schools in their local areas.

The Committee's report was based on statistics supplied by auto manufacturers and the state departments of education.

Davis & Associates in National Feature

An unusual open house engineered earlier this year by Davis & Associates Advertising, Long Beach, was cited in a feature article by a national audiovisual trade magazine last month.

Featured in Business Screen magazine, the article explains the hows and whys of Avis & Associates' mixed media open house format, as reported in this Progress Section.

EMPLOYED in the open house were giant billboard segments, three carousel projectors flashing 500 color images every six minutes, two tape units playing continuous acid rock music, various amusement games, burning incense, and a graffiti wall.

"Communication operates on many levels, and we just tried to use as many as possible for the highest impact in opening our new offices," agency president Churck Davis said.

POSSIBLE TAX ESCAPE

Group Life Insurance Has New Tax Aspect

New York Times Service

Group life insurance, which often constitutes the largest part of an individual's potential estate, has a brand new tax aspect.

And since many popple don't realize this, a good New Year's resolution for an employe would be to investigate it.

Most companies, such as industrial corporations, banks, brokerage firms, publications, insurance companies and others, offer their employes in clerical, administrative, and managerial jobs group life insurance coverage, perhaps three times or even five times the amount of the basic salary.

Often the company picks up the tab for the insurance coverage, although sometimes the employes pay a small amount.

Until recently, there was doubt as to whether an employe could transfer the rights to a group policy to prevent the money from being taxed following his death.

It is, of course, possible to transfer the usual life insurance policy so that it is not taxable to the insured's estate.

RELUCTANTLY last year, the Internal Revenue Service said it was possible to transfer group policies if the policy and the applicable state law permitted assignment of the insured's rights to another person or persons, including the right to convert to an individual policy when the group coverage ended.

They bulldogged a case against the estate of Max J. Gorby through the U.S. Tax Court on several grounds.

One argument was that, although the insured, Gorby, has assigned his two group policies to his wife, who later assigned them to her sons, he still had incidents of ownership because he could terminate his employment, and thus force his sons to convert or permit the coverage to lapse.

THE TAX court refused to accept this nitpicking in a decision reported several weeks ago. The case was called "a big victory" for taxpayers by Prentice-Hall, Inc., the legal-publishing company.

Since the IRS wanted to win a $92,000 tax deficiency claim against the Gorby estate, based on two noncontributory group policies with total coverage of $125,000, the case was a big one. But the significance is much broader because so many employes can think in terms of transferring group coverage.

Suppose a middle-management, middle-aged man has $100,000 in group life coverage, a house worth $40,000, $20,000 in a company profit-sharing plan, and $20,000 in securities and other property.

$100,000 group life
40,000 house
20,000 profit-sharing
20,000 securities

$180,000 gross estate

(Minus)$90,000 half tax-free under marital deduction; $90,000 estate before personal exemption.

(Minus) $60,000 personal exemption; $30,000 taxable estate.

THE TAX on $30,000 would be about $3,000. In the above example, however, no provision is made for simplicity's sake for legal expenses, funeral costs, etc., which can be deducted from the gross.

Obviously, if the insured could effectively transfer the group life insurance policy to his wife, his estate would save the $3,000 in federal estate taxes.

Disney Productions in Record First Quarter

Walt Disney Productions has reported financial results for the first quarter of its current fiscal year.

According to Donn B. Tatum, president, estimated net income for the period ending Jan. 3 was $3,900,000 or 75 cents per common share.

This compares with the first quarter of last year of $2,332,000 or 50 cents per common share (adjusted for stock dividends and outstanding stock options).

THIS YEAR'S first quarter consisted of fourteen weeks compared with last year's thirteen-week period.

The additional week fell during the busy Christmas-New Year Holiday Season and contributed earnings of approximately 10 cents per common share.

Fully diluted earnings (assuming conversion of all outstanding convertible debentures) amounted to 69 cents per share for this year's first quarter.

CONFIRMING previously announced estimates, Tatum disclosed in his annual report to the stockholders that net income of the company and its domestic subsidiaries for the fiscal year ended Sept. 27, 1969, amount to $15,804,000 equal to $3.49 cents per common share.

This compares with the previous year's net of $13,106,000 or $2.94 per share, as restated, for last year. Per share earnings figures assume the exercise of all outstanding stock options.

Blockbusting Gets Attention of Government; Says 'It Must Stop'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has launched a new campaign against "blockbusting," the illegal practice that turns racial bigotry into quick profits for real estate operators.

Samuel J. Simmons, Assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for equal opportunity, said he has received evidence that blockbusting, outlawed by the 1968 Civil Rights Act, is on the increase

Simmons said the Department of Justice recently filed a suit charging blockbusting tactics in Baltimore. He said he is investigating complaints from several different cities in both the North and South. He did not name them.

The blockbuster tries to panic people into selling their homes at less than market value by telling them that persons of another race have or soon will move into the neighborhood.

"UNDER the law, HUD can investigate and attemp to conciliate complaints of blockbusting," Simmons said. "We can also refer complaints to the U. S. Department of Justice for legal action."

"Blockbusting is an odious practice," he said. "It involves freightening people for a profit. It is unacceptable and it must stop."

Simmons said the homemaker's first line of defense is to refuse to sell.

"The claim that real estate values are about to drop has been proved wrong time and time again," Simmons said.

A series of panic sales will depress temporarily a neighborhood's property values. The blockbuster buys low and resells when values return to their real worth.

"Any evidence of renewed blockbusting is disturbing," Simmons said.

"Blockbusting always fails if concerned citizens stand their ground and refuse to panic," he said.

Parkhurst Retirement Residence, Opens Thursday Fountain Valley,

Parkhurst Retirement Residence, 9929 La Alameda St., Fountain Valley, will stage its grand opening and convocation next Thursday, George Sigler, administrator, has announced.

"Century Convalescent Centers, Inc., a national chain of extended care facilities headquartered in Los Angeles' Marina del Rey, has taken a 20-year lease on the property with an option to buy.

The two-story, Mediterranean-style structure is a modern self-contained retirement residence where guests can live in private comfort and be served with hotel-like efficiency, said Sigler.

Built at a cost of $1 million, the residence has 82 guest rooms, fully carpeted and luxuriously furnished for single or double occupancy.

"EACH ROOM has its own thermostatic control for air conditioning, an intercom to the front desk, individual bathrooms, large picture windows and a fire protection sprinkling system," said Sigler.

The residence has two recreation rooms upstairs and one down-stairs, plus a billiard room, card-playing facilities, a large whirlpool for physical therapy, a sewing room with sewing machines available, and a coin-operated laundry service. Maids will provide room cleaning and linen changes.

GUESTS can have continental breakfasts served in their rooms and snacks will be provided at any time.

"Three meals a day will be served by waitresses in our large dining room," said Sigler. "Guests will choose from a general menu and the food will be prepared in our kitchen, which contains $28,000 worth of modern stainless steel equipment."

An innovation is the large hallway window which allows residents to view the kitchen any time and watch the food being prepared.

There also is a large room equipped with kitchen facilities where residents can do their own baking and cooking and have guests in for dinner.

SIGLER said: "We also have a beauty shop and barber shop, a community living room with a fireplace, and a quiet room where guests can read, write letters, or just relax and contemplate."

A full-time recreation and activities director will implement programs requested by resident guests, and religious services will be held weekly. Medical and physical therapy services are available upon request.

A new public golf course is only two blocks away. The residence is near Huntington Beach, Westminster, Garden Grove, Costa Mesa, Newport Beach, Santa Ana, Leisure World and Seal Beach, Sigler said.

BY JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

Fixing of Real Estate Commissions Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has launched an investigation to determine if the nation's real estate boards are conspiring to fix commission rates on property sales.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced the probe and said Justice department investigators are checking to determine if recent commission rate increases in various parts of the country violate antitrust laws.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, the government's antitrust chief, said his probers are "particularly interested in this situation because of the inflationary impact of such increases on consumers in the purchase of homes."

The Justice Department also has filed a civil antitrust suit against the Prince George's County, Md., Board of Realtors Inc., charging the firm with recommending commission rates that are followed by its 1,000 members in their property transactions. Prince George's County is a Washington suburb.

The Prince George's suit, brought under the restraint of trade provision of the Sherman Act, marked the first antitrust action against a real estate board since 1947.

The alleged scheme is carried out, the government said, through the Prince George's Multiple Listing Service, and all members agree that no listing will be accepted at a commission rate less than the recommendation.

Consequently, the suit claimed commissions were fixed at a noncompetitive level and price competition among salesmen was eliminated.

THE GOVERNMENT asked for an injunction to prohibit the real estate board from the rate-setting practices.

Real estate sales through the listing service exceeded $39 million last year, the suit said, and the board recently issued a recommendation raising the commission rate from 5 per cent to 6 per cent.

This meant that consumers involved in a $25,000 home purchase would have to pay an additional $250 in commissions because of the increase.

Disney Productions in Record First Quarter

Walt Disney Productions has reported financial results for the first quarter of its current fiscal year.

According to Donn B. Tatum, president, estimated net income for the period ending Jan. 3 was $3,900,000 or 75 cents per common share.

This compares with the first quarter of last year of $2,332,000 or 50 cents per common share (adjusted for stock dividends and outstanding stock options).

THIS YEAR'S first quarter consisted of fourteen weeks compared with last year's thirteen-week period.

The additional week fell during the busy Christmas-New Year Holiday Season and contributed earnings of approximately 10 cents per common share.

Fully diluted earnings (assuming conversion of all outstanding convertible debentures) amounted to 69 cents per share for this year's first quarter.

CONFIRMING previously announced estimates, Tatum disclosed in his annual report to the stockholders that net income of the company and its domestic subsidiaries for the fiscal year ended Sept. 27, 1969, amount to $15,804,000 equal to $3.49 cents per common share.

This compares with the previous year's net of $13,106,000 or $2.94 per share, as restated, for last year. Per share earnings figures assume the exercise of all outstanding stock options.

Blockbusting Gets Attention of Government; Says 'It Must Stop'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has launched a new campaign against "blockbusting," the illegal practice that turns racial bigotry into quick profits for real estate operators.

Samuel J. Simmons, Assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for equal opportunity, said he has received evidence that blockbusting, outlawed by the 1968 Civil Rights Act, is on the increase

Simmons said the Department of Justice recently filed a suit charging blockbusting tactics in Baltimore. He said he is investigating complaints from several different cities in both the North and South. He did not name them.

The blockbuster tries to panic people into selling their homes at less than market value by telling them that persons of another race have or soon will move into the neighborhood.

"UNDER the law, HUD can investigate and attemp to conciliate complaints of blockbusting," Simmons said. "We can also refer complaints to the U. S. Department of Justice for legal action."

"Blockbusting is an odious practice," he said. "It involves freightening people for a profit. It is unacceptable and it must stop."

Simmons said the homemaker's first line of defense is to refuse to sell.

"The claim that real estate values are about to drop has been proved wrong time and time again," Simmons said.

A series of panic sales will depress temporarily a neighborhood's property values. The blockbuster buys low and resells when values return to their real worth.

"Any evidence of renewed blockbusting is disturbing," Simmons said.

"Blockbusting always falls if concerned citizens stand their ground and refuse to panic," he said.

Parkhurst Retirement Residence, Opens Thursday Fountain Valley,

Parkhurst Retriement Residence, 9929 La Alameda St., Fountain Valley, will stage its grand opening and convocation next Thursday, George Sigler, administrator, has announced.

"Century Convalescent Centers, Inc., a national chain of extended care facilities headquartered in Los Angeles' Marina del Rey, has taken a 20-year lease on the property with an option to buy.

The two-story, Mediterranean-style structure is a modern self-contained retirement residence where guests can live in private comfort and be served with hotel-like efficiency, said Sigler.

Built at a cost of $1 million, the residence has 82 guest rooms, fully carpeted and luxuriously furnished for single or double occupancy.

"EACH ROOM has its own thermostatic control for air conditioning, an intercom to the front desk, individual bathrooms, large picture windows and a fire protection sprinkling system," said Sigler.

The residence has two recreation rooms upstairs and one down-stairs, plus a billiard room, card-playing facilities, a large whirlpool for physical therapy, a sewing room with sewing machines available, and a coin-operated laundry service. Maids will provide room cleaning and linen changes.

GUESTS can have continental breakfasts served in their rooms and snacks will be provided at any time.

"Three meals a day will be served by waitresses in our large dining room," said Sigler. "Guests will choose from a general menu and the food will be prepared in our kitchen, which contains $28,000 worth of modern stainless steel equipment."

An innovation is the large hallway window which allows residents to view the kitchen any time and watch the food being prepared.

There also is a large room equipped with kitchen facilities where residents can do their own baking and cooking and have guests in for dinner.

SIGLER said: "We also have a beauty shop and barber shop, a community living room with a fireplace, and a quiet room where guests can read, write letters, or just relax and contemplate."

A full-time recreation and activities director will implement programs requested by resident guests, and religious services will be held weekly. Medical and physical therapy services are available upon request.

A new public golf course is only two blocks away. The residence is near Huntington Beach, Westminster, Garden Grove, Costa Mesa, Newport Beach, Santa Ana, Leisure World and Seal Beach, Sigler said.

BY JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

Fixing of Real Estate Commissions Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has launched an investigation to determine if the nation's real estate boards are conspiring to fix commission rates on property sales.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced the probe and said Justice department investigators are checking to determine if recent commission rate increases in various parts of the country violate antitrust laws.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, the government's antitrust chief, said his probers are "particularly interested in this situation because of the inflationary impact of such increases on consumers in the purchase of homes."

The Justice Department also has filed a civil antitrust suit against the Prince George's County, Md., Board of Realtors Inc., charging the firm with recommending commission rates that are followed by its 1,000 members in their property transactions. Prince George's County is a Washington suburb.

The Prince George's suit, brought under the restraint of trade provision of the Sherman Act, marked the first antitrust action against a real estate board since 1947.

The alleged scheme is carried out, the government said, through the Prince George's Multiple Listing Service, and all members agree that no listing will be accepted at a commission rate less than the recommendation.

Consequently, the suit claimed commissions were fixed at a noncompetitive level and price competition among salesmen was eliminated.

THE GOVERNMENT asked for an injunction to prohibit the real estate board from the rate-setting practices.

Real estate sales through the listing service exceeded $39 million last year, the suit said, and the board recently issued a recommendation raising the commission rate from 5 per cent to 6 per cent.

This meant that consumers involved in a $25,000 home purchase would have to pay an additional $250 in commissions because of the increase.

"The new 4300 provides a most efficient and economical means of keyboarding accurate magnetic tape data for direct input to medium and large scale third generation electronic data processors."

More than 40 Friden Division salesmen representing offices in Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Texas and Southern California gathered at the Saddleback Inn for a one-day seminar on the new system by H. For grand parents and grand kids: Introducing Coronado Homes from $21,995.

Two kinds of people will greet the news of Coronado Homes with special interest. Young families who've outgrown their small apartment, but whose budget has not; and mature families whose departing teens have left them with little need for an expensive dormitory. Beginning at $21,995, Coronado Homes are the most moderately priced in Mission Viejo, and certainly the best values in Southern California. Insured FHA and VA financing keeps cash requirements at a minimum. These homes were planned to fit around families who need room to breathe, but not an overdone, oversized mansion.

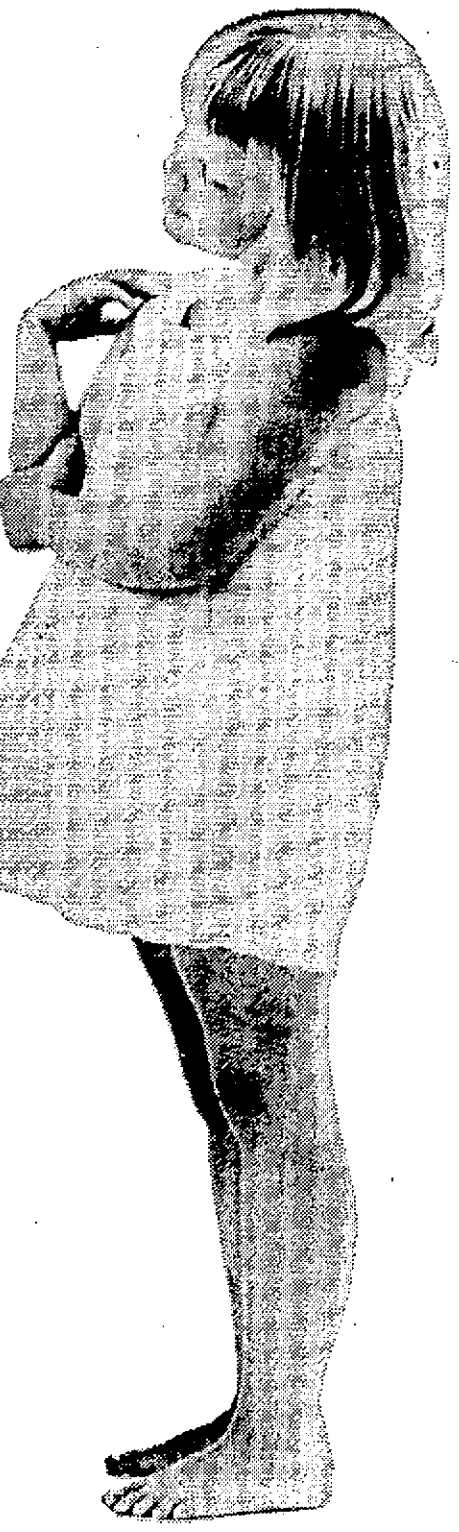

This is the Balboa, first of the Coronado Homes. It has a very large living room, with sweeping walls of glass on two sides, and a high vaulted ceiling. It has two bedrooms, the master with double doors and a private bath, the other with space enough for twin beds. Its kitchen is bright and open, with a pass-through bar to a wide side patio, and direct access to the garage. The family activity area is party size. The Balboa is everything you could ask for in a compact home; others come in 3 or 4-bedroom sizes. The largest one we build costs just $25,500. All of them qualify for VA or FHA financing. Coronado Homes are sensibly priced, but the very fact of Mission Viejo raises them above the ordinary. For Mission Viejo is not a low-priced community, or a high-priced community, or a young-family community, or a retirement community. It is an American Small Town, deliberately and carefully planned to bring back the relaxing atmosphere from the days of early California. There are almost no limits to Mission Viejo, no walls to separate one kind of people from another, no wrong side of the tracks. Still, everything you will need is here. Shopping centers ... not the glass-and-plastic variety, but warm Spanish-styled shops around a shaded central plaza. Parks, Churches, Medical facilities. A private recreation club, where membership is optional, with pools, tennis courts, a very large clubhouse, and opportunities for friends to gather. And people. 10,000 grand people, formed into groups like 4-H clubs, Scouts, travel clubs, swim teams, book clubs, Indian Guides, sewing clubs, dance bands, and the Friday-night boosters of the Mission Viejo High School Diablos. Next year, Saddleback College will no doubt have an alumni club. Come and see Mission Viejo, all of it. But be sure to see new Coronado Homes. Take the Santa Ana/San Diego Freeway south, past La Paz Road and Crown Valley Parkway, to Rancho Viejo Road. Turn left, and discover this: California offers no other community in which $21,995 will buy so much besides a good home. And with each of them goes the magic of America's most successful new town.

FUSELAGE ASSEMBLY BEGINS

DC-10 Section Arrives

HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

The first McDonnell Douglas DC-10 fuselage section flew from San Diego to Long Beach piggyback style Friday, tucked inside Aerospace Lines' blimp-sized Super Guppy cargo transport.

The DC-10 cabin section, measuring 55 feet in length and nearly 20 feet in diameter, is the largest of three fuselage components manufactured for Douglas by the Convair Division of General Dynamics at San Diego.

When assembled at Long Beach, the three sections will compose all of the 179-foot DC-10 fuselage except the nose and tail. The tubular segment which arrived Friday is the cabin forward of the wide-body trijet's wings.

AS A MEASURE of the importance of the milestone event in the multi-billion-dollar DC-10 program, a stellar cast of McDonnell Douglas and Convair executives lined up to watch the extraction of the fuselage segment from the Guppy transport.

Included were David S. Lewis, president of McDonnell Douglas Corp.; Jackson R. McGowen, president of Douglas Aircraft Company; Jack L. Bowers, Convair president; Lyman C. Josephs, Convair vice president-general manager, and John C. Brizendine, Douglas vice president and DC-10 program manager.

Lewis congratulated the Convair officials on delivering the component about a week ahead of schedule, smiling contentedly as the fuselage inched out of the maw of the Guppyliner onto a specially-built transporter trailer.

McGowen said the fuselage will be moved immediately to an assembly hangar where it will be joined with one of two nose sections already in position.

"The assembly program is starting to roll," he explained. "We're getting big parts every day, and we expect to have a full fuselage assembled by the first of next month.

"We'll have the DC-10 flying in September."

Among several hundred Douglas employes who briefly interrupted DC-10 work to witness the fuselage arrival were Howard Cleveland, vice president-manufacturing, and Cliff Stout, DC-10 project pilot, who will be at the controls when the giant jetliner makes its maiden flight.

"THINGS ARE STARTING to happen now," the veteran pilot said happily. "Rollout is scheduled for July and the target date for the first flight is Sept. 15."

Cleveland squinted through a light rainfall as the huge tube settled on the transporter, grinning like a boy on Christmas morning.

"I can hardly wait to get this baby into the shop," he said. "I'd like to see the Guppy flying in two or three times a week."

Cleveland said Aerospace Lines is building a new Guppyliner especially tailored to carry other DC-10 components, including the wings which are being produced under the direction of McDonnell Aircraft Co. in St. Louis.

The fuselage portion delivered Friday contains a lower deck baggage compartment, "basement" galley and two elevator shafts connecting it with the food service center on the passenger deck above.

The DC-10 will be built in three basic models, one for domestic routes of 300 to 3,500 miles and two extended-range versions for intercontinental operations. Each will seat up to 345 passengers.

Council to Grapple With Fireworks Ban

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A proposed new ordinance to legalize the sale of fireworks in Long Beach, although admittedly lacking some key provisions, will be submitted Tuesday to the City Council by the city attorney's office.

However, the ordinance committee's recommendation that the fireworks ban be rescinded and a new ordinance adopted will not be on the agenda — even though the committee voted on it more than two months ago.

The city clerk's office typed up the letter which officially would advise the council of the committee's recommendation, but Chairman Bert Bond has not signed it.

Following a hearing Nov. 3, the ordinance committee voted 3-to-1 to recommend that the present ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks be rescinded, and that a new ordinance be prepared to permit the sale of so-called "safe and sane" fireworks.

COUNCILMEN WAYNE B. SHARP, E.F. (Ted) Cruchley and Chairman Bond supported the motion. Councilman Thomas J. Clark opposed it.

The committee instructed the city attorney's office to draft a proposed new ordinance and submit it directly to the City Council, instead of returning it to committee.

In transmitting the proposed new ordinance to the council as instructed, Deputy City Attorney Robert G. Austin noted that "there are several blanks that require filling in."

Austin explained that the "blanks" involve such things as who should issue the permit, the amount of the fee, dates during which a fireworks stand could operate, the amount of clean-up deposit, and penalties for failure to comply.

SUCH INFORMATION WAS NOT GIVEN to the attorney's office by the ordinance committee, Austin explained.

The attorney's office said that, on the basis of the ordinance committee's comments, the proposed ordinance is drawn so that only charitable and non-profit organizations are eligible for permits, but warned that this may cause problems of unconstitutionality.

The limitation might be an "unreasonable classification" in that it prohibits any commerical enterprise from obtaining a permit to sell fireworks, Austin said. To make a valid classification, there must be "reasonable factual basis" for determining that it would be detrimental to public welfare for commercial enterprises to sell fireworks, he said.

The letter awaiting Bond's signature advised the council that the ordinance committee recommends "that the present ordinance banning the sale of fireworks in the City of Long Beach be repealed with a view to enacting new legislation covering this subject."

It further recommends that "a proposed ordinance to allow the sale of safe and sane fireworks in the City of Long Beach be submitted simultaneously with the repeal of the existing ordinance."

The matter first was brought up by the filing with the council of a letter, signed by Dr. E. L. Cruchley, president of the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, seeking a permit to sell fireworks for that organization. Dr. Cruchley is the son of Councilman Cruchley.

Ultimately, applications for permits were received from 44 local organizations, but several of these later were withdrawn.

Opposition to permitting the sale of fireworks in Long Beach has been voiced by Fire Chief Tullio J. Rizzo, Police Chief William J. Mooney, several local doctors, several local and national fire prevention and safety organizations and more than 100 individuals.

CSLB Faculty in Senate Equality Rift

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A move towards making the Academic Senate representative of the entire faculty at California State College at Long Beach was headed off Friday by the Senate's present members.

But leaders of the drive to make nontenured, junior faculty members eligible to run for Senate election said they'd continue the fight.

The Senate rejected submitting the question to the entire faculty for balloting. The proposal failed to muster the necessary two-thirds majority.

But Dr. Sam Pollach, who charged that faculty affairs were run by a "gerontocracy," said he'd seek enough petition signatures to put the question on an all-faculty ballot.

"If any school of the college wants to be represented by nontenured faculty members, it should have that option," Pollach said.

Pollach estimated that about 40 per cent of the college faculty are nontenured.

AT PRESENT, ONLY TENURED teachers — generally faculty members who have taught at CSLB for four years — can run for election to the Senate.

This has become a sore point with many junior faculty members, particularly since recent struggles in some college departments in which battle lines have divided between younger and older teachers.

Pollach, a tenured education professor, cited higher turnover rates among nontenured faculty and said that "every effort must be made to make junior faculty feel a part of the total college."

But several professors argued strongly against Pollach's proposal.

"TENURE MEANS A PERSON has become acceptable to his academic department," said Dr. Sudershan Chawla, chairman of the political science department. "If a man hasn't yet proven acceptable to his department, do we want him representing that department on the Senate?"

"This body is given the responsibility to make policy in behalf of the whole college," Chawla said. "That responsibility requires knowledge a new man may not have."

Rick Anthony, a spokesman for the radically-oriented student Oct. 24 Coalition, came to the meeting to seek aid in promoting the group's 12-point program — including creating a department of social change — but didn't get on the agenda..

From Our L. A. Bureau

A branch of the County Coroner's office will open in Long Beach on or about Feb. 1.

Dr. Thomas T. Noguchi, the department head, said the object of establishing facilities in the Long Beach County Building is for the public's convenience.

UNION TO SEAT NEGRO LEADER

By BILL GAGNON
Staff Writer

In 1951, Percy Anderson, 2332 Olive Ave., a Negro, was rejected for membership in the International Association of Machinists Union because of his race.

Tonight—19 years later—Anderson, 57, will be installed president of Local 1785 of that same union, the first Negro in the history of the local to be so honored.

A Long Beach civic leader and a journeyman machinist at the naval shipyard, he has been a federal employe since 1943. Has been a vice president of the union local four times and presently is a chief steward.

He is executive director of Opportunities Industrialization Center of Long Beach, Inc., a past president of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and former vice president of the Southern Area Conference NAACP.

Anderson also served as chairman of the board of trustees and deacon of St. John's Baptist Church. He is a former member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Married and the father of four children, Anderson was born in New Orleans and began his long career in industry as an assistant safety engineer in the Todd Shipyard there in 1936.

He will be installed as local president by Robert Simpson, IAM&AW general vice president, at a dinner meeting at VFW Post 1785 Hall, 32 E. Louise Ave.

Highest Tower in Orange County Falls

The highest manmade structure in Orange County—the transmitting tower for radio station KOCN in Newport Beach—fell to the ground Friday when a dump truck snagged one of the guy wires.

Luther Broome, 25, was dumping a load of sand quite a distance from the 318-foot high tower and began slowly to drive away from the pile with the truck bed still in the air.

The elevated truck bed snagged one of the wires, which became taut and finally snapped. The truck lurched ahead and the tower crumpled to the ground in the opposite direction.

L.B. CIVIC LIGHT OPERA

'Clear Day' Dawns Well

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

There are many reasons Long Beach Civic Light Opera's production of "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever," which opened last night in Jordan High Auditorium, is much more successful than the company's "Flower Drum Song," given in the same hall two months ago. But the primary reason, I think, is that Alan Jay Lerner's play, along with those several irresistible songs of Burton Lane, comprises altogether a better stage piece than Rodgers' and Hammerstein's Chinatown musical.

"CLEAR DAY," is a tight show, one in which the dramatic action is never impeded but is, rather, complemented, by the musical score. In this production, thanks to professional pacing from director Robert McCaman, some nifty and upbeat choreography by Bill Roberts—whose last CLO assignment was "Damn Yankees" in 1965—and the mostly informed musical direction of Jack Kroesen, the general preformance level is consistent—and high—a sense of ensemble pervades the atmosphere, and individual casting is successful.

The casting of Carolyn Thomson as Daisy-Melinda is more than that. It is perfect. A better looking young lady in the role is hard to imagine. And the singing and acting required of these protagonists are exactly fitting to Miss Thomson's talents; she wears Melinda's British accent with the same naturalness she brings to Daisy's "now" clothes, and she sings the songs of both ladies with contagious, unforced brassiness. And with the same attractive effect on an audience, I must add.

In the same way, her trio of leading men—G. Norman Russell, Gary Coleman, and Glenn Bradley—are neatly cast, throughly effective in their respective roles, and convincing in dramatic contrasts, even though they lack, individually, that brightness and legitimacy of voice once considered indispensable on the stage. In an age when television microphones are never further than a foot away from speakers' mouths, the concept of "projection," as a component of vocal development, has all but disappeared. Pity.

The rest of the case is believable and functional (see castbox), the pit orchestra conducted by Kroesen—this is his 33rd consecutive show for CLO—is up to its usual standard, the singing and dancing chorus younger and better looking than ever.

THERE ARE visual bonuses in the handsome and striking sets designed by Glen Raney and Lee Bradshaw—which have to be the most effective sets the company has shown us since "How to Succeed," nearly three years ago—and in the marvelous costumes worn by the entire cast. Yes, I realize many of those costumes are no more than today's casual clothes; yet, watching these folks wear those clothes, one can feel only gratitude for living in 1970.

Along with the recommendation that you go see "Clear Day" before it closes—with a matinee on Jan. 18—I can offer the good news that the acoustical problems noted at "Flower Drum Song" have been greatly alleviated, and that the microphones are behaving in a civilized manner. The other audience benefits of Jordan's comfortable auditorium—its visual intimacy and its free parking, for instance—we can now take for granted.

FUSELAGE ASSEMBLY BEGINS

DC-10 Section Arrives

HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

The first McDonnell Douglas DC-10 fuselage section flew from San Diego to Long Beach piggyback style Friday, tucked inside Aerospace Lines' blimp-sized Super Guppy cargo transport.

The DC-10 cabin section, measuring 55 feet in length and nearly 20 feet in diameter, is the largest of three fuselage components manufactured for Douglas by the Convair Division of General Dynamics at San Diego.

When assembled at Long Beach, the three sections will compose all of the 179-foot DC-10 fuselage except the nose and tail. The tubular segment which arrived Friday is the cabin forward of the wide-body trijet's wings.

AS A MEASURE of the importance of the milestone event in the multi-billion-dollar DC-10 program, a stellar cast of McDonnell Douglas and Convair executives lined up to watch the extraction of the fuselage segment from the Guppy transport.

Included were David S. Lewis, president of McDonnell Douglas Corp.; Jackson R. McGowen, president of Douglas Aircraft Company; Jack L. Bowers, Convair president; Lyman C. Josephs, Convair vice president-general manager, and John C. Brizendine, Douglas vice president and DC-10 program manager.

Lewis congratulated the Convair officials on delivering the component about a week ahead of schedule, smiling contentedly as the fuselage inched out of the maw of the Guppyliner onto a specially-built transporter trailer.

McGowen said the fuselage will be moved immediately to an assembly hangar where it will be joined with one of two nose sections already in position.

"The assembly program is starting to roll," he explained. "We're getting big parts every day, and we expect to have a full fuselage assembled by the first of next month.

"We'll have the DC-10 flying in September."

Among several hundred Douglas employes who briefly interrupted DC-10 work to witness the fuselage arrival were Howard Cleveland, vice president-manufacturing, and Cliff Stout, DC-10 project pilot, who will be at the controls when the giant jetliner makes its maiden flight.

"THINGS ARE STARTING to happen now," the veteran pilot said happily. "Rollout is scheduled for July and the target date for the first flight is Sept. 15."

Cleveland squinted through a light rainfall as the huge tube settled on the transporter, grinning like a boy on Christmas morning.

DONALD DUCK — By Walt Disney

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Whatever your situation in life, the coming year is going to include countless incidents in which people expect you to understand and forgive their errors. You develop into an arbitrator, perhaps a consultant, to help bridge the gaps between conflicting parties. Many of last year's projects turn in new directions; it is up to you to decide whether and how to stay with them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Today is a generally happy but not very important one. Just spend full time on all your usual Sunday routines. Pursue emotional goals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good humor and warmth received from friends is tinged with nostalgia. Events from long-past times come back to life for a moment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Children create quite a fuss, leaving you with mixed feelings about what they do. A pause for meditation restores your serenity. Pursue romantic interests.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): People of markedly different opinions, perhaps strangers, provoke comment and may stir you to some impulsive action. Creative friends have much to offer. Your chance for self-expression is here; use it to good advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Do your share of the community's expression of faith and unity. Then get out and around to catch up on the news and doings of all your friends. Gather some of them for an evening of fun.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Whatever your situation in life, the coming year is going to include countless incidents in which people expect you to understand and forgive their errors. You develop into an arbitrator, perhaps a consultant, to help bridge the gaps between conflicting parties. Many of last year's projects turn in new directions; it is up to you to decide whether and how to stay with them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Today is a generally happy but not very important one. Just spend full time on all your usual Sunday routines. Pursue emotional goals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good humor and warmth received from friends is tinged with nostalgia. Events from long-past times come back to life for a moment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Children create quite a fuss, leaving you with mixed feelings about what they do. A pause for meditation restores your serenity. Pursue romantic interests.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): People of markedly different opinions, perhaps strangers, provoke comment and may stir you to some impulsive action. Creative friends have much to offer. Your chance for self-expression is here; use it to good advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Do your share of the community's expression of faith and unity. Then get out and around to catch up on the news and doings of all your friends. Gather some of them for an evening of fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A little coaxing brings you much help and a great deal of useful information today.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Koelreuteria (kelroo-te'r-ia) paniculata has several qualities worth remembering. It is called the "Golden Rain Tree" and is a member of a small group of Asiatic trees of the Soapberry — Sapin-daceae — family.

It is deciduous, small to medium in size and produces large clusters of bright yellow flowers in late summer. The flowers are followed by attractive seed pods, having a papery texture and a lantern-like appearance.

The tree grows in arid sections and tolerates hot winds. It grows equally well along the coast. There is a street tree planting of Koelreuterias in Santa Barbara. It is an alkali resistant tree and stands cold from zero degree down to 10 degrees below zero. The trees are sold only in containers.

WILLARD HAGEN, one of the foremost tree authorities in the Southland, a tree consultant for Descanso Growers, made some interesting comments about trees when I checked with him about the Verticillium wilt which is thought to be caused by too much water in the bud (heart) of the palm tree. Excess water appears to result when green palm fronds have been cut off where dead palms only should have been cut. The bud simply can't absorb the excess moisture. The more green palm fronds that are left on the tree to absorb the moisture, the less likelihood of the bud wilt.

The present bare-root planting of roses, shade trees, cane berries, strawberries, bare-root asparagus and rhubarb, bare-root fruit and flowering trees, reminded Willard to recommend Apricot mume, which is a midwinter beautiful pink flowering tree, even more desirable than flowering peach because it is longer lived. Check with your nurseryman if you're interested in the Apricot mume. This tree isn't grown for the fruit but for the beauty of the blossoms, and of course it provides some shade.

Our reminder to you is to shop now, for whatever kind of deciduous fruit or shade trees you plan to set out, because you'll be saving money. Later in the year the same trees will have been planted into containers and they'll cost more money. Roses also cost more when you purchase them in container.

KOELREUTERIA PANICULATA
. . . Golden Rain Tree

Willard commented that a mature avocado tree that produces no blossoms is probably getting too much nitrogen fertilizer. He recalled such an avocado problem. He recommended the gardner apply 25 pounds of Superphosphate for the eight inch diameter trunk tree, and scatter that around the tree to two feet beyond the dripline. This was done a month or more before the tree normally started to bloom. The result of this feeding was a bumper crop of fruit.

Hagen was the first arboriculturist in the Southland to import Camptotheca acuminata seeds for China and grow them when he had his nursery. He grew several hundred of these trees.

It was discovered in research that Camptothecin, a substance extracted from the seeds, bark, wood of the tree, has shown anti tumor activity in tests on laboratory animals implanted with a type of leukemia. However, more research is needed before it can be tested on human patients.

Such a tree is an upright grower. The deeply ribbed foliage looks like avocado leafage, but is much richer green in color, the underside is a slightly dull gray green so that one is not likely to mistake it for avocado.

You'll be helping a worthy cause if you watch for such a tree and mail a couple of leaves from any you locate to Leukemia Volunteers, 938 Rome Drive, California 90065. Enclose an address or map pinpointing the location of the tree.

GARDEN CLINIC

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. — My baby orchid tree is very large and full and covered with buds — but they all fall off before they bloom. Soil is adobe.

A. — You didn't mention whether the tree is growing in a lawn or open soil area. The condition could be due to the crazy summer day weather plus winter cold nights we've been having (plus exceptionally drying winds). Uneven watering could cause trouble. Please be patient with it. It is a good tree and should overcome those problems. In adobe soil, deep watering at about month to six week intervals only is wise.

Q. — Our apricot bears every other year only. Why? H. N.

A. — You may be pruning the branches that usually bear fruit on one year old wood. The fattest buds are the flower fruit producing buds. The slender buds produce leaves and branch growth.

JOBS TO DO NOW

Keep this important point in mind when selecting bare-root roses for your garden. There are "longies" — bushes that grow tall, "shorties" that are low growers, and "in-betweeners" — medium size. If you aren't careful you might select a tall rose for the front row of the rose bed when you should have picked out a low grower.

Plant bare-root deciduous material such as roses, fruit trees, berries, grapes, also deciduous ornamentals. This gives the roots a chance to develop well before the foliage grows out.

Bulbs in the ground or in pots should be watered thoroughly. Don't let them get dry. Ample waterings encourages the bulbs to develop longer flower stems. Fertilize those already in bloom, but use a fertilizer lower in nitrogen content than of phosphoric acid.

Leading Catholic Men Back Parochial Schools

An intensive survey of an "elite" group of American Roman Catholic laymen has disclosed strong support for the continued existence of Catholic schools, which are beleaguered by mounting problems.

The survey was conducted by the National Council of Catholic Men and its results analyzed by Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, project director with the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago. Said the prominent priest-sociologist:

"It is difficult to escape the feeling that NCCM consultants are sympathetic to Catholic education, confident that it is improving, unclear about its finances, committed to the need for reform, and probably willing to help if given the opportunity." If Catholic leaders and educators are to abandon their schools on the grounds that the laity no longer supports such schools, they will certainly not be able to cite the NCCM survey as evidence in favor of such a decision."

Says Church Must Face Birth Control

BOSTON (UPI) — A prominent Roman Catholic priest and a columnist for the Boston archdiocesean newspaper said this week times have changed since the biblical period when Jehova said "increase and multiply," and for that reason the church may have to change its position opposing artificial contraception.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. George W. Casey wrote "The world is in a new situation, the very antitheses of what prevailed in the beginning."

Without specifically advocating artificial birth control, the pastor of St. Brigid's Church in Lexington urged the church to face the future and threat of over population.

"It seems fair to say that most thoughtful men are becoming increasingly concerned about the survival of mankind," Msgr. Casey said. "It seems fair to say that they could expect the church to have something to say about this, something for all mankind, not only for its constituents, something helpful, something brave and new."

Father Greeley is co-author of a major study of Catholic schools, "The Education of American Catholics," published in 1966. The survey, with 55 questions, drew a 64 per cent response from the men, and was termed by Father Greeley as "the most intensive . . . ever developed to measure Catholic attidues toward Catholic education." The respondents are characterized as "for the most part, men in the business and professional leadership class in the country," and the poll is seen by the leader of the Men's Council, Martin W. Work, as contributing "significantly to laying the groundwork for intelligent decision making in this crucial area."

Among the interesting findings: Only 14 per cent disagreed with sex education "at all levels." Commented Father Greeley: "Those bishops who are harassed by the anti sex education campaign and who think that the fanatics behind this campaign are representative of an important section of their diocese should ponder carefully the NCCM results . . ."

A whopping 92 per cent agreed that lay people should have more voice in setting policy, and 97 per cent thought laymen should be represented on the school boards. Thirty-three per cent thought it would be desirable, if possible, for every Catholic student to receive all his formal education in Catholic schools, but 80 per cent thought every Catholic child should have at least some Catholic education. Lowest figure of all was the 5 per cent who disagreed with emphasis on social justice and world peace in Catholic shools.

This figure, and possibly the sex education figure, would be quite different in a poll of the more numerous working class churchgoers. Which is, perhaps not so different from divisions in the general population.

THE COMMUNITY Breakfast Fellowship, an informal interdenominational Christian get together which meets at Covenant Presbyterian every Tuesday morning at 7, has caught hold. New leader this year is Doyle Allen of Bellflower Baptist Church, a Long Beach securities broker, but Bud Holton stepping into the ranks of private after two years of leadership. Having shared the fellowship as a guest one Tuesday morning, we can testify that it is a most pleasant weekday lift — (and a heckuva breakfast at the nominal price, even if our tab was picked up.

Ask Chaplains Back Men Who Balk at 'Crimes'

The secretary for chaplains of the United Church of Christ has requested that chaplains in the armed services be instructed to unhold officers and enlisted men who refuse to carry out orders that are "immoral, in violation of the laws and customs of war or a crime against humanity."

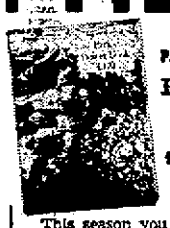

Rev. Leon A. Dickinson Jr., New York, in letters to the chiefs of chaplains of the Army, Navy and Air Force has called upon them to alert all chaplains, "as perhaps they have never been before" to the need "to support their men in the moral judgments they may find themselves having to make."

In his letter, Mr. Dickinson called the reported massacre at Song My "shocking and regrettable" and pointed out that it reveals "the frightening sense of gravity of the war and the extreme stress and intense demand for high responsibility by youthful officers in the field."

Rev. Dickinson also stated that the United Church of Christ wants accused men "such at Lt. William C. Calley Jr. be not only rightfully and carefully tried, but that they not become the sacpegoats for senior officers and commands, policy and performance of the United States Army and the other military services, nor for our nation as a whole."

He also assured the chiefs of chaplains that he was writing with "deep appreciation of the ministry of the chaplain." The chaplain, he said, "is caught in the tension between issues and ideas, policies and ethical sensitivities that is beyond human emotional-stress expectations, unless his Lord and his Church, as well as his colleagues comprise his support."

GARDEN CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. — My baby orchid tree is very large and full and covered with buds — but they all fall off before they bloom. Soil is adobe.

A. — You didn't mention whether the three is growing in a lawn or open soil area. The condition could be due to the crazy summer day weather plus winter cold nights we've been having (plus exceptionally drying winds). Uneven watering could cause trouble. Please be patient with it. It is a good tree and should overcome those problems. In adobe soil, deep watering at about month to six week intervals only is wise.

Q. — Our apricot bears every other year only. Why? H. N.

A. — You may be pruning the branches that usually bear fruit on one year old wood. The fattest buds are the flower fruit producing buds. The slender buds produce leaves and branch growth.

JOBS TO DO NOW

Keep this important point in mind when selecting bare-root roses for your garden. There are "longies" — bushes that grow tall, "shorties" that are low growers, and "in-betweeners" — medium size. If you aren't careful you might select a tall rose for the front row of the rose bed when you should have picked out a low grower.

Plant bare-root deciduous material such as roses, fruit trees, berries, grapes, also deciduous ornamentals. This gives the roots a chance to develop well before the foliage grows out.

Bulbs in the ground or in pots should be watered thoroughly. Don't let them get dry. Ample waterings encourages the bulbs to develop longer flower stems. Fertilize those already in bloom, but use a fertilizer lower in nitrogen content than of phosphoric acid.

Leading Catholic Men Back Parochial Schools

An intensive survey of an "elite" group of American Roman Catholic laymen has disclosed strong support for the continued existence of Catholic schools, which are beleaguered by mounting problems.

The survey was conducted by the National Council of Catholic Men and its results analyzed by Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, project director with the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago. Said the prominent priest-sociologist:

"It is difficult to escape the feeling that NCCM consultants are sympathetic to Catholic education, confident that it is improving, unclear about its finances, committed to the need for reform, and probably willing to help if given the opportunity." If Catholic leaders and educators are to abandon their schools on the grounds that the laity no longer supports such schools, they will certainly not be able to cite the NCCM survey as evidence in favor of such a decision."

Father Greeley is co-author of a major study of Catholic schools, "The Education of American Catholics," published in 1966. The survey, with 55 questions, drew a 64 per cent response from the men, and was termed by Father Greeley as "the most intensive . . . ever developed to measure Catholic attidues toward Catholic education." The respondents are characterized as "for the most part, men in the business and professional leadership class in the country," and the poll is seen by the leader of the Men's Council, Martin W. Work, as contributing "significantly to laying the groundwork for intelligent decision making in this crucial area."

Among the interesting findings: Only 14 per cent disagreed with sex education "at all levels." Commented Father Greeley: "Those bishops who are harassed by the anti sex education campaign and who think that the fanatics behind this campaign are representative of an important section of their diocese should ponder carefully the NCCM results . . ."

A whopping 92 per cent agreed that lay people should have more voice in setting policy, and 97 per cent thought laymen should be represented on the school boards. Thirty-three per cent thought it would be desirable, if possible, for every Catholic student to receive all his formal education in Catholic schools, but 80 per cent thought every Catholic child should have at least some Catholic education. Lowest figure of all was the 5 per cent who disagreed with emphasis on social justice and world peace in Catholic shools.

This figure, and possibly the sex education figure, would be quite different in a poll of the more numerous working class churchgoers. Which is, perhaps not so different from divisions in the general population.

THE COMMUNITY Breakfast Fellowship, an informal interdenominational Christian get together which meets at Covenant Presbyterian every Tuesday morning at 7, has caught hold. New leader this year is Doyle Allen of Bellflower Baptist Church, a Long Beach securities broker, but Bud Holton stepping into the ranks of private after two years of leadership. Having shared the fellowship as a guest one Tuesday morning, we can testify that it is a most pleasant weekday lift — (and a heckuva breakfast at the nominal price, even if our tab was picked up.

Says Church Must Face Birth Control

BOSTON (UPI) — A prominent Roman Catholic priest and a columnist for the Boston archdiocesean newspaper said this week times have changed since the biblical period when Jehova said "increase and multiply," and for that reason the church may have to change its position opposing artificial contraception.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. George W. Casey wrote "The world is in a new situation, the very antitheses of what prevailed in the beginning."

Without specifically advocating artificial birth control, the pastor of St. Brigid's Church in Lexington urged the church to face the future and threat of over population.

"It seems fair to say that most thoughtful men are becoming increasingly concerned about the survival of mankind," Msgr. Casey said. "It seems fair to say that they could expect the church to have something to say about this, something for all mankind, not only for its constituents, something helpful, something brave and new."

Ask Chaplains Back Men Who Balk at 'Crimes'

The secretary for chaplains of the United Church of Christ has requested that chaplains in the armed services be instructed to unhold officers and enlisted men who refuse to carry out orders that are "immoral, in violation of the laws and customs of war or a crime against humanity."

Rev. Leon A. Dickinson Jr., New York, in letters to the chiefs of chaplains of the Army, Navy and Air Force has called upon them to alert all chaplains, "as perhaps they have never been before" to the need "to support their men in the moral judgments they may find themselves having to make."

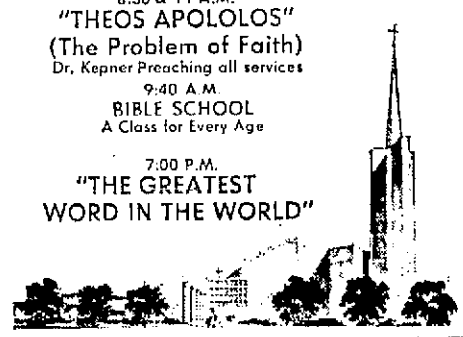

In his letter, Mr. Dickinson called the reported massacre at Song My "shocking and regrettable" and pointed out that it reveals "the frightening sense of gravity of the war and the extreme stress and intense demand for high responsibility by youthful officers in the field."

Rev. Dickinson also stated that the United Church of Christ wants accused men "such at Lt. William C. Calley Jr. be not only rightfully and carefully tried, but that they not become the sacpegoats for senior officers and commands, policy and performance of the United States Army and the other military services, nor for our nation as a whole."

He also assured the chiefs of chaplains that he was writing with "deep appreciation of the ministry of the chaplain." The chaplain, he said, "is caught in the tension between issues and ideas, policies and ethical sensitivities that is beyond human emotional-stress expectations, unless his Lord and his Church, as well as his colleagues comprise his support."

WAS CINCY'S 1ST FEMALE MAYOR

Women Can Show Way in '70, Says Leader of Church Group

By LES RODNEY

If America's young people were the boat rockers of the 1960s, the 1070s will find women — young, middle aged and older — out front asserting themselves for needed changes.

This is the forecast of Dorothy (Mrs. James W.) Dolbey, national president of Church Women United, the nation's largest organization of Christian women, who will keynote the California state convention in Long Beach Friday.

Mrs. Dolbey is not conjuring up a picture of strident street confrontations and hordes of women battering down doors to seize buildings (though she is not one to poo poo the occasional need for a non-violent demonstration.) The 61-year-old Republican grandmother believes in "taking over City Hall" through the democratic electoral processes, and matter of fact she did just that in becoming Cincinnati's first woman mayor.

THOUGH SHE feels the nation has grievously harmed itself by not fully utilizing the talents and insight of qualified women, Mrs. Dolbey is no kind of one-dimensional "woman power" advocate.

"Today we are confronted with many different kinds of groups who feel alienated," she said in a phone interview this week. "Young people, blacks, browns, and women to a growing extent as women, though of course women are to be found in all the other groupings.

"I think this is the question of the 1970s, the alienated, the powerless, here and in world politics too. Our task is somehow to reconcile them."

The theme of the churchwomen's convention in Long Beach will ask "Who Will Answer?" and is about that very subject, Mrs. Dolbey said.

As an institution at the center of American life, with reconciliation as its message, the church has a special role to play, but, warns the church leader, "We cannot sit back and think that any organization is doing the job, whether the church or any other. We must play our roles as individuals. We need to keep asking ourselves, who IS the church/"

WOMEN, BY their very nature, can play an important part in challenging the imperson insensitivity of large institutions, she feels.

"Young people have shown us the way, in a sense. This is a new age in which our youth is asking us to look at people as individuals. There are some militant women's groups now too. They are saying, I am a person, I am a woman, yes, and I am a person."

In this dramatically changing technological age, with the home and family relegated to a secondary position, men and women have new dual responsibilities, she contends. In addition to maintaining the home, the woman's influence is sorely needed in the general fabric of a divided society. The man must, with understanding, help some within the family unit, and the result will enrich and strengthen American family life in the long run.

Mrs. Dolbey clearly draws a sharp line against detractors of the family.

"I have argued with young people who say the family is not important in the future. You don't get rid of something without putting something in its place. They have nothing to offer in this respect. We all built this technology and urban life, with its consequences, and we ALL have the responsibility to strengthen family life in this new context."

Women who have battled for a fairer shake in American history have usually been tabbed as feminists.

"I suppose," Mrs. Dolbey mused, "that I am a feminist in one way, and not a feminist in another.

"We're all people," she amplified, "and I hate to see us tagged, white, black, brown, female ... But women do have a certain subjective sensitivity and compassion, by reason of their role in society. This trait can be important in bringing people together, as it always has in bringing peace to a family."

MANY MEN have this quality to an equal degree, she added, and "society needs these men badly." But basically it has become a woman's viewpoint.

"A woman, as an example, looks at the problem of housing in terms of her own family, of the needs of the individuals, a man in terms of money. It's the role they play."

The impact of woman power was felt at the recent convention of the National Council of Churches in Detroit. Although a woman was elected president for the first time, Mrs. Dolbey relates, "They just thought, now it's time to have a woman, without really understanding. So there was Mrs. Wedel on an executive committee of 27, with 26 men, all clergymen.

"I haven't seen this in print anywhere," she continued. "What happened was that the women caucused and presented a statement. Women were the prime movers, along with young people of both sexes, in upsetting the old order. We put forward a young black woman as chairman of the nominating committee ... well, young for a church convention anyhow! ... The committee wound up with more representative composition."

A black woman, suggests Mrs. Dolbey, "is lowest of all on the totem pole, she knows best what we are talking about. Just as a woman, she is not properly recognized in her own church!"

AS FOR the impatientpessimism expressed by some about the future of the church organization.

"I must say I shared this pessimism," Mrs. Dolbey said, "Until I got to Detroit. There I saw the determination for change, and the willingness for change, and I am much more hopeful."

She cited an example. "The important Reappraisal Committee of the National Council has been composed of 10 men, all clergymen. We argued so hard about this at Detroit, that three of us, myself included, were added right there.

"Now, after the assembly, with no further pressure or discussion, the Reappraisal Committee announces 17 new members, mostly of the previously unrepresented minorities, including a wonderful American Indian churchwoman from Denver, Tillie Walker. This kind of move is a confession, and a beginning afresh."

The women apparently started something.

"Dot" Dolbey, as Cincinnati knows her, has lots of experience in applying practical pressures, for good ends.

She began her activities way back in the early 30s as leader of her Methodist church woman's society, and moved on to president of Cincinnati's churchwomen and member of the national board. In 1951 she was urged to run for City Council, was barely beaten as a coalition candidate, and bounced right back in 1953 to win overwhelmingly. The Council elected her vice mayor, an important role in the city charter form of government, and when the incumbent mayor died, she became the first female "hizzoner."

MEMBER OF a sport minded family, when her duties called upon her to throw out the first ball at the Cincinnati Reds opener, she brought a roar from the crowd with a well thrown strike. She also started a hospital renovation program, pressed inner-city uplift, city beautification , restoration of historic monuments, and appointed the first woman to the City Health Board.

She has been president of the Woman's City Club, Ohio Mother of the Year, winner of the city's Brotherhood and Good Neighbor awards, and a leader in so many community activities that "Mrs. Cincinnati" would seem a fair enough title for her. All with no apparent complaints from Mr. Dolbey, head of a business bearing the family name. Son James, Ohio backstroke swimming champ, and then member of Yale's world championship relay team, is now a Cincinnati businessman. Daughter Beth is married to an Arkansas state legislator and is active (what else?) in Little Rock community affairs.

Mrs. Dolbey also found the time to head up a pioneer federal program to educate low income tenants, as well as the owners, to better housing usage and preservation. It is now used as a model city program in Washington, D.C.

On the nagging issue of the Vietnam war, which has concerned the churches, Mrs. Dolbey's view is a practical one. "It's costing us 30 billion a year. What many sensible people are saying is that we must tackle the situation in the cities, the pollution of air and water, and start providing a security base for all. The overall military budget, as I am informed, was 84 billion, trimmed now to 74 billion, which is good, but there is that 30 billion in Vietnam. It is estimated that 18 to 20 billion will be needed by each of the large cities to really do the needed job. Where are we going to get the money from if the Vietnam war goes on and on? There is just so much money."

ENDING THE war is no longer all that controversial, but quite another kettle of fish is the emotionally charged issue of those opponents of the war who fled the country to avoid the draft. While the National Council of Churches was meeting at Detroit, a delegation from the United Church of Canada came over to ask help for those "selective conscientious objectors" in their country, whom they estimated at 60,000, many in poor circumstances. Mrs. Dolbey is willing to say this:

"The church speaks about reconciliation. It is something to practice, not just to talk about. I foresee that in the future we will take a second look at this situation."

"Let's all do our own things in the 1970s," she says. "In the church, some are more wound up than others about poverty, war and pollution, others in Bible study and other aspects of church life. You aren't a lesser person because you are not the same as someone else. Now some militants think that if you're not constantly rebelling, you're wrong. This is ridiculous."

Spiritual strength, she affirms, has undergirded all her own work. She makes no separation, seeing herself as living her Christianity in her secular activities.

SWIM FOR CROSS

Colorful Greek Epiphany Rites Here Sunday

Centuries-steeped rites of the Greek Orthodox Church commemorating the baptism of Christ by John the Baptist in the River Jordan and the blessing of the waters will be conducted Sunday for the 19th consecutive year on Long Beach. Some 4,000 persons are expected to witness the colorful ceremonies.

His Grace, the Right Reverend Bishop Meletios, of San Francisco, spiritual leader of the church in the Western States, will officiate at the services which will commence with a Pontifical Liturgy at 10 a.m. in Municipal Auditorium.

Marking the observance of the Feast of Epiphany, ceremonies at the ocean's edge will be highlighted with the immersion of the Holy Cross in the waters at 12:30.

Bishop Meletios, assisted by the Reverend Nicholas Billiris, pastor of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church of Long Beach, and seven Southland priests, will conduct the services. They will cast a small, gilded wooden cross into the water as a score of young swimmers dive to retrieve it. The youth recovering the cross will kneel, kiss the cross and receive the cross and a special blessing from the prelate.

PSYCHOLOGIST AT COVENANT

Rev. Dr. Aaron J. Ungersma, professor of pastoral psychology for the 30 years at San Francisco Theological Seminary, will be guest preacher at 9 and 11 a.m. services Sunday in Covenant Presbyterian Church, Third and Atlantic. Dr. Ungersma, a chaplain with the 7th Fleet during World War II, has been a professor of psychology at the University of Denver, and has written widely in the field of Christian psychology and mental health. His latest book is "Escape From Phoniness."

State Women Convene

An anticipated 800 delegates will attend the California State Convention of Church Women United next Friday, Jan. 16, in Los Altos United Methodist Church, of Long Beach.

Women from 82 local councils will hear a keynote address by Mrs. James M. Dolbey, president of the national organization. Overall theme will be the challenging question "Who Will Answer?"

The day will begin with coffee hour at 9 a.m. On the schedule is a sacred dance group from Pasadena which has been highly praised for its creative spiritual program, a presentation by Dr. Robert H. Mitchell, professor of music at California Theological Seminar, a special dramatic presentation by the Covenant Players and a panel on the theme question.

Panel members include Andor Skotnes, a "Christian activist" on the campuses of Cal State and UC-Berkeley; Rev. Mardoqueo L. Olivas, an East Los Angeles leader and president of the Council on Spanish American Ministry of the National Council of Churches; Dr. Forest Weir, leader of the Southern California Council; Mrs. Lola McAlpin Grant, deputy district attorney and executive director of the Consumer Catholic Protection Office, representing the black community; Mrs. Dolbey, and moderator Mrs. Marshon De Poister, San Diego church and Y leader.

Dinner will be served to those who have made reservations.

WAS CINCY'S 1ST FEMALE MAYOR

Women Can Show Way in '70, Says Leader of Church Group

By LES RODNEY

If America's young people were the boat rockers of the 1960s, the 1070s will find women — young, middle aged and older — out front asserting themselves for needed changes.

This is the forecast of Dorothy (Mrs. James W.) Dolbey, national president of Church Women United, the nation's largest organization of Christian women, who will keynote the California state convention in Long Beach Friday.

Mrs. Dolbey is not conjuring up a picture of strident street confrontations and hordes of women battering down doors to seize buildings (though she is not one to poo poo the occasional need for a non-violent demonstration.) The 61-year-old Republican grandmother believes in "taking over City Hall" through the democratic electoral processes, and matter of fact she did just that in becoming Cincinnati's first woman mayor.

THOUGH SHE feels the nation has grievously harmed itself by not fully utilizing the talents and insight of qualified women, Mrs. Dolbey is no kind of one-dimensional "woman power" advocate.

"Today we are confronted with many different kinds of groups who feel alienated," she said in a phone interview this week. "Young people, blacks, browns, and women to a growing extent as women, though of course women are to be found in all the other groupings.

"I think this is the question of the 1970s, the alienated, the powerless, here and in world politics too. Our task is somehow to reconcile them."

The theme of the churchwomen's convention in Long Beach will ask "Who Will Answer?" and is about that very subject, Mrs. Dolbey said.

As an institution at the center of American life, with reconciliation as its message, the church has a special role to play, but, warns the church leader, "We cannot sit back and think that any organization is doing the job, whether the church or any other. We must play our roles as individuals. We need to keep asking ourselves, who IS the church/"

WOMEN, BY their very nature, can play an important part in challenging the imperson insensitivity of large institutions, she feels.

"Young people have shown us the way, in a sense. This is a new age in which our youth is asking us to look at people as individuals. There are some militant women's groups now too. They are saying, I am a person, I am a woman, yes, and I am a person."

In this dramatically changing technological age, with the home and family relegated to a secondary position, men and women have new dual responsibilities, she contends. In addition to maintaining the home, the woman's influence is sorely needed in the general fabric of a divided society. The man must, with understanding, help some within the family unit, and the result will enrich and strengthen American family life in the long run.

Mrs. Dolbey clearly draws a sharp line against detractors of the family.

"I have argued with young people who say the family is not important in the future. You don't get rid of something without putting something in its place. They have nothing to offer in this respect. We all built this technology and urban life, with its consequences, and we ALL have the responsibility to strengthen family life in this new context."

Women who have battled for a fairer shake in American history have usually been tabbed as feminists.

"I suppose," Mrs. Dolbey mused, "that I am a feminist in one way, and not a feminist in another.

"We're all people," she amplified, "and I hate to see us tagged, white, black, brown, female ... But women do have a certain subjective sensitivity and compassion, by reason of their role in society. This trait can be important in bringing people together, as it always has in bringing peace to a family."

MANY MEN have this quality to an equal degree, she added, and "society needs these men badly." But basically it has become a woman's viewpoint.

"A woman, as an example, looks at the problem of housing in terms of her own family, of the needs of the individuals, a man in terms of money. It's the role they play."

The impact of woman power was felt at the recent convention of the National Council of Churches in Detroit. Although a woman was elected president for the first time, Mrs. Dolbey relates, "They just thought, now it's time to have a woman, without really understanding. So there was Mrs. Wedel on an executive committee of 27, with 26 men, all clergymen.

"I haven't seen this in print anywhere," she continued. "What happened was that the women caucused and presented a statement. Women were the prime movers, along with young people of both sexes, in upsetting the old order. We put forward a young black woman as chairman of the nominating committee ... well, young for a church convention anyhow! ... The committee wound up with more representative composition."

A black woman, suggests Mrs. Dolbey, "is lowest of all on the totem pole, she knows best what we are talking about. Just as a woman, she is not properly recognized in her own church!"

AS FOR the impatientpessimism expressed by some about the future of the church organization.

"I must say I shared this pessimism," Mrs. Dolbey said, "Until I got to Detroit. There I saw the determination for change, and the willingness for change, and I am much more hopeful."

She cited an example. "The important Reappraisal Committee of the National Council has been composed of 10 men, all clergymen. We argued so hard about this at Detroit, that three of us, myself included, were added right there.

"Now, after the assembly, with no further pressure or discussion, the Reappraisal Committee announces 17 new members, mostly of the previously unrepresented minorities, including a wonderful American Indian churchwoman from Denver, Tillie Walker. This kind of move is a confession, and a beginning afresh."

The women apparently started something.

"Dot" Dolbey, as Cincinnati knows her, has lots of experience in applying practical pressures for good ends.

She began her activities way back in the early 30s as leader of her Methodist church woman's society, and moved on to president of Cincinnati's churchwomen and member of the national board. In 1951 she was urged to run for City Council, was barely beaten as a coalition candidate, and bounced right back in 1953 to win overwhelmingly. The Council elected her vice mayor, an important role in the city charter form of government, and when the incumbent mayor died, she became the first female "hizzoner."

MEMBER OF a sport minded family, when her duties called upon her to throw out the first ball at the Cincinnati Reds opener, she brought a roar from the crowd with a well thrown strike. She also started a hospital renovation program, pressed inner-city uplift, city beautification , restoration of historic monuments, and appointed the first woman to the City Health Board.

She has been president of the Woman's City Club, Ohio Mother of the Year, winner of the city's Brotherhood and Good Neighbor awards, and a leader in so many community activities that "Mrs. Cincinnati" would seem a fair enough title for her. All with no apparent complaints from Mr. Dolbey, head of a business bearing the family name. Son James, Ohio backstroke swimming champ, and then member of Yale's world championship relay team, is now a Cincinnati businessman. Daughter Beth is married to an Arkansas state legislator and is active (what else?) in Little Rock community affairs.

Mrs. Dolbey also found the time to head up a pioneer federal program to educate low income tenants, as well as the owners, to better housing usage and preservation. It is now used as a model city program in Washington, D.C.

MRS. DOLBEY
Keynotes Conference Here

On the nagging issue of the Vietnam war, which has concerned the churches, Mrs. Dolbey's view is a practical one. "It's costing us 30 billion a year. What many sensible people are saying is that we must tackle the situation in the cities, the pollution of air and water, and start providing a security base for all. The overall military budget, as I am informed, was 84 billion, trimmed now to 74 billion, which is good, but there is that 30 billion in Vietnam. It is estimated that 18 to 20 billion will be needed by each of the large cities to really do the needed job. Where are we going to get the money from if the Vietnam war goes on and on? There is just so much money."

ENDING THE war is no longer all that controversial, but quite another kettle of fish is the emotionally charged issue of those opponents of the war who fled the country to avoid the draft. While the National Council of Churches was meeting at Detroit, a delegation from the United Church of Canada came over to ask help for those "selective conscientious objectors" in their country, whom they estimated at 60,000, many in poor circumstances. Mrs. Dolbey is willing to say this:

"The church speaks about reconciliation. It is something to practice, not just to talk about. I foresee that in the future we will take a second look at this situation."

"Let's all do our own things in the 1970s," she says. "In the church, some are more wound up than others about poverty, war and pollution, others in Bible study and other aspects of church life. You aren't a lesser person because you are not the same as someone else. Now some militants think that if you're not constantly rebelling, you're wrong. This is ridiculous."

Spiritual strength, she affirms, has undergirded all her own work. She makes no separation, seeing herself as living her Christianity in her secular activities.

SWIM FOR CROSS

Colorful Greek Epiphany Rites Here Sunday

Centuries-steeped rites of the Greek Orthodox Church commemorating the baptism of Christ by John the Baptist in the River Jordan and the blessing of the waters will be conducted Sunday for the 19th consecutive year on Long Beach. Some 4,000 persons are expected to witness the colorful ceremonies.

His Grace, the Right Reverend Bishop Meletios, of San Francisco, spiritual leader of the church in the Western States, will officiate at the services which will commence with a Pontifical Liturgy at 10 a.m. in Municipal Auditorium.

Marking the observance of the Feast of Epiphany, ceremonies at the ocean's edge will be highlighted with the immersion of the Holy Cross in the waters at 12:30.

Bishop Meletios, assisted by the Reverend Nicholas Billiris, pastor of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church of Long Beach, and seven Southland priests, will conduct the services. They will cast a small, gilded wooden cross into the water as a score of young swimmers dive to retrieve it. The youth recovering the cross will kneel, kiss the cross and receive the cross and a special blessing from the prelate.

PSYCHOLOGIST AT COVENANT

Rev. Dr. Aaron J. Ungersma, professor of pastoral psychology for the 30 years at San Francisco Theological Seminary, will be guest preacher at 9 and 11 a.m. services Sunday in Covenant Presbyterian Church, Third and Atlantic. Dr. Ungersma, a chaplain with the 7th Fleet during World War II, has been a professor of psychology at the University of Denver, and has written widely in the field of Christian psychology and mental health. His latest book is "Escape From Phoniness."

State Women Convene

An anticipated 800 delegates will attend the California State Convention of Church Women United next Friday, Jan. 16, in Los Altos United Methodist Church, of Long Beach.

Women from 82 local councils will hear a keynote address by Mrs. James M. Dolbey, president of the national organization. Overall theme will be the challenging question "Who Will Answer?"

The day will begin with coffee hour at 9 a.m. On the schedule is a sacred dance group from Pasadena which has been highly praised for its creative spiritual program, a presentation by Dr. Robert H. Mitchell, professor of music at California Theological Seminar, a special dramatic presentation by the Covenant Players and a panel on the theme question.

Panel members include Andor Skotnes, a "Christian activist" on the campuses of Cal State and UC-Berkeley; Rev. Mardoqueo L. Olivas, an East Los Angeles leader and president of the Council on Spanish American Ministry of the National Council of Churches; Dr. Forest Weir, leader of the Southern California Council; Mrs. Lola McAlpin Grant, deputy district attorney and executive director of the Consumer Catholic Protection Office, representing the black community; Mrs. Dolbey, and moderator Mrs. Marshon De Poister, San Diego church and Y leader.

Dinner will be served to those who have made reservations.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Boredom Killing Is Big Business

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

It seems as though you can't pick up a newspaper or magazine today without finding an article telling you that you're living in the richest country in the world. Writers call this country the "affluent society."

Now, for a great many Americans, this is a little ironical. There is still an enormous number of people who can barely make ends meet. In the midst of all this plenty, we still have sociologists and politicans busy planning poverty programs. In this affluent society there are still large segments of the population which must be helped to rise out of the dark area of hunger and want.

Oh, it's true that we do have more cars, more houses, more television sets, more money to spend than any other nation on earth. But has all this affluence made us the happiest people in the world? I'm afraid not.

THE OTHER DAY I read an article by Paddy Chayevsky, one of America's most prominent playwrights, about the American theater today. In the article he states that the great problem of affluence is boredom. He claims that "an enormous, perhaps the most enormous, corporate institution in our social structure today is the boredom-killing business." This includes everything from "professional football to beach buggies and slot machines." And much of its purpose is killing time for people who don't know what to do with themselves.

That's a sort of a frightening thought, isn't it? A huge section of our industry developed primarily for people who just want to waste time. I'm sure Mr. Chayevsky would agree that recreation and relaxation are not only positive ingredients in life, but necessary parts of a well-adjusted life. What probably disturbs him is that in this so-called affluent society too many people are spending their time and money avoiding life, avoiding the problems of living. They are avoiding the thought and energy required to do something about those problems. The ingredient Mr. Cayevsky feels is missing in our modern society is creativity on the part of the average man.

Now being creative in life doesn't mean you have to be a Michelangelo or an Einstein. The dictionary says that to "create" is to originate. And each one of us, after all, is an original human being with abilities and talents totally different from those of any other human being on earth. To create, then, is to use the originality which each of us possesses and let it contribute to our fellow men.

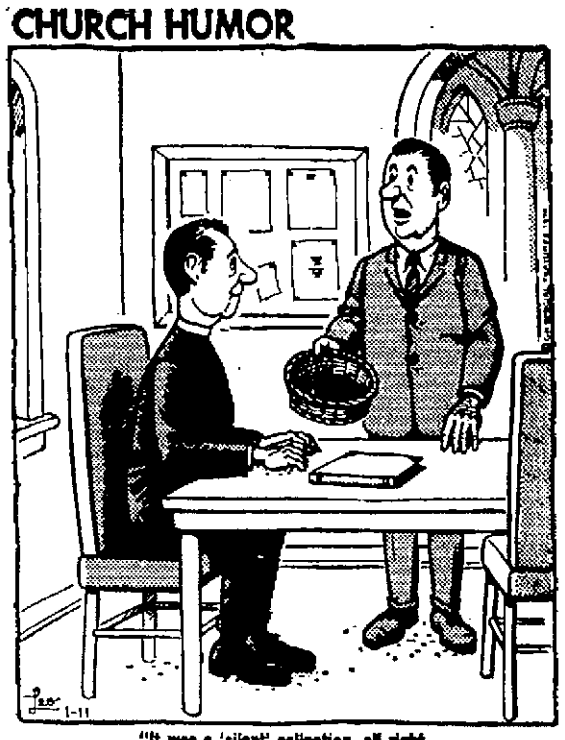

If you are really creative, you will become involved in the tremendous problems that exist today. You will use your creativity to find ways to help the less fortunate. You will spend less energy wasting time and more effort using time effectively to make this a better world. It really doesn't matter how you reach out and help solve the problems that surround you, whether you work with a church group, a civic group or on some special project. The important thing is that you allow yourself to become involved. Be creative and do something about current problems.

PROBLEMS HELP steer a course through the years. Traveling on a 070 jet plane, I was sitting by the window, a vacant seat alongside me. The captain came back and sat down beside me. In the course of our conversation I asked, "Captain, I've often noticed on these planes that out on the wing are a series of blades, and the same on the tail section. What function do they have?"

"Oftentimes the air is too smooth," he explained. "Excessively smooth air presents a problem. We can steer this plane better when we have a certain amount of rough air. So when it is too quiet we have to manufacture turbulence by the flow of air through those blades generating a sort of vortex." Applying this to a human being, may we not surmise that his directional sense might be impaired if he had no trouble, no difficulty, no problems?

We can still enjoy our affluent society. But we must certainly avoid letting ourselves believe that life is just a "spectator sport." People who spend their lives killing boredom by escaping reality are, in reality, the most bored people on earth. But those who take hold life to upgrade it, find happiness in the process.

ALC Crisis Funds

MINNEAPOLIS — A five-month program to raise $1,500,000 for national crisis projects wil be conducted by The American Lutheran Church early in 1970. George B. Parks, a Los Angeles layman who has long been active in the black community, was named director of the campaign. Funds wil be sought in the nearly 5,000 congregations from Ash Wednesday (Feb. 11) through June.

GROWTH DESPITE HANDICAPS

Lutheran Leader Heartened by Members in Hungary

At the close of his initial visit to the Hungarian Evangelical (Lutheran) Church, the president of the Lutheran World Federation said he was impressed with both the theological and parish work of the 430,000-member church.

Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz of Minneapolis, who is also president of the American Lutheran Church, preached twice in the "Iron Curtain" nation during his week-long stay at the invitation of the LWF member church's presiding bishop, Rt. Rev. Dr. Zoltan Kaldy.

The 68-year-old American-born church leader said he observed "excellent church attendance" and "remarkable congregational singing" when he delivered sermons at the principal Lutheran church here on Deak Square and in the rural parish of Hevyzgyoerk.

Dr. Schiotz was accompanied by his wife and Dr. Paul Hansen, the federation's secretary for European minority churches. In the course of their stay, the LWF officials paid a call on retired Bishop Lajos Ordass, an honorary member of the federation's Executive Committee. The state secretary for church matters, Joszef Prantner, invited Dr. Schiotz to his offices where the church and state officials exchanged viewpoints.

THE LWF president admitted it is difficult to evaluate a brief visit in a foreign country, "particularly . . . (in) a country where the government is officially committed to an atheistic" viewpoint.

In the state official's office, Dr. Schiotz noted, "there was no hiding of the government's official position." Prantner told the Lutheran church leader that both the church and the state can cooperate in a common "concern for people as human beings," a similar viewpoint to that he expressed when the Hungarian visited the Geneva headquarters of the federation and the World Council of Churches in June.

After Dr. Schiotz viewed the Hungarian capital and surrounding countryside, he remarked, "I found more indications of economic progress in Hungary than I had expected. There is much evidence of the encouragement of cultural pursuits."

During the delegation's visit to the rural parish in Hevyzgyoerk, they received greetings from youngsters, ranging from 10 to 15 years of age, as well as from a young mother and a parish lay official.

Dr. Schiotz said he had seldom "heard greetings that expressed Christian conviction more joyfully than from these representatives" of a Hungarian congregation. The unidentified village layman told the delegation:

"We feel that with your presence, world Lutheranism came to visit our little congregation. We thank you for the joy we experience now."

The layman asked the foreign visitors to carry greetings to sister churches throughout the world. "Tell them that we are one with them in faith in Jesus Christ, and in the serving love of Christian life. We pray for them and ask them not to cease to pray for us." Offering a prayer, the parishioner said, "May the grace of our God be with us all. God is our strength."

Dr. Schiotz visited the Lutheran church's theological seminary as well as institutions for the aged and for handicapped children and adults "where the care was indeed a demonstration of Christian diaconia."

About a quarter of the church's clergy attended a briefing session here where the LWF president reported on the program of the federation's Commission on World Mission. "Where in the West would 100 pastors turn out on a hot, humid August day to hear a lecture from a visiting LWF official?" Dr. Schiotz asked aloud after the clergy meeting.

Following a visit to the church's theological seminary, the Minnesota churchman discovered instruction "on a par with that found in the West."

"BUT THE Lutheran church in Hungary seems to make theology more than an intellectual exercise," Dr. Schiotz noted. "Theology finds expression through mind and heart."

At the offices of the Hungarian Ecumenical Council the guests were told about the varied activity which the coucil underlakes.

Since assuming the federation presidency six years ago in Helsinki, Finland, the American churchman previously visited Eastern European LWF member churches in Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Yugoslavia. Eastern Europe counts over 2,000,000 Lutherans.

The Hungarian church, which represents today about four per cent of the nation's population, traces its origins to 1518 when Luther's writings were read in the Magyar nation and the first Lutheran martyr was burned at the stake.

CONFIDENT LIVING

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

It seems as though you can't pick up a newspaper or magazine today without finding an article telling you that you're living in the richest country in the world. Writers call this country the "affluent society."

Now, for a great many Americans, this is a little ironical. There is still an enormous number of people who can barely make ends meet. In the midst of all this plenty, we still have sociologists and politicans busy planning poverty programs. In this affluent society there are still large segments of the population which must be helped to rise out of the dark area of hunger and want.

Oh, it's true that we do have more cars, more houses, more television sets, more money to spend than any other nation on earth. But has all this affluence made us the happiest people in the world? I'm afraid not.

THE OTHER DAY I read an article by Paddy Chayevsky, one of America's most prominent playwrights, about the American theater today. In the article he states that the great problem of affluence is boredom. He claims that "an enormous, perhaps the most enormous, corporate institution in our social structure today is the boredom-killing business." This includes everything from "professional football to beach buggies and slot machines." And much of its purpose is killing time for people who don't know what to do with themselves.

That's a sort of a frightening thought, isn't it? A huge section of our industry developed primarily for people who just want to waste time. I'm sure Mr. Chayevsky would agree that recreation and relaxation are not only positive ingredients in life, but necessary parts of a well-adjusted life. What probably disturbs him is that in this so-called affluent society too many people are spending their time and money avoiding life, avoiding the problems of living. They are avoiding the thought and energy required to do something about those problems. The ingredient Mr. Cayevsky feels is missing in our modern society is creativity on the part of the average man.

Now being creative in life doesn't mean you have to be a Michelangelo or an Einstein. The dictionary says that to "create" is to originate. And each one of us, after all, is an original human being with abilities and talents totally different from those of any other human being on earth. To create, then, is to use the originality which each of us possesses and let it contribute to our fellow men.

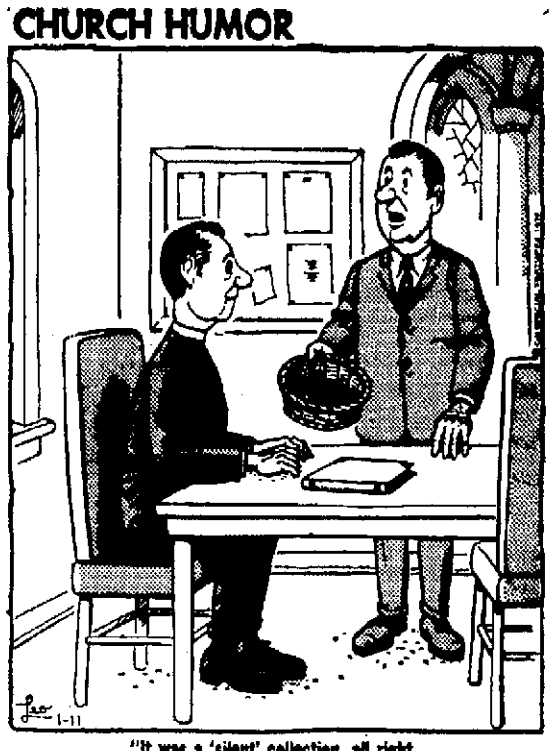

If you are really creative, you will become involved in the tremendous problems that exist today. You will use your creativity to find ways to help the less fortunate. It really doesn't matter how you reach out and help solve the problems that surround you, whether you work with a church group, a civic group or on some special project. Last Laugh (Ha) Was Hardly That

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Bob Newhart who handled the M.C. chores on "A Last Laugh at the 60s" Thursday night on Ch. 7 made the necessary excuses in his opening monologue.

Trying to get all the stuff that was funny — or considered funny in the 60s—into an hour show is impossible. It omitted more than it included, inevitably in the time allotted.

WHAT WAS FUNNY in the 60s? Racial jokes, which introduced Negro comics to national audiences; sex, including an expansion of the joke about homosexuals; politicians, especially presidents and vice presidents; marijuana — if I remember the items Newhart ticked off and were explored in some of the turns by people on the show.

It was the humor of the 60s that appeared on television. The late Lenny Bruce, who made a reputation of sorts as a night club exponent of scatology, was scheduled, in the pre-show publicity to be among those represented on film clips. If he was on, I missed him and I presume his clip was cut and is lying somewhere on a men's room floor. Bruce was part of the 60s — but not the TV 60s.

The scheduled clips of Carol Burnett and Nichols and May were shown as promised and probably more than anything on the show illustrated what one comic called the triumph of the comic over his material (Miss Burnett) and an example of wonderful material by a couple of wonderful comics (Nichols and May in their sketch about a bereaved man making arrangements for a burial in a funeral parlor).

There was some attempt to explain what makes something funny by a panel consisting of Don Adams, Godfrey Campbridge, Dick Benjamin, writer Buck Henry and George Schlatter, the producer of "Laugh-In." Schlatter was hard put to explain what makes "Laugh-In" funny.

What is funny about Alan Sherman, for example, escapes me. Still somebody must find him hilarious. He reportedly is very big in the record sales department.

There is no telling what will make you laugh. For instance, the show following "A Last Laugh at the 60s," was called "Dinner at Howard K. Smith's," and had a group of correspondents seated around a dinner table in dress suits discussing the problems of the world. I found that comical.

THERE SEEMS to have been quite a few notes here of late about Ch. 9 and Baxter Ward, but I guess they're legitimate enough.

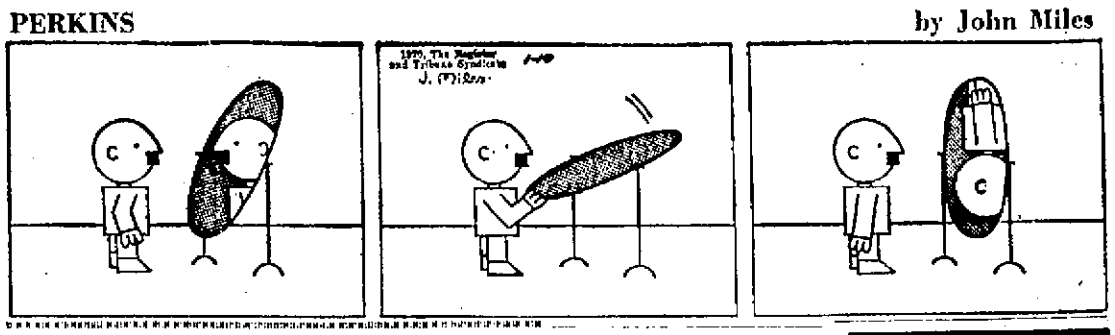

The latest report from Ch. 9 is that Ward's 9:30 p.m. newscast was tuned in by more homes in November, according to ARB, a research organization, than either George Putnam (Ch. 11) or Tom Reddin, (Ch. 5), both at 10 p.m.

The ARB poll, however, showed the network station broadcasters on the 11 p.m. report, way out ahead: Jerry Dunphy (Ch. 2), 285,000 homes; Tom Brokaw (Ch. 4), 226,000 and Bill Bonds (Ch. 7), 168,000 as compared with Ward, 104,000; Putnam, 101,000 and Reddin, 78,000 homes.

KMPC LIFTS HACKLES AT NUDE MUSIC

Beginning a campaign against "nudity in music," radio station KMPC has put out the word to all record companies and record distributors that it will not play any material from albums with "nude or objectionable" covers.

The original decision was proposed by KMPC music librarian Alene McKinney, and has been supported by station executives.

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

An extremely obnoxious proprietor of a delicatessen store had just finished insulting a customer who walked out highly irate and banged the door of the premises. The more he reviewed the maltreatment, the madder he got, so decided to head for the nearest pay-phone booth and call the deli owner.

With a complete change of voice, he placed an order for 6 corned beef and 8 pastrami sandwiches - to be picked up by the firemen of No. 7 Station - situated 3 blocks away. The customer then called the No. 7 Fire Hall and reported a fire at the delicatessen!!

The wail of the siren and screech of brakes accompanied the arrival of the Battalion Chief's car and 2 engine companies, who were there in minutes. Rushing outside and waving his arms wildly, the deli owner shouted, "You better go on to your fire, Chief - dey ain't ready yet!!!"

Folks that slogan on the fire halls - Semper Paratus - (Always Ready) applies to us too! Just pull down on the handle—all cherries and no lemons! Harbor Chevrolet, 3770 Cherry, GA 6-3341.

Last Laugh (Ha) Was Hardly That

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Bob Newhart who handled the M.C. chores on "A Last Laugh at the 60s" Thursday night on Ch. 7 made the necessary excuses in his opening monologue.

Trying to get all the stuff that was funny — or considered funny in the 60s—into an hour show is impossible. It omitted more than it included, inevitably in the time allotted.

WHAT WAS FUNNY in the 60s? Racial jokes, which introduced Negro comics to national audiences; sex, including an expansion of the joke about homosexuals; politicians, especially presidents and vice presidents; marijuana — if I remember the items Newhart ticked off and were explored in some of the turns by people on the show.

It was the humor of the 60s that appeared on television. The late Lenny Bruce, who made a reputation of sorts as a night club exponent of scatology, was scheduled, in the preshow publicity to be among those represented on film clips. If he was on, I missed him and I presume his clip was cut and is lying somewhere on a men's room floor. Bruce was part of the 60s — but not the TV 60s.

The scheduled clips of Carol Burnett and Nichols and May were shown as promised and probably more than anything on the show illustrated what one comic called the triumph of the comic over his material (Miss Burnett) and an example of wonderful material by a couple of wonderful comics (Nichols and May in their sketch about a bereaved man making arrangements for a burial in a funeral parlor).

There was some attempt to explain what makes something funny by a panel consisting of Don Adams, Godfrey Campbridge, Dick Benjamin, writer Buck Henry and George Schlatter, the producer of "Laugh-In." Schlatter was hard put to explain what makes "Laugh-In" funny.

What is funny about Alan Sherman, for example, escapes me. Still somebody must find him hilarious. He reportedly is very big in the record sales department.

There is no telling what will make you laugh. For instance, the show following "A Last Laugh at the 60s," was called "Dinner at Howard K. Smith's," and had a group of correspondents seated around a dinner table in dress suits discussing the problems of the world. I found that comical.

THERE SEEMS to have been quite a few notes here of late about Ch. 9 and Baxter Ward, but I guess they're legitimate enough.

The latest report from Ch. 9 is that Ward's 9:30 p.m. newscast was tuned in by more homes in November, according to ARB, a research organization, than either George Putnam (Ch. 11) or Tom Reddin, (Ch. 5), both at 10 p.m.

The ARB poll, however, showed the network station broadcasters on the 11 p.m. report, way out ahead: Jerry Dunphy (Ch. 2), 285,000 homes; Tom Brokaw (Ch. 4), 226,000 and Bill Bonds (Ch. 7), 168,000 as compared with Ward, 104,000; Putnam, 101,000 and Reddin, 78,000 homes.

KMPC LIFTS HACKLES AT NUDE MUSIC

Beginning a campaign against "nudity in music," radio station KMPC has put out the word to all record companies and record distributors that it will not play any material from albums with "nude or objectionable" covers.

The original decision was proposed by KMPC music librarian Alene McKinney, and has been supported by station executives.

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

An extremely obnoxious proprietor of a delicatessen store had just finished insulting a customer who walked out highly irate and banged the door of the premises.

The more he reviewed the maltreatment, the madder he got, so decided to head for the nearest pay-phone booth and call the deli owner.

With a complete change of voice, he placed an order for 6 corned beef and 8 pastrami sandwiches - to be picked up by the firemen of No. 7 Station - situated 3 blocks away. The customer then called the No. 7 Fire Hall and reported a fire at the delicatessen!!

The wail of the siren and screech of brakes accompanied the arrival of the Battalion Chief's car and 2 engine companies, who were there in minutes. Rushing outside and waving his arms wildly, the deli owner shouted, "You better go on to your fire. Chief - dey ain't ready yet!!!"

Folks that slogan on the fire halls - Semper Paratus - (Always Ready) applies to us too! Just pull down on the handle—all cherries and no lemons! Harbor Chevrolet, 3770 Cherry, GA 6-3341.

UCLA Tempo Tantrums Dunk the Ducks, 75-58

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

This was one instance in which you definitely needed a scorecard to tell who the players were.

UCLA, of all teams, stalled for nearly 15 minutes Friday night en route to a 75-58 victory over Oregon before 12,703 stunned fans at Pauley Pavilion.

After the top-ranked Bruins had tucked away their ninth successive victory and won their Pacific-8 opener, coach John Wooden explained the reasons for his unusual tactics.

"I wanted us to get used to a slow tempo and to try to bring Oregon out of its zone defense," said Wooden. "I expect we'll see quite a bit of this, especially tomorrow night against Oregon State.

"I think Oregon State will play a ball-control game and use a zone defense."

The Bruins face the Beavers tonight at 8 in Pauley.

Stalling tactics were a regular part of UCLA basketball when Lew Alcindor was leading the Bruins to a parade of victories. But nearly always, it should be pointed out, the brakes were applied by the opposition.

"We stalled at Oregon two or three years ago when the Ducks were playing a possession game and we got ahead," he said.

Wooden's decision to attack his tormentors with their own weapon was doubly surprising since the Bruins had been doing so well.

In one of their patented blitzes, they ran up a 9-0 lead in the first 85 seconds and had the Ducks down by 17-4 after 3 ½ minutes.

UCLA was sailing along with a 45-33 lead with four minutes left in the first half when the Bruins went into a deep freeze.

They took only two more shots before intermission and a single try in the first nine minutes of the second half. Oregon coach Steve Belko finally called off his zone defense with 8:48 remaining.

UCLA took only 15 shots in the second half.

The slow tempo seemed to have a telling effect on the Bruins, whose lead was cut to 60-52 with 4:50 to go. But they got untracked again and pulled away easily with free throw help from John Vallely, Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks.

But blistering outside shooting by Jim Henry, Bill Drodziak and Rusty Blair kept the Ducks from being swamped.

The Ducks shot 60 per cent in the first half and .491 for the game. UCLA made 30 of 57 shots — .526 per cent.

Wooden said, "Most any team in the conference is likely to slow it down against us.

"What we did was meant for our own club," he said. "I'm sure we're going to get into this type of situation some more. I wanted us to get used to it."

The Bruin coach said he wouldn't hesitate to stall again, despite his oft-expressed displeasure with a slowdown style.

"If we can get a good lead again, yes, we'll do it," he said.

Alluding to legislation three years ago against the dunk shot, Wooden smiled and said: "I believe UCLA had a substantial part in influencing the no-dunk rule. Maybe we will have an effect on the stall rule, too."

Oregon's Belko said he wasn't surprised by UCLA's stall. "We didn't stall," he said. "We didn't violate any rules, we were trying to play."

Then he added, "Their board power in the first 10 minutes was the difference. Vallely and Henry Bibby got hot and bombed the basket. It's tough to come back against them. They are the best team we've played this year."

Arnie Trails by Four Shots in Rainy Open

By DAVE LEWIS
Staff Writer

Paul Harney, the club pro who shook up the touring stars by winning the 1964 and '65 Los Angeles Opens and almost took a third in '66 before tying for second, is up to his old tricks again.

The graying 40-year-old veteran from Worcester, Mass., who averages only 10 tournaments a year, surged into the undisputed lead at the halfway mark of the 44th classic Friday at Rancho Park Golf Course with a five-under-par 66 for a 36-hole total of 135, one stroke better than six others.

The three first-round leaders faded a bit when they were among the late finishers who were caught in the rain and had to play at least six holes in a heavy downpour.

Dave Hill and Ron Cerrudo, who carded 66s Thursday, are two strokes off the pace at 137, while Bob Lunn fell back into a 10-way tie at 138 with a one-over 73.

Cerrudo recorded 18 consecutive pars, the first time he ever has played such a round.

Hill was off to a great start with two birdies on his first nine holes, but ran into trouble with a pair of bogeys and a double bogey (trap trouble) on three of the next six holes, then had to rally with birdies on the last two holes to salvage a par.

Lunn also was erratic, making four bogeys and three birdies on the first nine and one of each on the final nine.

Arnie declared, "The rain didn't make much difference even though it's miserable to play in. I just didn't play well and putted a lot worse."

Forecast is for clearing skies today.

Harney, who opened Thursday with a steady 69, started with a rush in the second round and birdied four of the first eight holes to serve warning. He dropped in birdie putts of 15, eight and 40 feet at one, two and six, and picked up another bird at No. 8 after a brilliant pitch to within four feet of the cup.

He went five under for the day on the par-five 13th before taking his only bogey of the day at 15 where "I hit a bad drive into the trees." He offset this slip with a six-foot birdie putt on No. 16.

Paul lost two "very big strokes" when he blew three and five-foot birdie putts on two of the last four holes which could have set him up with a commanding lead.

"After a shaky start Thursday on the first two days, I've been playing very well," Harney declared.

Why does he do so well in the Los Angeles Open? "I've been practicing hard to get ready for this year's tournament. Then, too, I know the course very well. I've played it a lot in the last 15 years.

"I've also been driving very well the past two days, and that's a must for anyone hoping to finish high on this course. Even though the yardage figures

Lakers Humble Hawks

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Happy Hairston combined for 68 points Friday night and led the Lakers past the Atlanta Hawks, 127-112, in a National Basketball Assn. game.

West scored 26, Hairston and Baylor had 21.

The Lakers took command 36-29 after one quarter and were never seriously threatened.

The victory cut the Hawks' Western Division lead over the second place Lakers to 5½ games.

It was Atlanta's first loss to the Lakers this season in three games.

Chicago, which set a team scoring record Thursday night by knocking off Phoenix 152-123, is only two games behind the Lakers.

Trojan Bench Gives Spark

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

USC went to the well Friday night but it was the Oregon State Beavers who fell in and drowned.

On a night when Mo Layton and Ron Riley, Southern Cal's top point producers, could muster only a meager six between them, it remained for a pair of non-starters to provide the impetus for a 64-51 Trojan victory in their Pacific-8 opener at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Paul Westphal, relegated to the bench because of the recent fine play of Dana Pagett, turned into a super sub and shredded his way through Oregon State's defenses for a game-high 20 points.

Joe Mackey, a 6-6 reserve forward, took up the slack created by the ineffectiveness of another Trojan starter — Don Crenshaw — and produced 18 points as USC broke from the blocks with a spirited combination of timely shooting and begrudging defense.

"We beat a good team," Trojan coach Bob Boyd commented matter-of-factly. "Our zone was very efficient. It encouraged them to take the outside shot, and that's exactly what we wanted."

Sadly for Paul Valenti's Beavers, they were not converting from long range. Oregon State was a dismal 11 for 33 in the second half and finished at 38 per cent for the night.

"We've shot better," said Valenti dourly as he pondered the Trojan victory, then cast an eye ahead to tonight when the Beavers must invade the hostile environs of Pauley Pavilion to engage UCLA.

"I kinda worry about just putting in an appearance over there," Valenti grinned half-heartedly.

The Trojans also go back to work today, facing Oregon at 2:30 in a regionally televised game.

Southern Cal, surprised at the outset by Oregon State's willingness to run and shoot, found its salvation in the zone.

After OSU spurted to a 17-12 lead, the Trojans regrouped by changing their defensive strategy and promptly went on a 17-3 blitz that created a 29-20 cushion.

Westphal and Mackey were the instigators, accounting for 16 of the 17 points during SC's hot run.

"We broke well out of our zone," Boyd analyzed. "and that was one of the deciding factors, along with the play of Westphal. There's no doubt about it, that was his best game."

The next question was obvious. Would Westphal be back among the starters today?

"You can't keep juggling your lineup just because somebody has a good game," responded Boyd. "I don't think anybody could choose two starters among our three top guards. I think Paul will be happy if he can score 20 points per game in the same manner he did tonight."

The Westphal-Mackey inspired spurt led to a 33-26 Trojan advantage at the half but the Beavers, with 7-foot Vic Bartolome taking liberties as USC mysteriously moved back into a man-to-man defense, forged a 38-38 tie with 14:30 left.

Then Westphal and Mackey repeated their first half act and sent the Trojans away winging again.

In the ensuing 6½ minutes, Southern Cal outscored the Beavers, 16-4, and it was all over. Westphal and Mackey had six points apiece during the Trojan breakaway.

Cal State L.B. Fights Off San Diego, 60-56

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO — Cal State Long Beach made its Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. bow Friday night and nearly fell on its face.

The 49ers had to survive innumerable turnovers and a furious comeback in the final five minutes before they could claim a 60-56 victory over host San Diego State before 4,000 fans.

49ers Host JFK

The 49ers return to their campus gym tonight at 8, hosting J.F. Kennedy College of Wahoo, Nebraska. The Patriots (3-11) are led by 6-foot-7 forwards Jim Miller and Scott Isaacson.

The swarming 49er zone defense preserved a victory that the offense couldn't clinch.

The 49ers appeared ready to put a lock on their 10th victory of the season when Sam Robinson and Dwight Taylor combined for five points to give CSLB a 51-41 advantage with 8:17 remaining.

Robinson's free throw made the score 51-41, Cal State's first charity throw of the second half. At this juncture, San Diego suddenly came to life and collected four points from Von Jacobsen and two free throws from Gary Schneider to trim the 49er lead to 51-45 with 5:39 left.

Billy Jankans made it 53-47 with a timely tip-in at 5:29, and the 49ers picked up another point when George Trapp overcompensated for an Aztec free throw by scoring on a layin.

Baskets by John Cox and Schneider trimmed the 49ers' lead to 55-52 with 4:39 to go, and the Aztecs went to ball-hawking since they had committed only three fouls in the second half.

Hoping to trade one point for two, the Aztecs committed three fouls in the next 1:48, but the 49ers cashed in on all free throws — two by Shawn Johnson and one from Trapp — and the Cal State zone limited San Diego to a field goal in the final 1:36.

Joe Lavender's soaring tip-in made it 58-56 at that juncture and things looked good for Dick Davis' San Diego troops when Robinson threw the ball away with 0:44 remaining.

After a time out, the Aztecs worked 12 seconds before Cox missed a 22-footer. The 49ers controlled the rebound.

Cal State worked until six seconds remainined and then Robinson dropped in two free throws to clinch the victory.

Defensively, the 49ers limited San Diego to 23 field goals in 66 attempts (35 per cent) to compensate for being outrebounded 48-42.

Offensively, the 49ers had three athletes in double figures, led by Johnson with 19. Trapp added 16 and Jankans 12 points.

"Shawn saved us," coach Jerry Tarkanian said after the 6-foot-4 former Long Beach City College star had hit on 7 of 12 floor shots and 5-for-5 from the foul line to total his best performance of the season.

UCLA Tempo Tantrums Dunk the Ducks, 75-58

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

This was one instance in which you definitely needed a scorecard to tell who the players were.

UCLA, of all teams, stalled for nearly 15 minutes Friday night en route to a 75-58 victory over Oregon before 12,703 stunned fans at Pauley Pavilion.

After the top-ranked Bruins had tucked away their ninth successive victory and won their Pacific-8 opener, coach John Wooden explained the reasons for his unusual tactics.

"I wanted us to get used to a slow tempo and to try to bring Oregon out of its zone defense," said Wooden. "I expect we'll see quite a bit of this, especially tomorrow night against Oregon State.

"I think Oregon State will play a ball-control game and use a zone defense."

The Bruins face the Beavers tonight at 8 in Pauley.

Stalling tactics were a regular part of UCLA basketball when Lew Alcindor was leading the Bruins to a parade of victories. But nearly always, it should be pointed out, the brakes were applied by the opposition.

"We stalled at Oregon two or three years ago when the Ducks were playing a possession game and we got ahead," he said.

Wooden's decision to attack his tormentors with their own weapon was doubly surprising since the Bruins had been doing so well.

In one of their patented blitzes, they ran up a 9-0 lead in the first 85 seconds and had the Ducks down by 17-4 after 3 ½ minutes.

UCLA was sailing along with a 45-33 lead with four minutes left in the first half when the Bruins went into a deep freeze.

They took only two more shots before intermission and a single try in the first nine minutes of the second half. Oregon coach Steve Belko finally called off his zone defense with 8:48 remaining.

UCLA took only 15 shots in the second half.

The slow tempo seemed to have a telling effect on the Bruins, whose lead was cut to 60-52 with 4:50 to go. But they got untracked again and pulled away easily with free throw help from John Vallely, Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks.

But blistering outside shooting by Jim Henry, Bill Drodziak and Rusty Blair kept the Ducks from being swamped.

The Ducks shot 60 per cent in the first half and .491 for the game. UCLA made 30 of 57 shots — .526 per cent.

Wooden said, "Most any team in the conference is likely to slow it down against us.

"What we did was meant for our own club," he said. "I'm sure we're going to get into this type of situation some more. I wanted us to get used to it."

The Bruin coach said he wouldn't hesitate to stall again, despite his oft-expressed displeasure with a slowdown style.

"If we can get a good lead again, yes, we'll do it," he said.

Alluding to legislation three years ago against the dunk shot, Wooden smiled and said: "I believe UCLA had a substantial part in influencing the no-dunk rule. Maybe we will have an effect on the stall rule, too."

Oregon's Belko said he wasn't surprised by UCLA's stall. "We didn't stall," he said. "We didn't violate any rules, we were trying to play."

Then he added, "Their board power in the first 10 minutes was the difference. Vallely and Henry Bibby got hot and bombed the basket. It's tough to come back against them. They are the best team we've played this year."

Arnie Trails by Four Shots in Rainy Open

By DAVE LEWIS
Staff Writer

Paul Harney, the club pro who shook up the touring stars by winning the 1964 and '65 Los Angeles Opens and almost took a third in '66 before tying for second, is up to his old tricks again.

The graying 40-year-old veteran from Worcester, Mass., who averages only 10 tournaments a year, surged into the undisputed lead at the halfway mark of the 44th classic Friday at Rancho Park Golf Course with a five-under-par 66 for a 36-hole total of 135, one stroke better than six others.

The three first-round leaders faded a bit when they were among the late finishers who were caught in the rain and had to play at least six holes in a heavy downpour.

Dave Hill and Ron Cerrudo, who carded 66s Thursday, are two strokes off the pace at 137, while Bob Lunn fell back into a 10-way tie at 138 with a one-over 73.

Cerrudo recorded 18 consecutive pars, the first time he ever has played such a round.

Hill was off to a great start with two birdies on his first nine holes, but ran into trouble with a pair of bogeys and a double bogey (trap trouble) on three of the next six holes, then had to rally with birdies on the last two holes to salvage a par.

Lunn also was erratic, making four bogeys and three birdies on the first nine and one of each on the final nine.

Arnie declared, "The rain didn't make much difference even though it's miserable to play in. I just didn't play well and putted a lot worse."

Forecast is for clearing skies today.

Harney, who opened Thursday with a steady 69, started with a rush in the second round and birdied four of the first eight holes to serve warning. He dropped in birdie putts of 15, eight and 40 feet at one, two and six, and picked up another bird at No. 8 after a brilliant pitch to within four feet of the cup.

He went five under for the day on the par-five 13th before taking his only bogey of the day at 15 where "I hit a bad drive into the trees." He offset this slip with a six-foot birdie putt on No. 16.

Paul lost two "very big strokes" when he blew three and five-foot birdie putts on two of the last four holes which could have set him up with a commanding lead.

"After a shaky start Thursday on the first two days, I've been playing very well," Harney declared.

Why does he do so well in the Los Angeles Open? "I've been practicing hard to get ready for this year's tournament. Then, too, I know the course very well. I've played it a lot in the last 15 years.

"I've also been driving very well the past two days, and that's a must for anyone hoping to finish high on this course. Even though the yardage figures

Lakers Humble Hawks

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Happy Hairston combined for 68 points Friday night and led the Lakers past the Atlanta Hawks, 127-112, in a National Basketball Assn. game.

West scored 26, Hairston and Baylor had 21.

The Lakers took command 36-29 after one quarter and were never seriously threatened.

The victory cut the Hawks' Western Division lead over the second place Lakers to 5½ games.

It was Atlanta's first loss to the Lakers this season in three games.

Chicago, which set a team scoring record Thursday night by knocking off Phoenix 152-123, is only two games behind the Lakers.

Trojan Bench Gives Spark

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

USC went to the well Friday night but it was the Oregon State Beavers who fell in and drowned.

On a night when Mo Layton and Ron Riley, Southern Cal's top point producers, could muster only a meager six between them, it remained for a pair of non-starters to provide the impetus for a 64-51 Trojan victory in their Pacific-8 opener at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Paul Westphal, relegated to the bench because of the recent fine play of Dana Pagett, turned into a super sub and shredded his way through Oregon State's defenses for a game-high 20 points.

Joe Mackey, a 6-6 reserve forward, took up the slack created by the ineffectiveness of another Trojan starter — Don Crenshaw — and produced 18 points as USC broke from the blocks with a spirited combination of timely shooting and begrudging defense.

"We beat a good team," Trojan coach Bob Boyd commented matter-of-factly. "Our zone was very efficient. It encouraged them to take the outside shot, and that's exactly what we wanted."

Sadly for Paul Valenti's Beavers, they were not converting from long range. Oregon State was a dismal 11 for 33 in the second half and finished at 38 per cent for the night.

"We've shot better," said Valenti dourly as he pondered the Trojan victory, then cast an eye ahead to tonight when the Beavers must invade the hostile environs of Pauley Pavilion to engage UCLA.

"I kinda worry about just putting in an appearance over there," Valenti grinned half-heartedly.

The Trojans also go back to work today, facing Oregon at 2:30 in a regionally televised game.

Southern Cal, surprised at the outset by Oregon State's willingness to run and shoot, found its salvation in the zone.

After OSU spurted to a 17-12 lead, the Trojans regrouped by changing their defensive strategy and promptly went on a 17-3 blitz that created a 29-20 cushion.

Westphal and Mackey were the instigators, accounting for 16 of the 17 points during SC's hot run.

"We broke well out of our zone," Boyd analyzed, "and that was one of the deciding factors, along with the play of Westphal. There's no doubt about it, that was his best game."

The next question was obvious. Would Westphal be back among the starters today?

"You can't keep juggling your lineup just because somebody has a good game," responded Boyd. "I don't think anybody could choose two starters among our three top guards. I think Paul will be happy if he can score 20 points per game in the same manner he did tonight."

The Westphal-Mackey inspired spurt led to a 33-26 Trojan advantage at the half but the Beavers, with 7-foot Vic Bartolome taking liberties as USC mysteriously moved back into a man-to-man defense, forged a 38-38 tie with 14:30 left.

Then Westphal and Mackey repeated their first half act and sent the Trojans away winging again.

In the ensuing 6½ minutes, Southern Cal outscored the Beavers, 16-4, and it was all over. Westphal and Mackey had six points apiece during the Trojan breakaway.

St. Anthony Halts Lakewood Running Game, Wins 66-52

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

St. Anthony High coach Jack Errion can sympathize with the way Fred Engels of Lakewood must have felt Friday night.

The Lancers were frustrated more times then they'll care to remember as the Saints beat a Moore League school for the first time this season, 66-52.

The overflow crowd of 1,200 squeezed into Lakewood's gym must have wondered how the Lancers scored 108 points earlier in the week.

"We were determined not to let them run on us at any cost," smiled Errion. "I had been dejected over the way we had been playing lately, but the kids finally put together an all-out effort for four quarters."

After Lakewood missed its first six shots from the field and didn't hit an outside shot until 1:27 into the second quarter, Engels tried numerous combinations.

St. Anthony built an 11-point lead in the first half, then repeatedly broke Lakewood's press in the final 16 minutes to win its fifth game against nine losses.

Twenty of the Saints' 36 points in the second half came on free throws.

Chief culprit was guard Bill Mullen who had a perfect 14-out-14 effort at the charity line.

76ers' Streak Stymied

Combined News Services

The Seattle Supersonics scored their last 11 points from the foul line Friday night to defeat Philadelphia, 135-132, and snap the 76ers' four-game winning streak in a game delayed 20 minutes by a power failure.

Milwaukee roared back from an 11-point deficit to trip the fired-up Phoenix Suns 120-116 for its sixth win in seven starts.

The Suns, stung by fines of $300 each levied against their top eight players, had led all the way until midway through the third period when Milwaukee caught up for the first time.

Five Baltimore players, led by Wes Unseld, scored 19 or more points as the Bullets streaked to a 142-130 victory over Boston.

Jacksonville Giant Gilmore (7-2) Peps Merry Romp

Combined News Services

Jacksonville's giant Artis Gilmore had a feast under the boards and led all scoring as the seventh-ranked Dolphins ran off to another easy basketball victory Thursday night, 113-77, over the University of Richmond.

The 7-foot-2 man of many talents scored 38 points and grabbed 25 rebounds. On top of that he blocked 11 shots and added four assists.

Gilmore dominated the game, as he usually does, from the moment he hit a jump shot from the side of the court in the first minute of play. This beginning of the scoring put JU in front to stay. It was 58-38 at halftime and merely a show for the 6,148 spectators from then on.

Princeton crushed Harvard, 87-64, holding Harvard's Jeff Petrie to just four points, far below his 27.9 average. In another Ivy League game Penn won its 11th game in 12 starts and 3-0 in the conference, topped Dartmouth, 89-75.

Florida State thrashed Miami, 104-63, its 11th win against two losses. The Seminoles caused 33 Miami turnovers.

Cal State Los Angeles opened Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. play with a 101-90 win over San Jose State. The Diablos trailed at halftime, 50-41. Rodney Murray led CSLA with 30 points, Morris Thomas added 23 and Mose Adolph 20. Coby Dietrick led San Jose with 25.

Narrow Victory for Dons

Millikan, Jordan Score Easy Wins

Moore League schools responded with near-perfect basketball efforts Friday night in non-league contests.

El Rancho had the closest call, scoring 31 points in a frantic fourth quarter to pull out an 82-81 decision over visiting Montebello as Bob Aleman sank two free throws with 16 seconds left to win the game.

Millikan ran its record to 14-2 with an easy 71-34 win against Garden Grove.

The Rams ran off a 23-5 streak late in the first quarter and could do little wrong after that. The Argonauts were held without a field goal in the third quarter until the final 22 seconds.

Dave Frost paced the winners with 18 points. The 6-foot-5 senior extended his free throw string to 22 in a row over a three-game span with a 5-for-5 effort.

Senior center Bob Kuykendall scored 17 points and pulled down 16 rebounds for the winners. Forwards Ron Reynolds (17 points) and Raoul Sanders (15 points) added plenty of support for Jordan, now 11-3.

Wilson didn't fare as well at Dominguez, dropping a 58-53 decision as Ed O'Bannon scored 19 points and pulled down 17 rebounds for the winning Dons.

Davenport, Carlos Tie Indoor Marks

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Olympians Willie Davenport and John Carlos tied indoor records Friday night in the third CYO Club national invitational track meet.

Davenport edged two other Olympians, Leon Coleman and Erv Hall, with a 6.8-second clocking in the 60-yard high hurdles, and Carlos was timed in 5.9 seconds in the 60-yard dash.

Coleman from the Southern California Striders, and Hall of the Philadelphia Pioneers, were timed in 6.9—both breaking the meet record of 7.0.

Davenport equalled the indoor record he already shares with Hayes Jones and Earl McCullouch. A crowd of 9,514 in Cole Fieldhouse cheered the clocking for Carlos, but booed mildly when a time of 6.1 seconds was announced for Ivory Crockett of Southern Illinois, who appeared to finish just a portion of a stride behind the winner.

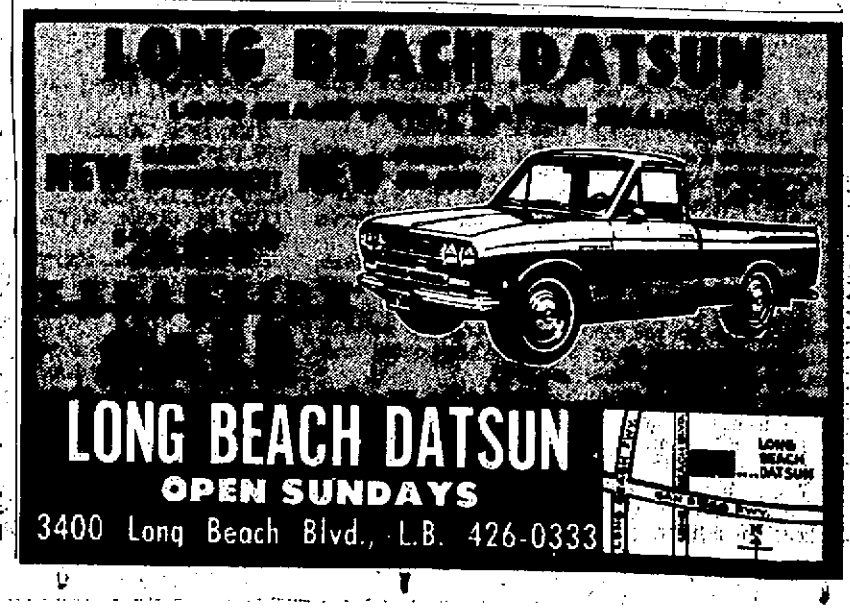

Marty Liquori of Villanova won the mile run in a meet record 4:05.5, nipping Juris Luzin of the William & Mary Track Club at the tape after making up about 10 yards on the last lap.

Steve Owens of Tennessee won the pole vault at 16 feet and Frank Costello of Sports International, Washington, D.C., a former University of Maryland Athlete, took the high jump at 6-10, after Olympic champion Dick Fosbury failed three times at 6-9.

Olympian Willye White of Chicago's Mayor Daley Youth Foundation set a meet record with a time of 6.7 in the women's 60-yard dash, and Ed Bowie of Maryland turned in a record 56.9 for the 500-yard run.

Josef Plachy of Czechoslovakia led all the way to win the half-mile in 1:53.2. Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Club was second in 1:53.4.

St. Anthony Halts Lakewood Running Game, Wins 66-52

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

St. Anthony High coach Jack Errion can sympathize with the way Fred Engels of Lakewood must have felt Friday night.

The Lancers were frustrated more times then they'll care to remember as the Saints beat a Moore League school for the first time this season, 66-52.

The overflow crowd of 1,200 squeezed into Lakewood's gym must have wondered how the Lancers scored 108 points earlier in the week.

"We were determined not to let them run on us at any cost," smiled Errion. "I had been dejected over the way we had been playing lately, but the kids finally put together an all-out effort for four quarters."

After Lakewood missed its first six shots from the field and didn't hit an outside shot until 1:27 into the second quarter, Engels tried numerous combinations.

St. Anthony built an 11-point lead in the first half, then repeatedly broke Lakewood's press in the final 16 minutes to win its fifth game against nine losses.

76ers' Streak Stymied

Combined News Services

The Seattle Supersonics scored their last 11 points from the foul line Friday night to defeat Philadelphia, 135-132, and snap the 76ers' four-game winning streak in a game delayed 20 minutes by a power failure.

The Suns, stung by fines of $300 each levied against their top eight players, had led all the way until midway through the third period when Milwaukee caught up for the first time.

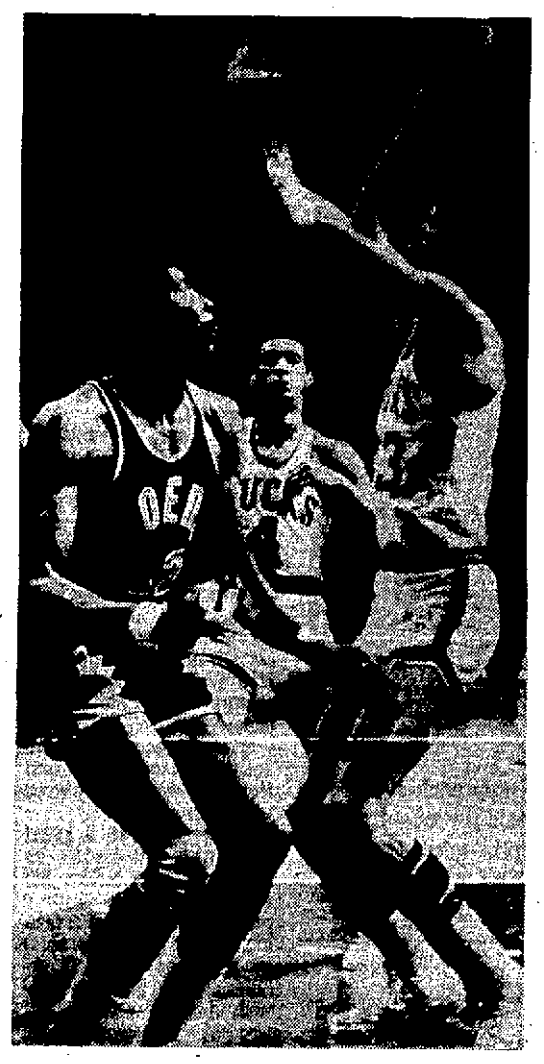

Five Baltimore players, led by Wes Unseld, scored 19 or more points as the Bullets streaked to a 142-139 victory over Boston.

Jacksonville Giant Gilmore (7-2) Peps Merry Romp

Combined News Services

Jacksonville's giant Artis Gilmore had a feast under the boards and led all scoring as the seventh-ranked Dolphins ran off to another easy basketball victory Thursday night, 113-77, over the University of Richmond.

The 7-foot-2 man of many talents scored 38 points and grabbed 25 rebounds. On top of that he blocked 11 shots and added four assists.

Gilmore dominated the game, as he usually does, from the moment he hit a jump shot from the side of the court in the first minute of play. This beginning of the scoring put JU in front to stay. It was 58-38 at halftime and merely a show for the 6,148 spectators from then on.

Princeton crushed Harvard, 87-64, holding Harvard's Jeff Petrie to just four points, far below his 27.9 average. In another Ivy League game Penn won its 11th game in 12 starts and 3-0 in the conference, topped Dartmouth, 89-75.

Florida State thrashed Miami, 104-63, its 11th win against two losses. The Seminoles caused 33 Miami turnovers.

Cal State Los Angeles opened Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. play with a 101-90 win over San Jose State. The Diablos trailed at halftime, 50-41. Rodney Murray led CSLA with 30 points, Morris Thomas added 23 and Mose Adolph 20. Coby Dietrick led San Jose with 25.

Davenport, Carlos Tie Indoor Marks

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Olympians Willie Davenport and John Carlos tied indoor records Friday night in the third CYO Club national invitational track meet.

Davenport edged two other Olympians, Leon Coleman and Erv Hall, with a 6.8-second clocking in the 60-yard high hurdles, and Carlos was timed in 6.9 seconds in the 60-yard dash.

Coleman from the Southern California Striders, and Hall of the Philadelphia Pioneers, were timed in 6.9—both breaking the meet record of 7.0.

Davenport equalled the indoor record he already shares with Hayes Jones and Earl McCullouch. A crowd of 9,514 in Cole Fieldhouse cheered the clocking for Carlos, but booed mildly when a time of 6.1 seconds was announced for Ivory Crockett of Southern Illinois, who appeared to finish just a portion of a stride behind the winner.

Marty Liquori of Villanova won the mile run in a meet record 4:05.5, nipping Juris Luzin of the William & Mary Track Club at the tape after making up about 10 yards on the last lap.

Steve Owens of Tennessee won the pole vault at 16 feet and Frank Costello of Sports International, Washington, D.C., a former University of Maryland Athlete, took the high jump at 6-10, after Olympic champion Dick Fosbury failed three times at 6-9.

Olympian Willye White of Chicago's Mayor Daley Youth Foundation set a meet record with a time of 6.7 in the women's 60-yard dash, and Ed Bowie of Maryland turned in a record 56.9 for the 500-yard run.

Josef Plachy of Czechoslovakia led all the way to win the half-mile in 1:53.2. Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Club was second in 1:53.4.

The Rains Came...And So Did Arnie's Army

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

It was 3 p.m. and the rain was starting to come down hard. The threat minutes earlier had left the holes that are visible from the Rancho Park clubhouse virtually stripped of fans.

But just over the nearest hill was a strange phenomena. It was a traffic jam of 3,000 hearty souls making no effort to escape the inclement weather, except for ducking under a tree.

Most of these "crazy people," plus one intrepid writer, had been caught without rain gear. But it made no difference. They were comfortable just being part of the crowd.

The mass of humanity was Arnie's Army, a unique breed of golf fans who are not deterred by wind, rain or threat of holocaust. Their mission is to support their hero, Arnold Palmer, under any circumstances.

It was difficult to remain dedicated to Arnie Friday. By his own admission he played poorly and putted worse in shooting a 1-over-par 72 in the second round of the Los Angeles Open.

A poor round is nothing new to Palmer's fans, but they remained with him in rainy weather. Palmer had his rain slacks on and off twice, and he said he was uncomfortable all day. He played 13 holes under porous skies.

Fred Astaire and Randolph Scott were in Friday's gallery, and Joey Bishop saw Arnie play Thursday. But there were housewives, mini-skirted coeds, businessmen, bankers and a surprisingly large number of senior citizens.

"He gave me an autograph and it made my day," said one blonde housewife, attending the Open on her husband's ticket. "He has magnetism," said another young woman.

A man who was supposed to be "checking on my market sales" said he just couldn't pass up the chance to see Palmer play. He said he was no worshipper, but was happy when Arnold did well "because golf owes so much to him."

At least two men thought that the bulk of the rooters knew little about golf, but of those interviewed, almost all said they played the game and "knew a good shot from a bad one."

"I just wanted my girlfriend to see who Arnold Palmer is, even for one hole," commented a student. "I usually follow the unknowns because you can at least see the shots."

Jockeying for a vantage point to watch Palmer is an art. The younger people don't wait for Arnold to finish a short putt before sprinting to the next tee. Fans were three-deep around all the greens.

Friday's gallery included Long Beach amateur golfers Steve Cook, Clay Barnett and Gary Ballantyne. Also represented was Meadowlark's Frank Cormaci and Gomer Sims, and two Poly High teachers "too sick" to attend school.

Barnett spoke for many when he said, "I'm following Palmer just to say I saw him. I would like to have watched Hogan play a round, but I never did. But I can say I galleried Palmer."

Palmer hit the ball reasonably well off the tee, but his putting was poor, except for a 30-footer for a birdie on No. 3. It was the 12th hole for Arnie, who played the back nine first. He had only one other bird, and three bogeys.

Had Palmer made a late charge the gallery might have been harder to handle. As it was, they were like lambs.

The marshal who "coordinated" Palmer's gallery said, "I've known them to be unruly, but not in L.A. They are like no other, though, in that they cheer even when his ball hits the green. Another player would have to hit the ball stiff to the pin to get applause."

One man said Arnold's "charisma" isn't like it used to be, but you wouldn't prove that on the final hole (the 9th for Arnie).

The official who announces the oncoming threesome to the fans in the stands said, "In the next group we have Ken Venturi, Doug Ford and You Know Who?"

The man made the same announcement on Thursday, which prompted one fan Friday to tell him to change his script, but every man, woman and child knew "You Know Who."

There is only one Arnold Palmer.

Golfing with Arnold Palmer

GOLF HAS ITS PSYCHOLOGICAL SIDE

I've noticed that good competitors often play their best when they are behind. They realize that there is nothing more demoralizing to an opponent than to steal a hole he apparently has won. They seem to welcome the opportunity to come from behind.

Let's say your opponent is on the green in two shots (see illustration) and you are shooting four from the sand. Don't give up; try to hole your shot. Can you imagine how that would frustrate your opponent? It could change the whole tide of the match.

Never give up. A key shot that steals a hole is much more valuable -- from a psychological angle -- than any other well-played shot.

Here's a Genuine Out-of-Bounds Penalty: Shotgun

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Golfers who slice their drive off the No. 1 tee at the Bowden golf course here might as well forget about retrieving their ball.

That is, unless they want to challenge a high fence topped by barbed wire, an irate homeowner who sometimes carries a shotgun, and two steel traps.

"I wouldn't have a care in the world if it weren't for golf . . . I detest the game and I've got no use for golfers," says Balkcom, who, for the past 25 years has been battling a "plague" of golf balls and the people who hit them.

Balkcom has anchored the traps in the grass near the back edge of his place. Over each trap is a sign that says "keep out." In the center of each trap is a new golf ball.

"I've still got plenty of balls to use as bait," Balkcom said in an interview. "Since I bought this place in 1934 I've picked up more than 10,000 balls.

"You wouldn't believe some of those golfers. They've used wire clippers at least a dozen times to cut big holes in my fence and go into my yard after balls. They've jumped over and gone under.

"I even tried electric wire once and that did no good. They just get some insulated gloves and cut that, too.

"Some of them have come up to my yard and announced boldly that they were going in and get their golf ball. Then I'd go get my shotgun.

"All I'm trying to do is protect my property," said Balkcom.

Rain Dampens Six Tied for Second

The six contenders tied for second at 136:

—1963 L.A. Open winner Billy Casper with his second 68. He's now a solid bet to take it all after reaching this point in such a strong position.

—Larry Mowry, second in So. Calif. Open last week, who parlayed some sensational short-iron play into the day's low score, a six-under 65.

—Don Massengale (69), winless since capturing the Bing Crosby and Canadian Opens in 1966, but who led at the halfway point in the '67 L.A. Open en route to a third-place finish. His putting was very sharp as he dropped in a 20-footer, a pair of 18-footers and another from 12 feet for birdies to help offset three bogeys.

—Hale Irwin, 24-year-old former all-Big Eight defensive backfield star from the University of Colorado and the 1967 NCAA golf champion, who fired a great 66 highlighted by brilliant putting. He holed out putts of 45, 25 and 10 feet for birds; a 20-footer to save his par on No. 6, and a 10-footer for an eagle three on the par-five 13. "That was the hardest putt all day," he declared. "It was downhill and broke hard to the left."

—Ken Still, who flew to Seattle Thursday night following the first round for a sports banquet, returned at 4:30 a.m. Friday in time to post a second 68. He missed a chance for the lead when 12 to 15-foot birdie putts on three successive holes (14-15-16) stopped an inch short of the hole because water from heavy rain slowed up ball.

—Jim Wright, club pro from Inwood, Long Island, who was fourth in the PGA championship last summer and then finished second to Bobby Rosburg in the PGA's club pro title event in Scottsdale last month, fashioned a 66 featured by an eagle on the par-five eight hole where he sank a 20-foot putt.

Other leading challengers: former USC Trojans Al Geiberger and Dave Stockton, who are at 137 after shooting 69s, and Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton, Fred Marti and R. H. Sikes, who are at 138 with Lunn.

Seventy-two shot 143 for the first 36 holes to make the cut. Long Beach-area golfers who will continue play today are Dick Carmody and Ken Ellsworth, both at 143. Two missed the cut—Pinky Stevenson (144) and Dennis Murphy (145).

There were many big names among the casualties who failed to make the cut—1963 Masters champ Bob Goalby and Bunky Henry at 144; Bert Greene at 145; U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, Rod Funseth, Larry Ziegler, Terry Wilcox, Grier Jones, Charles Coody and Rosburg at 146; Don January, Ken Venturi at 148, and 1957 L.A. winner Doug Ford, 150.

The Rains Came...And So Did Arnie's Army

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

It was 3 p.m. and the rain was starting to come down hard. The threat minutes earlier had left the holes that are visible from the Rancho Park clubhouse virtually stripped of fans.

But just over the nearest hill was a strange phenomena. It was a traffic jam of 3,000 hearty souls making no effort to escape the inclement weather, except for ducking under a tree.

Most of these "crazy people," plus one intrepid writer, had been caught without rain gear. But it made no difference. They were comfortable just being part of the crowd.

The mass of humanity was Arnie's Army, a unique breed of golf fans who are not deterred by wind, rain or threat of holocaust. Their mission is to support their hero, Arnold Palmer, under any circumstances.

It was difficult to remain dedicated to Arnie Friday. By his own admission he played poorly and putted worse in shooting a 1-over-par 72 in the second round of the Los Angeles Open.

A poor round is nothing new to Palmer's fans, but they remained with him in rainy weather. Palmer had his rain slacks on and off twice, and he said he was uncomfortable all day. He played 13 holes under porous skies.

Palmer draws a melting pot of rooters, not all of them watching him for the same reason.

Fred Astaire and Randolph Scott were in Friday's gallery, and Joey Bishop saw Arnie play Thursday. But there were housewives, mini-skirted coeds, businessmen, bankers and a surprisingly large number of senior citizens.

"He gave me an autograph and it made my day," said one blonde housewife, attending the Open on her husband's ticket. "He has magnetism," said another young woman.

One collegian, with his gal on his arm, said, "Arnie brushed across my date's shoulder and she started panting."

A man who was supposed to be "checking on ..ay market sales" said he just couldn't pass up the chance to see Palmer play. He said he was no worshipper, but was happy when Arnold did well "because golf owes so much to him."

At least two men thought that the bulk of the rooters knew little about golf, but of those interviewed, almost all said they played the game and "knew a good shot from a bad one."

"I just wanted my girlfriend to see who Arnold Palmer is, even for one hole," commented a student. "I usually follow the unknowns because you can at least see the shots."

Jockeying for a vantage point to watch Palmer is an art. The younger people don't wait for Arnold to finish a short putt before sprinting to the next tee. Fans were three-deep around all the greens.

Friday's gallery included Long Beach amateur golfers Steve Cook, Clay Barnett and Gary Ballantyne. Also represented was Meadowlark's Frank Cormaci and Gomer Sims, and two Poly High teachers "too sick" to attend school.

Barnett spoke for many when he said, "I'm following Palmer just to say I saw him. I would like to have watched Hogan play a round, but I never did. But I can say I galleried Palmer."

The purists who came to get some golf tips didn't have much to savor.

Palmer hit the ball reasonably well off the tee, but his putting was poor, except for a 30-footer for a birdie on No. 3. It was the 12th hole for Arnie, who played the back nine first. He had only one other bird, and three bogeys.

Had Palmer made a late charge the gallery might have been harder to handle. As it was, they were like lambs.

The marshal who "coordinated" Palmer's gallery said, "I've known them to be unruly, but not in L.A. They are like no other, though. In that they cheer even when his ball hits the green. Another player would have to hit the ball stiff to the pin to get applause."

One man said Arnold's "charisma" isn't like it used to be, but you wouldn't prove that on the final hole (the 9th for Arnie).

The official who announces the oncoming threesome to the fans in the stands said, "In the next group we have Ken Venturi, Doug Ford and You Know Who?"

The man made the same announcement on Thursday, which prompted one fan Friday to tell him to change his script, but every man, woman and child knew "You Know Who."

There is only one Arnold Palmer.

Golfing with Arnold Palmer

GOLF HAS ITS PSYCHOLOGICAL SIDE

I've noticed that good competitors often play their best when they are behind. They realize that there is nothing more demoralizing to an opponent than to steal a hole he apparently has won. They seem to welcome the opportunity to come from behind.

Let's say your opponent is on the green in two shots (see illustration) and you are shooting four from the sand. Don't give up; try to hole your shot. Can you imagine how that would frustrate your opponent? It could change the whole tide of the match.

Never give up. A key shot that steals a hole is much more valuable—from a psychological angle—than any other well-played shot.

Here's a Genuine Out-of-Bounds Penalty: Shotgun

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Golfers who slice their drive off the No. 1 tee at the Bowden golf course here might as well forget about retrieving their ball.

That is, unless they want to challenge a high fence topped by barbed wire, an irate homeowner who sometimes carries a shotgun, and two steel traps.

"I wouldn't have a care in the world if it weren't for golf . . . I detest the game and I've got no use for golfers," says Balkcom, who, for the past 25 years has been battling a "plague" of golf balls and the people who hit them.

Balkcom has anchored the traps in the grass near the back edge of his place. Over each trap is a sign that says "keep out." In the center of each trap is a new golf ball.

Balkcom claims several golfers have had their hands nipped as they tried to snatch the ball off the trap.

"I've still got plenty of balls to use as bait," Balkcom said in an interview. "Since I bought this place in 1934 I've picked up more than 10,000 balls.

"You wouldn't believe some of those golfers. They've used wire clippers at least a dozen times to cut big holes in my fence and go into my yard after balls. They've jumped over and gone under.

"I even tried electric wire once and that did no good. They just get some insulated gloves and cut that, too.

"Some of them have come up to my yard and announced boldly that they were going in and get their golf ball. Then I'd go get my shotgun.

"All I'm trying to do is protect my property," said Balkcom.

The six contenders tied for second at 136:

—1968 L.A. Open winner Billy Casper with his second 68. He's now a solid bet to take it all after reaching this point in such a strong position.

—Larry Mowry, second in So. Calif. Open last week, who parlayed some sensational short-iron play into the day's low score, a six-under 65.

—Don Massengale (69), winless since capturing the Bing Crosby and Canadian Opens in 1966, but who led at the halfway point in the '67 L.A. Open en route to a third-place finish. His putting was very sharp as he dropped in a 20-footer, a pair of 18-footers and another from 12 feet for birdies to help offset three bogeys.

—Hale Irwin, 24-year-old former all-Big Eight defensive backfield star from the University of Colorado and the 1967 NCAA golf champion, who fired a great 66 highlighted by brilliant putting. He holed out putts of 45, 25 and 10 feet for birds; a 20-footer to save his par on No. 6, and a 10-footer for an eagle three on the par-five 13. "That was the hardest putt all day," he declared. "It was downhill and broke hard to the left."

—Ken Still, who flew to Seattle Thursday night following the first round for a sports banquet, returned at 4:30 a.m. Friday in time to post a second 68. He missed a chance for the lead when 12 to 15-foot birdie putts on three successive holes (14-15-16) stopped an inch short of the hole because water from heavy rain slowed up ball.

—Jim Wright, club pro from Inwood, Long Island, who was fourth in the PGA championship last summer and then finished second to Bobby Rosburg in the PGA's club pro title event in Scottsdale last month, fashioned a 66 featured by an eagle on the par-five eight hole where he sank a 20-foot putt.

Other leading challengers: former USC Trojans Al Geiberger and Dave Stockton, who are at 137 after shooting 69s, and Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton, Fred Marti and R. H. Sikes, who are at 138 with Lunn.

Seventy-two shot 143 for the first 36 holes to make the cut. Long Beach-area golfers who will continue play today are Dick Carmody and Ken Ellsworth, both at 143. Two missed the cut—Pinky Stevenson (144) and Dennis Murphy (145).

Chiefs Motivated, Mature Underdogs

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Motivation and maturity are the intangibles that could swing a Super Bowl victory to the underdog Kansas City Chiefs in the football spectacular the purists are citing as the last true test of supremacy between the two leagues.

The motivation should come from two factors: the news stories that have broken this week, linking the name of quarterback Len Dawson to the nationwide gambling probe and the fact that the Chiefs are here on a mission of redemption.

The maturity will come not so much with age, but with a realization that this club that lost to the Green Bay Packers 35-10 in the first Super Bowl game no longer is awed by the National Football League and the myth of superiority that surrounded the older league.

Dawson will carry the extra burden in this game of having a "casual acquaintance" with a Detroit restaurateur arrested recently by federal agents. It will weigh on his mind, but it is just as likely to provide a motivational plus.

Jerry Mays, the Chiefs' defensive end, put the problem in this frank light: "If we lose Sunday and he throws some bad passes you know what they'll say, don't you? Winning or losing usually is going to fall back on 40 players, but this one would fall back on Lenny."

If the Chiefs ever needed motivation protecting Lenny — not only from the Minnesota front four — but any and all insinuations, they now have it.

There is the assessment made by coach Hank Stram, who said:

"I think it would be incorrect for me to say it hasn't been distracting but I don't think it will have any affect on what we are here to do. Lenny is strong enough to overcome it."

Then there is the matter of redemption — and pride in the AFL. "You're always motivated by the feeling you didn't win last time," said Stram. "We weren't too impressed by a lot of things that were written and said about how we played."

Redemption, however, is only one part of that motivation. The other half is AFL pride. Neither the New York Jets' victory over Baltimore last year nor the Chiefs' successes this year apparently have impressed the oddsmakers with the talent in the AFL.

"We want to win for ourselves but also for the AFL," Mays pointed out. "We're proud of the AFL."

Asked if the odds making the Vikings two-touchdown favorites seemed to reflect a feeling that NFL talent still was superior to the AFL's Mays said:

"Probably so. I'm a bit surprised. But I can't worry about it. There's only one place you prove it."

Maturity has come with age — for it is a fact, almost overlooked, that with the expansion Vikings, who came into existence in 1961, the 10-year old AFL representative for the first time in this series is the older club in point of history.

"I'd be fooling myself to think we weren't in awe of the Packers," Dawson has admitted. "It was the first time the AFL played the NFL and emotionally we were sky high. Now we've played NFL teams in the exhibition season and beaten them.

"The mystery is gone."

Grant Overconfident? 'No Chance'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Some folks say overconfidence helped beat the Baltimore Colts in last year's Super Bowl game; whether it's true or not, coach Bud Grant sees "no chance" his favored Minnesota Vikings will be overconfident in Sunday's game against the Kansas City Chiefs.

"I'm not especially worried about that," Grant said Friday. "If we were so inclined, I think it got knocked out of us when we studied the game films this week and saw how good the Chiefs really are," said the coach of the team the National Football League is counting on to retain mastery in the title contest.

The "Purple People Eaters" from the Northland seemed determined they will not share the fate of the Colts, who were heavily favored last year but took a 16-7 whipping from Broadway Joe Namath and the New York Jets in a stunning upset that brought the American Football League to competitive parity with the older league.

Defensive end Carl Eller, in fact, said he thought that, if anything, the Vikings "are just a little too tight."

"We had a definite advantage playing the Rams and Browns at home," said Grant. "It is to Kansas City's credit that they went to New York and Oakland and won their final two games."

Harking back to the Chiefs' defeat by the Packers in the 1967 Super Bowl game, Grant was asked whether the success the Packers' defense had in "blitzing" Dawson in that game would prompt the Vikings on doing the same.

"That was three years ago," Grant said. "The Chiefs have made many corrections since then. From what we've been able to learn, the blitz hasn't bothered Kansas City much this year."

Long-range weather forecasts call for scattered showers on Sunday. It was clear with temperatures in the 20s Friday — which Grant called "perfect chamber of commerce weather."

Pro Football Realignment Still 'Million Miles Away'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner for professional football, reflected growing impatience Friday with 13 NFL owners who are "a million miles away" on solving the realignment problem caused by their merger with the AFL.

One full year has elapsed since the Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers agreed to switch from the NFL to the AFL, which now is all set with three divisions.

But the 13 clubs, remaining in what probably will now be known as the National Football Conference, still are stalemated regarding the manner in which their three divisions should be made up.

Rozelle will meet with those 13 owners today and hopes to prod them into some action which will produce a definite result by Feb. 1.

"I'd like to have it now," Rozelle said, referring to a positive solution to the lagging solution of which clubs will be in what divisions. "The sooner we get it out of the way the more time we'll have for making up the schedule."

He said the barrier to settling the relignment problem was the fact different clubs placed different emphasis on what they considered important.

"One team wants to be in with a warm weather group," Rozelle explained. "Another team considers the gate of primary importance. A third team is concerned with the competition provided by the other teams in its division, while with a fourth team geography is a factor."

A unanimous vote by all the owners involved is needed to effect the realignment and under the league's constitution Rozelle is not empowered to break the deadlock.

"I've got three or four plans I'd settle for if I could get 13 men to agree," he said.

Dodgers Enlarge TV Slate

Screen 24 Games; Walden Joins Crew

The Dodgers have announced a 24-game television package for 1970, their most elaborate TV schedule in their 13 seasons in Los Angeles.

All Sunday road games, the nine games against the Giants in San Francisco plus three spring training contests will be screened this season on KTTV, Channel 11. The slate includes at least one game from each National League city.

The Dodgers will televise just one game from San Diego this season. In 1969 they screened all nine.

The club also disclosed a slight change in the broadcasting booth.

Vin Scully, the voice of the Dodgers for 21 years, will get some time off in 1970. He'll be replaced for 12 weekday spring training games and 14 regular-season weekday road games by Mike Walden, who airs USC football and basketball on KFI.

Scully will broadcast all the Dodgers' home games as well as the weekend games.

Scully and Jerry Doggett, who will return to the broadcast booth for all the Dodgers' games in 1970, will team for the 24 televised games.

*March 7 — Braves at West Palm Beach; *March 21 — Yankees at Fort Lauderdale; *March 22 — Orioles at Miami; April 19 — Braves at Atlanta; May 10 — Phillies at Philadelphia; May 26-28 — Giants at San Francisco; May 31 — Cardinals at St. Louis; June 7 — Pirates at Pittsburgh; June 21 — Reds at Cincinnati (2); July 3-5 — Giants at San Francisco; July 12 — Padres at San Diego; July 26 — Mets at New York; Aug. 2 — Expos at Montreal; Aug. 16 — Cubs at Chicago; Sept. 6 — Astros at Houston; Sept. 11-13 — Giants at San Francisco; Sept. 27 — Reds at Cincinnati.

Senior, Hula Bowls End Season Today

Combined News Services

The football season, college variety, ends officially today with two more North-South All-Star games — the 21st Senior Bowl game in Mobile, Ala., and the 24th Hula Bowl in Honolulu.

Both games figure to feature plenty of passing and both will have their own little wrinkles.

The Hula Bowl has a special rule which gives the trailing team the option to receive or kick after every score, a maneuver that should keep the game close.

At Mobile the action for the moment, at least, is off the field. In the wake of the disclosure last week of a betting scandal Alabama officials are working overtime trying to keep the gamblers away from the players.

Even the oddsmakers have gone underground. All they'd say is the North is a "slight favorite," because of the passing combination of San Diego State quarterback Dennis Shaw and Idaho receiver Jerry Hendren.

The South, coached by Baltimore coach Don Shula, has a pretty good passing duo, too, in Terry Bradshaw of Louisiana Tech and Bill Cappleman of Florida State.

Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens of Oklahoma heads a South backfield that includes Jon Staggers of Missouri, Rob Anderson of Colorado and quarterback Steve Ramsey of North Texas State.

Directing the North will be Purdue's Mike Phipps, runnerup to Owens in the Heisman balloting. John Isenbarger of Indiana, Jim Carter of Minnesota and Jade Butcher, also of Indiana, are the other backs.

Both games will be televised nationally, the Senior Bowl at 11 a.m. on KNBC (Ch. 4) and the Hula Bowl at 1:30 p.m. on KABC (Ch. 7).

Negotiating May Reopen at S'Anita

Fred H. Ryan, vice president and general manager of Santa Anita, told horsemen Friday that private meetings are going on that may result in the reopening of negotiations between striking service employes and California race tracks.

The strike which kept Santa Anita and a harness meeting at Bay Meadows from opening Dec. 26 entered its 11th day Friday and the cost to horsemen in purse money they have lost was estimated at more than $1 million.

The horsemen convened at a meeting of the California division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn. to hear a progress report on the strike from their president, Charles Leavitt.

Leavitt said the HBPA had full confidence in the management of Santa Anita and the California Federation of Racing Assn. composed of all major tracks in the state.

Ryan said that while official negotiations have not taken place between the tracks and the striking unions, private meetings have been going on.

Chiefs Motivated, Mature Underdogs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Motivation and maturity are the intangibles that could swing a Super Bowl victory to the underdog Kansas City Chiefs in the football spectacular the purists are citing as the last true test of supremacy between the two leagues.

The motivation should come from two factors: the news stories that have broken this week, linking the name of quarterback Len Dawson to the nationwide gambling probe and the fact that the Chiefs are here on a mission of redemption.

The maturity will come not so much with age, but with a realization that this club that lost to the Green Bay Packers 35-10 in the first Super Bowl game no longer is awed by the National Football League and the myth of superiority that surrounded the older league.

Dawson will carry the extra burden in this game of having a "casual acquaintance" with a Detroit restaurateur arrested recently by federal agents. It will weigh on his mind, but it is just as likely to provide a motivational plus.

Jerry Mays, the Chiefs' defensive end, put the problem in this frank light: "If we lose Sunday and he throws some bad passes you know what they'll say, don't you? Winning or losing usually is going to fall back on 40 players, but this one would fall back on Lenny."

If the Chiefs ever needed motivation protecting Lenny — not only from the Minnesota front four — but any and all insinuations, they now have it.

There is the assessment made by coach Hank Stram, who said:

"I think it would be incorrect for me to say it hasn't been distracting but I don't think it will have any affect on what we are here to do. Lenny is strong enough to overcome it."

Then there is the matter of redemption — and pride in the AFL. "You're always motivated by the feeling you didn't win last time," said Stram. "We weren't too impressed by a lot of things that were written and said about how we played."

Redemption, however, is only one part of that motivation. The other half is AFL pride. Neither the New York Jets' victory over Baltimore last year nor the Chiefs' successes this year apparently have impressed the oddsmakers with the talent in the AFL.

"We want to win for ourselves but also for the AFL," Mays pointed out. "We're proud of the AFL."

Asked if the odds making the Vikings two-touchdown favorites seemed to reflect a feeling that NFL talent still was superior to the AFL's Mays said:

"Probably so. I'm a bit surprised. But I can't worry about it. There's only one place you prove it."

Maturity has come with age — for it is a fact, almost overlooked, that with the expansion Vikings, who came into existence in 1961, the 10-year old AFL representative for the first time in this series is the older club in point of history.

"I'd be fooling myself to think we weren't in awe of the Packers," Dawson has admitted. "It was the first time the AFL played the NFL and emotionally we were sky high. Now we've played NFL teams in the exhibition season and beaten them.

Pro Football Realignment Still 'Million Miles Away'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner for professional football, reflected growing impatience Friday with 13 NFL owners who are "a million miles away" on solving the realignment problem caused by their merger with the AFL.

One full year has elapsed since the Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers agreed to switch from the NFL to the AFL, which now is all set with three divisions.

But the 13 clubs, remaining in what probably will now be known as the National Football Conference, still are stalemated regarding the manner in which their three divisions should be made up.

Rozelle will meet with those 13 owners today and hopes to prod them into some action which will produce a definite result by Feb. 1.

"I'd like to have it now," Rozelle said, referring to a positive solution to the lagging solution of which clubs will be in what divisions. "The sooner we get it out of the way the more time we'll have for making up the schedule."

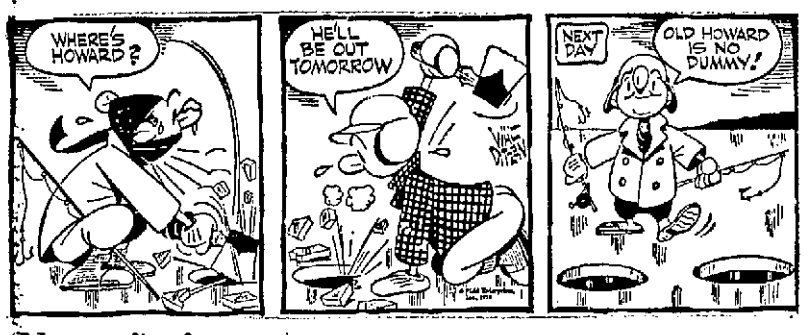

He said the barrier to settling the relignment problem was the fact different clubs placed different emphasis on what they considered important.

"One team wants to be in with a warm weather group," Rozelle explained. "Another team considers the gate of primary importance. A third team is concerned with the competition provided by the other teams in its division, while with a fourth team geography is a factor."

A unanimous vote by all the owners involved is needed to effect the realignment and under the league's constitution Rozelle is not empowered to break the deadlock.

"I've got three or four plans I'd settle for if I could get 13 men to agree," he said.

FANFARE

Negotiating May Reopen at S'Anita

Fred H. Ryan, vice president and general manager of Santa Anita, told horsemen Friday that private meetings are going on that may result in the reopening of negotiations between striking service employes and California race tracks.

The strike which kept Santa Anita and a harness meeting at Bay Meadows from opening Dec. 26 entered its 11th day Friday and the cost to horsemen in purse money they have lost was estimated at more than $1 million.

The horsemen convened at a meeting of the California division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn. to hear a progress report on the strike from their president, Charles Leavitt.

Leavitt said the HBPA had full confidence in the management of Santa Anita and the California Federation of Racing Assn. composed of all major tracks in the state.

Ryan said that while official negotiations have not taken place between the tracks and the striking unions, private meetings have been going on.

Rick Hendricks paced Wilson with a double win but the Panthers' Gary Horne broke a four-year Bee Moore League record in the 50 freestyle and set a Bee school record in the 100.

Grant Overconfident? 'No Chance'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Some folks say overconfidence helped beat the Baltimore Colts in last year's Super Bowl game; whether it's true or not, coach Bud Grant sees "no chance" his favored Minnesota Vikings will be overconfident in Sunday's game against the Kansas City Chiefs.

"I'm not especially worried about that," Grant said Friday. "If we were so inclined, I think it got knocked out of us when we studied the game films this week and saw how good the Chiefs really are," said the coach of the team the National Football League is counting on to retain mastery in the title contest.

The "Purple People Eaters" from the Northland seemed determined they will not share the fate of the Colts, who were heavily favored last year but took a 16-7 whipping from Broadway Joe Namath and the New York Jets in a stunning upset that brought the American Football League to competitive parity with the older league.

Defensive end Carl Eller, in fact, said he thought that, if anything, the Vikings "are just a little too tight."

"We had a definite advantage playing the Rams and Browns at home," said Grant. "It is to Kansas City's credit that they went to New York and Oakland and won their final two games."

Harking back to the Chiefs' defeat by the Packers in the 1967 Super Bowl game, Grant was asked whether the success the Packers' defense had in "blitzing" Dawson in that game would prompt the Vikings on doing the same.

"That was three years ago," Grant said. "The Chiefs have made many corrections since then. From what we've been able to learn, the blitz hasn't bothered Kansas City much this year."

Long-range weather forecasts call for scattered showers on Sunday. It was clear with temperatures in the 20s Friday — which Grant called "perfect chamber of commerce weather."

Dodgers Enlarge TV Slate

Screen 24 Games; Walden Joins Crew

The Dodgers have announced a 24-game television package for 1970, their most elaborate TV schedule in their 13 seasons in Los Angeles.

All Sunday road games, the nine games against the Giants in San Francisco plus three spring training contests will be screened this season on KTTV, Channel 11. The slate includes at least one game from each National League city.

The Dodgers will televise just one game from San Diego this season. In 1969 they screened all nine.

The club also disclosed a slight change in the broadcasting booth.

Vin Scully, the voice of the Dodgers for 21 years, will get some time off in 1970. He'll be replaced for 12 weekday spring training games and 14 regular-season weekday road games by Mike Walden, who airs USC football and basketball on KFI.

Scully will broadcast all the Dodgers' home games as well as the weekend games.

Scully and Jerry Doggett, who will return to the broadcast booth for all the Dodgers' games in 1970, will team for the 24 televised games.

*March 7 — Braves at West Palm Beach; *March 21 — Yankees at Fort Lauderdale; *March 22 — Orioles at Miami; April 19 — Braves at Atlanta; May 10 — Phillies at Philadelphia; May 26-28 — Giants at San Francisco; May 31 — Cardinals at St. Louis; June 7 — Pirates at Pittsburgh; June 21 — Reds at Cincinnati (2); July 3-5 — Giants at San Francisco; July 12 — Padres at San Diego; July 26 — Mets at New York; Aug. 2 — Expos at Montreal; Aug. 16 — Cubs at Chicago; Sept. 6 — Astros at Houston; Sept. 11-13 — Giants at San Francisco; Sept. 27 — Reds at Cincinnati.

MAYS TABBED BEST PLAYER OF DECADE

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants has been selected baseball's Player of the Decade by The Sporting News.

The newspaper described Mays as "the complete player. With bat, arm, glove and legs, Mays has proved his superiority."

Mays, a veteran of 17 major league seasons, ranks second to Babe Ruth as the leading home run hitter of all time.

Mays hit his 600th home run last season.

College Football Finales

Senior, Hula Bowls End Season Today

Combined News Services

The football season, college variety, ends officially today with two more North-South All-Star games — the 21st Senior Bowl game in Mobile, Ala., and the 24th Hula Bowl in Honolulu.

Both games figure to feature plenty of passing and both will have their own little wrinkles.

The Hula Bowl has a special rule which gives the trailing team the option to receive or kick after every score, a maneuver that should keep the game close.

At Mobile the action for the moment, at least, is off the field. In the wake of the disclosure last week of a betting scandal Alabama officials are working overtime trying to keep the gamblers away from the players.

Even the oddsmakers have gone underground. All they'd say is the North is a "slight favorite," because of the passing combination of San Diego State quarterback Dennis Shaw and Idaho receiver Jerry Hendren.

The South, coached by Baltimore coach Don Shula, has a pretty good passing duo, too, in Terry Bradshaw of Louisiana Tech and Bill Cappleman of Florida State.

Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens of Oklahoma heads a South backfield that includes Jon Staggers of Missouri, Bob Anderson of Colorado and quarterback Steve Ramsey of North Texas State.

Directing the North will be Purdue's Mike Phipps, runnerup to Owens in the Heisman balloting. John Isenbarger of Indiana, Jim Carter of Minnesota and Jade Butcher, also of Indiana, are the other backs.

Both games will be televised nationally, the Senior Bowl at 11 a.m. on KNBC (Ch. 4) and the Hula Bowl at 1:30 p.m. on KABC (Ch. 7).

VOICELESS MEDEA

Callas—Marked by Passion's Fire

By DENNIS REDMONT

ROME (AP) — Soprano Maria Callas lost her voice for her film debut Friday in the title role of "Medea," but most Italian critics said they didn't mind that both her speaking and singing were dubbed.

The fiery singer embarked on a film career with Italy's controversial poet-film director, Pier Paolo Pasolini, of "The Gospel According to St. Matthew," "Oedipus Rex" and "Teorama."

BECAUSE Pasolini deemed her accent too strong, La Callas' voice had to be dubbed in the Italian version of the film, while she mouthed English words before the camera. According to Pasolini, the operatic star speaks normally "in a mixture of Venetian and American."

Only a few critics objected to the dubbing, and praised the singer's stunning presence on the screen as the enchantress who helps Jason steal the Golden Fleece.

"The diction is weak and not very incisive," commented the critic of the Communist organ L'Unita. "But she has a vigorous and statutsque demeanor."

"La Callas is an ancient cameo, marked by the fires of passion on which blow — like gusts of wind — hate, love, anguish, folly," echoed Rome's conservative afternoon Giornale d'Italia.

BROOKLYN-BORN STAR MARIA CALLAS
Soprano's Accent Forced Dubbing in 'Medea'

Momento Sera said it missed the greek soprano's impetuous opera performance of Medea in a work by Cherubini, directed by Luchino Visconti.

The only music Miss Callas sings in the film is a lullaby before she puts her children to sleep — and stabs them to death. Most of the soundtrack, as in many Pasolini movies, is Tibetan and Japantse, with other Oriental sounds mixed in.

Critics were not kind to Pasolini, the enfant-terrible of Italian movies. Some called the work "too obscure." Others saw it as "a rebus."

THE ORGAN of the Italian Socialist party, l'Avanti, interpreted it as a symbolic conflict between colonizers (Jason) and the colonized (Medea) "where violence represses civilization."

L'Unita also saw it as a conflict between the third world and Technologically advanced countries.

Most of the pans went to bearded Giuseppe Gentile, Italy's bronze medalist in the triple jump at the last Olympics, who was also making his debut before the cameras. One critic said he preferred Gentile's performance in Mexico.

'Scuba' Dud Opens to Full and Compassionate House

By ROBERT C. WYLDER
Drama Critic

Bruce Jay Friedman's "Scuba Duba" has opened at the Huntington Hartford Theater before a full and enthusiastic house. What the playgoers were full of (compassion, maybe?) or enthusiastic about I can't say, for in my opinion the whole production was a scuba dud.

"Scuba Duba" is billed as a "tense comedy." However, it is never tense and only fitfully funny. Maybe the audience is supposed to get tense while waiting for something to happen. It never does.

HERE'S THE situation: Harold Wonder, an American on vacation with his family in the south of France, is sitting around his chateau in his bathrobe bemoaning the fact that his wife has run off again, this time with a black scuba diver, a "spade frogman" in his terms. A nubile young lady who is chateau-sitting in a neighboring place is more than willing to help him forget his anguish, but Harold is too distraught — or something — to accept the kind offer.

Wife returns with black frogman and black poet. Discussion, some flailing about, a number of racial slurs. Wife and blacks leave. The obliging young neighbor leaves. Harold sits around in his bathrobe bemoaning the fact that his wife has run off with a black scuba diver and a black poet. Curtain.

There are a few other bits of action besides that main story sequence. A thief comes into the chateau, is apprehended, and makes a speech claiming that everyone is a thief. An American tourist wanders in and out from time to time, apparently just to give the playwright a chance to present his version of that great cliche the Ugly American. A psychoanalyst and his trollop appear briefly, for much the same reason. None of this is remotely connected with what is going on otherwise, and none of it is funny enough to justify itself. The result is more embarrassment than amusement.

NOT THAT there aren't a few funny moments: when the girl next door stops massaging Harold's knee and starts kissing it passionately, when Harold calls his mother in New York, when . . . Well, there must have been a couple of others. They are just very forgettable.

Judi West as the would-be obliging neighbor is about the only member of the cast who survives the play, mostly because she rises above it. Her portrayal of the Essential Female as Young Nymph goes beyond the lines she is given to read (which are the best in the play, at that).

VOICELESS MEDEA

Callas–Marked by Passion's Fire

By DENNIS REDMONT

ROME (AP) — Soprano Maria Callas lost her voice for her film debut Friday in the title role of "Medea," but most Italian critics said they didn't mind that both her speaking and singing were dubbed.

The fiery singer embarked on a film career with Italy's controversial poet-film director, Pier Paolo Pasolini, of "The Gospel According to St. Matthew," "Oedipus Rex" and "Teorama."

BECAUSE Pasolini deemed her accent too strong, La Callas' voice had to be dubbed in the Italian version of the film, while she mouthed English words before the camera. According to Pasolini, the operatic star speaks normally "in a mixture of Venetian and American."

Only a few critics objected to the dubbing, and praised the singer's stunning presence on the screen as the enchantress who helps Jason steal the Golden Fleece.

"The diction is weak and not very incisive," commented the critic of the Communist organ L'Unita. "But she has a vigorous and statutsque demeanor."

"La Callas is an ancient cameo, marked by the fires of passion on which blow — like gusts of wind — hate, love, anguish, folly," echoed Rome's conservative afternoon Giornale d'Italia.

"It is a face made of dead ashes and burning coals."

ONLY ONE critic deplored La Callas' performance, calling it "fatally inadequate" in the second part of the film, where Medea kills her woman rival and her two children by Jason, after the Argonaut has deserted her.

Momento Sera said it missed the greek soprano's impetuous opera performance of Medea in a work by Cherubini, directed by Luchino Visconti.

The only music Miss Callas sings in the film is a lullaby before she puts her children to sleep — and stabs them to death. Most of the soundtrack, as in many Pasolini movies, is Tibetan and Japantse, with other Oriental sounds mixed in.

Critics were not kind to Pasolini, the enfant-terrible of Italian movies. Some called the work "too obscure." Others saw it as "a rebus."

THE ORGAN of the Italian Socialist party, l'Avanti, interpreted it as a symbolic conflict between colonizers (Jason) and the colonized (Medea) "where violence represses civilization."

L'Unita also saw it as a conflict between the third world and Technologically advanced countries.

Most of the pans went to bearded Giuseppe Gentile, Italy's bronze medalist in the triple jump at the last Olympics, who was also making his debut before the cameras. One critic said he preferred Gentile's performance in Mexico.

'Scuba' Dud Opens to Full and Compassionate House

By ROBERT C. WYLDER
Drama Critic

Bruce Jay Friedman's "Scuba Duba" has opened at the Huntington Hartford Theater before a full and enthusiastic house. What the playgoers were full of (compassion, maybe?) or enthusiastic about I can't say, for in my opinion the whole production was a scuba dud.

"Scuba Duba" is billed as a "tense comedy." However, it is never tense and only fitfully funny. Maybe the audience is supposed to get tense while waiting for something to happen. It never does.

HERE'S THE situation: Harold Wonder, an American on vacation with his family in the south of France, is sitting around his chateau in his bathrobe bemoaning the fact that his wife has run off again, this time with a black scuba diver, a "spade frogman" in his terms. A nubile young lady who is chateau-sitting in a neighboring place is more than willing to help him forget his anguish, but Harold is too distraught — or something — to accept the kind offer.

Wife returns with black frogman and black poet. Discussion, some flailing about, a number of racial slurs. Wife and blacks leave. The obliging young neighbor leaves. Harold sits around in his bathrobe bemoaning the fact that his wife has run off with a black scuba diver and a black poet. Curtain.

There are a few other bits of action besides that main story sequence. A thief comes into the chateau, is apprehended, and makes a speech claiming that everyone is a thief. An American tourist wanders in and out from time to time, apparently just to give the playwright a chance to present his version of that great cliche the ugly American. A psychoanalyst and his trollop appear briefly, for much the same reason. None of this is remotely connected with what is going on otherwise, and none of it is funny enough to justify itself. The result is more embarrassment than amusement.

NOT THAT there aren't a few funny moments: when the girl next door stops massaging Harold's knee and starts kissing it passionately, when Harold calls his mother in New York, when . . . Well, there must have been a couple of others. They are just very forgettable.

Judi West as the would-be obliging neighbor is about the only member of the cast who survives the play, mostly because she rises above it. Her portrayal of the Essential Female as Young Nymph goes beyond the lines she is given to read (which are the best in the play, at that).

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's brief but brisk yearend rally evaporated early the past week, and the market drifted lower as investors displayed a marked disinterest.

The rally carried over into Monday on the lifting of yearend tax-loss selling pressure but that was the end.

Two members of President Nixon's Cabinet —Housing Secretary George W. Romney and Labor Secretary George P. Shultz—suggested that the time might be near for a relaxation of monetary restraints. Some investment analysts thought these statements might be encouraging to investors but they were ignored.

"The feeling now seems to be that nothing significant in the way of credit easing can be considered until the size of the administratio's fiscal 1971 budget is revealed," said analyst Newton D. Zinder of the brokerage firm of E. F. Hutton & Co. "Obviously, just talk of easier credit is not having any impact on the market at present."

Analysts said it seemed apparent that investors were waiting to hear President Nixon's State of the Union and budget messages to Congress later this month before deciding which way to turn.

On Tuesday the market took a sizable loss under profit taking after the rally in the previous four sessions. It dipped Wednesday, held about even Thursday, and on Friday there was a moderate setback.

For the week the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 11.09 to 798.11. The Associated Press 60-stock average dropped 1.2 to 274.8.

Among the 20 most-active issues on the New York exchange, 12 advanced, and 8 declined.

The biggest swings in this group included Lums, off 4 to 16⅞; Leasco Data, off 3½ to 26; Xerox, up 2⅜ to 106⅞; General Electric, off 3½ to 73⅛; Electronic Memories, off 3½ to 35⅛; Transamerica, off 2½ to 23¾, and Boise Cascade, off 3⅛ to 72¾.

Of 1,738 issues traded on the Big Board, 918 advanced, and 711 declined. There were 55 new 1969-70 lows and 50 new highs.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks jogged slowly, going nowhere this week despite a comment from Labor Secretary George P. Shultz that tight money policies should be eased before they send the nation into a recession. Turnover was moderate.

While stressing that he was speaking for himself and not for the Nixon administration, Shultz said, "we need a policy of restraint, but not one so drastic. The money policies of the federal reserve board (FED) are too tight now." He thus became the first cabinet official to call for an immediate loosening of tight money policies which began last spring.

NEVERTHELESS, the grumbling on Wall Street was that the market can't be talked up. "It needs some real proof that the government is in fact shifting toward a moderation of credit restrictions," said Monte Gordon, vice president of Bache & Co. Brokerage.

Commenting on Shultz' statement, Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton brokerage, said "you need more than just hopeful statments that easier credit is in the offing."

Lucien Hooper, Analyst for W. E. Hutton, expected hesitation on the part of many investors until President Nixon delivers the State of the Union and budget messages later this month.

Robert B. Johnson, partner in charge of research at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, said "any meaningful rally would need encouraging news about easier money or Vietnam." The Communist delegation boycotted the first 1970 session of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

The Labor Department reported the nation's unemployment rate held steady at 3.4 per cent in the final month of last year. But a government official declined to speculate on what the latest figures meant in relation to anti-inflation efforts. Nixon had said an increase in the jobless rate would be necessary to curb inflation.

SPECIAL!

It has a complete kitchen, and dining/lounge area. It has its own water system, ice box, even optional furnace and toilet. It can sleep four, and has plenty of storage. The fiber glass roof is full-height and full-length. Beneath it all is the strength and reliability of a Ford Super Econoline.

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

It has a complete kitchen, and dining/lounge area. It has its own water system, ice box, even optional furnace and toilet. It can sleep four, and has plenty of storage. The fiber glass roof is full-height and full-length. Beneath it all is the strength and reliability of a Ford Super Econoline.

And when you're not off on vacation and long weekends, the Minihome serves as a second car and station wagon.

Come see the Minihome™ today. You'll see what campers can be when somebody wants to make you really comfortable.
